

John	34:37	Okay. I think you only take licenses once you're sued.
Scott	34:51	No. Not true. Not true.
John	35:02	Has to be.
Scott	35:06	What was that comment?
John	35:08	Has to be.
Scott	35:09	Has to be? No, I just told you not true.
John	35:14	And I don't believe you. And I just don't believe it, based on your tenor and your tone and this discussion.
Scott	35:23	Okay. Well, when I'm deposed, I will explain to you exactly the licenses we've taken. Okay?
John	35:32	See, it's amazing. You use words like plaintiff, you use deposed. You got litigation in your title. This is the exact reason why I didn't wanna deal with you guys. I wanna just deal with the business guy.
Scott	35:42	Because you -- because you want something in our -- in our products?
John	35:46	I just wanna -- I just ---
Scott	35:47	You think -- you think you have something valuable to put in our products?
John	35:53	It's in your products.
Scott	35:53	Then explain it. No. Oh. Well, that -- no, that's a legal discussion.
John	36:00	But it's a business risk. Make the decision. Where do you wanna solve it? You wanna solve it in a conference room or do you wanna solve it in a courtroom?  Somehow you think when you went to law school it became a black and white world, but, unfortunately, it's got 32 shades of grey.
Scott	36:26	Okay, John. Anything else to say?
John	36:29	No.
Scott	36:30	Thank you.
