Thank you for your time to discuss what we have entitled Project Safari

2
First let me say we are thrilled to meet w/you as we are excited about this potential business combination.

Based on our previous experience, we believe this could be an accelerant to separate ATEC from the herd of widget makers in spine and move to become a procedural solutions provider.

We will provide details to a deal, involving $15m purchase with another $15 in incentives

This provides safeop shareholders a return of capital plus combining w/the company best suited to exploiting the technology and delivering a return w/o further injecting significant additional capital.

We would like to move quickly, w/goal of a definitive agreement w/in 60 days.

Had the opportunity to take Chris on our nickel tour and spend time w/him. Wish he could be on every commute to LA, as we made record time. And the opportunity for dinner w/mr Tullis. Some background for the rest of you.

We are Re-building a historically troubled company in a large and growing market.

ATEC is well established, #8 publicly traded spine hardware company, NOW executing on a Vision to be the most respected fastest growing US spine co.

We believe there is a huge opportunity for value creation, as we are traded at a fraction of our peers.

New leadership team and BOD, that have worked together in spine before, focusing on driving innovation.

Our turnaround is in progress. We have improved the financial performance, are transitioning our distribution channel and have completely changed the organization & culture

4
As you look at the organization changes, this was the bod & exec team in 2016. As you can see, only 3 remain today.

Here is the ne leadership and BOD. As you can also see, most of have worked together prior, in spine. Companies like Medtronic sofamor danek, Depuy Spine and of course Nuvasive.

So it's clear to say that ATEC is Under new leadership, and we believe and have proven, SPINE EXPERIENCE COUNTS!

As THE industry executive MOST responsible for commercializing lateral surgery, building the $500+M market, I'd like to turn it over to Pat.
