Israeli corporation. Finjan was a pioneer in developing proactive security technologies capable of 1 detecting previously unknown and emerging online security threats, recognized today under the 2 3 umbrella of "malware." These technologies protect networks and endpoints by identifying suspicious 4 patterns and behaviors of content delivered over the Internet. Finjan has been awarded, and continues 5 to prosecute, numerous patents in the United States and around the world as a result of Finjan's more 6 than decade-long research and development efforts, supported by many inventors. 7

8. Finjan built and sold software, including application programming interfaces and 8 appliances for network security, using these patented technologies. Finjan's licensing partners 9 continue to support these products and customers. At its height, Finjan employed nearly 150 10 11 employees around the world, building and selling security products, while operating the Malicious 12 Code Research Center through which it frequently published research regarding network security and 13 current threats on the Internet. Finjan's pioneering approach to online security drew equity 14 investments from two major software and technology companies, the first in 2005 and the second in 15 2006. 16

9. Finjan generated millions of dollars in product sales and related services and support 17 revenues through 2009, when it spun off certain hardware and technology assets in a merger. Pursuant 18 19 to this merger, Finjan was bound to a non-compete and confidentiality agreement, under which it 20 could not make or sell a competing product or disclose the existence of the non-compete clause.

10. Finjan became a publicly traded company in June 2013, capitalized with $30 million. 22 After Finjan's obligations under the non-compete and confidentiality agreement expired in March 23 2015, Finjan re-entered the development and production sector of secure products for the consumer market. On June 16, 2015, Finjan introduced its first Finjan Mobile Secure Browser, which offers 25 26 users security and awareness to keep their data safe while surfing the web on their mobile devices.

11. Finjan's commitment to innovation in the security space continues through incubating 1 and investing in up-and-coming technology startups that are pioneering a new generation of security 2 3 technologies. Finjan has distributed $1 million of a $5 million commitment to one such startup so far. 4 Additionally, in June 2015, Finjan announced the expansion of its "Mobile Defense Challenge 2015" 5 for College Students, in which a $40,000 grant will be awarded to develop a winning security 6 application. Also in June 2015, Finjan launched CybeRisk Security Solutions, a product that provides 7 cybersecurity risk advisory services to customers around the world. 8
