(Call to Order of the Court.)

THE COURT: Good afternoon. Please be seated.

This is a hearing in the case of Advanced Ground Information Systems, Inc. versus Life360, Inc. The Case Number is 14-80651.

Could we start with appearances, please.

MR. FISCHER: Your Honor, Ury Fischer, Lott and Fischer, on behalf of AGIS. And with me are local counsel. I will allow them to introduce themselves.

MR. BAGDENOCH: Your Honor, George Badenoch from Kenyon & Kenyon also for plaintiff AGIS. With me is my partner Tom Makin and associate Vince Rubino.

THE COURT: Good afternoon.

MR. CHRISTU: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Eric Christu and Daniel Barsky with Shutts & Bowen for the defendant Life360. I will let Mr. Baldauff and Mr. Clark, co-counsel, introduce themselves.

MR. BALDAUF: Good afternoon, Your Honor. Kent Baldauf, Junior, from the Webb Law Firm in Pittsburgh. With me is Brian Clark from my office as well.

THE COURT: Good afternoon.

Okay. This is a Markman hearing on claim construction. What do you plan to do today?

MR. BAGDENOCH: Your Honor, the parties did discuss how to proceed, and I think we're agreed on the basic

1 procedure. We're planning to start with a tutorial. And for
2 that purpose my partner Tom Makin is going to present some
3 testimony from our expert witness Professor Ben Goldberg who is 4 here with us. Then at the end of that the other side will
5 present a tutorial, ask any questions they want of Professor
6 Goldberg, and then we would start the Markman.

7 And we've split that up. I'm planning to do some 8 of -- we tried to group the terms in a logical way for the 9 Court. I'm planning to do some of the terms. Basically
10 there's several groups of terms where we -- the basic 11 difference is we think we should have a simple definition. We
12 think they're adding too much stuff in the way of negative
13 limitations and so on.

14 And then there's some terms where the main issue is 15 whether it should or should not be construed as a
16 means-plus-function type element, and my partner Tom Makin is 17 going to handle those. And because they involve the question
18 of whether a person skilled in the art would understand that a
19 term connotes something structural, he's also planning to have 20 testimony from our expert, Professor Goldberg, on that. And 21 then the other side would then present their tutorial. And so
22 that's the way we basically lined it up.

23 I should mention one other thing. If the Court has 24 time at the end of this, we do have still some problems with 25 discovery. The parties do keep talking, but we're still at a
