don't know how to react to that, but when i look back at the past efforts Finjan has tried to get you or your staff to discuss our infringement claims on the merits, there's been a specific behavior of avoidance on Jumper's part.

Regardless of what Juniper's position is, I would appreciate the courtesy of a straight response from you. Do you want to have meaningful discussions or not?

Hi Meredith. I look forward to seeing you tomorrow. I think it would be a good idea for us to meet sometime tomorrow - over coffee or wine - to see if there's a path for us to resolve our long-standing patent dispute. When do you think would be a good time?

Julie

I am out of town this week, but will actually be able to attend ChIPs next week. Maybe we can set aside some time while we are both there.

Hi Julie -

I am out of the office for a few days on PTO, but will review when I get back and we can schedule a time to talk.

Attached is a courtesy copy of Finjan, Inc.'s Complaint for Patent Infringement by Juniper, filed this past Friday. As you know, the dispute has been complicated by Juniper's recent acquisition of Cyphort, since Cyphort and Finjan had agreed in principle on license terms just prior to the announcement of the acquisition.

As always, I'd be happy to meet with you or someone with the requisite authority to resolve our dispute. Please let me know either way.

I can't make lunch that day due to a previous commitment, but I could meet for coffee at 10 or 10:30.

No worries. A common ailment of us attorneys.... 3/17 will work. Shall we plan on lunch?
