1 take a case like this to trial to a jury it will be easier for 2 you to present and easier for the jury to resolve the more you
3 can simplify it, and one way to simplify it is to reduce the 4 number of claims. That is not to say that the jurors will in 5 any way, shape, or form be stupid. They're not. I've never 6 had a dumb jury yet, and I've been at it for 23 years. And 7 even in the patent case that I tried to a jury -- I think only 8 one -- I was amazed at how well the jurors were able to grasp 9 the concepts. But still, for the jurors and for me, and I
10 suspect for you guys who are going to have the difficult task 11 of presenting the case, the more you can reduce, the better.

12 Okay. I'll take you at your word, Mr. Wang, that 13 this is something you're willing to sit down with Mr. Cordell
14 -- he said you didn't respond to his June 14th letter, so I'm 15 going to take your word for it that you will be responding 16 promptly and fully to his invitation to try to reduce these 17 claims and the corresponding prior art that goes with them.
18 Fair enough?

19 MR. WANG: We -- thank you, Your Honor. This is 20 Mr. Wang. We absolutely will, and we'll provide a proposal
21 tonight.

22 THE COURT: Good. Okay, Mr. Cordell, you had some 23 other things you wanted to talk about in the instructions.

24 MR. CORDELL: Yes, Your Honor. So -- and I apologize
25 about not moving as quickly, but going to page 8, one of the
