Plaintiff’s Disclosure of Supplemental Accused Products and Asserted Patents

In accordance with the Court’s October 23, 2018 Scheduling Order (D.I. 81) and Section 4.a of the Default Standard for Discovery, Including Discovery of Electronically Stored Information, Plaintiff Arendi S.A.R.L. (“Arendi”) provides this disclosure of supplemental accused products, accused devices, and accused instrumentalities (“the Accused Products”) that infringe one or more claims of U.S. Patent Nos. 7,496,854; 7,917,843; 7,921,356 and/or 8,306,993 with respect to defendant Google LLC. The list in Exhibit 1 is deemed to include all variations of the Accused Products with respect to size, color, memory capacity, carrier, processor type/speed, display resolution, operating system version, or any other feature.

In the attached Exhibit 1, Arendi has endeavored to identify, using publicly available information and without the benefit of any formal discovery, the product names and/or model numbers of the devices identified above. Providing such names and/or model numbers using only public information has been complicated by the frequently inconsistent naming conventions used by Defendants to characterize the products and/or their model numbers, the changes Defendants have made to the nomenclature used to describe the Accused Products during the relevant time period, in some cases changing the names multiple times per year, and the different product names used by resellers to identify what appear to be the same products. Accordingly, the names and/or model numbers included in Exhibit 1 should not be read as an exhaustive listing of the names and model numbers of the Accused Products during the relevant time periods. Arendi reserves the right to modify, amend, supplement, or correct its disclosure of Accused Products.
