Court	Court of Amsterdam
Date of ruling	08/11/2012
Date of publication	09/11/2012
Case number	527175 / KG ZA 12-1351 Pee/MV
Areas of law	Civil law
Special features	Summary proceedings
Content summary	843a Dutch Code of Civil Procedure no legitimate interest.
	The bankruptcy trustee of Palm Invest demands surrender of documents from ABN AMRO in order to be able to provide proof that the bank has acted in conflict with its special duty of care by making a payment account available to Palm Invest and not, or at least not sufficiently monitoring the course of the payments on the account and not taking measures against Palm Invest in a timely manner.
	The bankruptcy trustee deems it unacceptable in any event that he has such a claim, whether due to breach of contract, due to tort, or as a Peeters/Gatzen claim. The question of whether he has such a claim will in his opinion be apparent from study of the documents that are the subject of this suit.
	The claim is denied. Art. 834a of the Dutch Code of Civil Procedure does not grant carte blanche to demand unlimited surrender of documents in order to use them to investigate whether there is perhaps liability for damage that the bankruptcy trustee has discovered in the estate. The bankruptcy trustee has no legitimate interest in the surrender.
	Unnecessarily, it has been considered that a portion of the requested documents have not been sufficiently specified within the meaning of Art. 843a of the Dutch Code of Civil Procedure and that the Client Due Diligence dossier was prepared for the benefit of the bank and not for the benefit of the client.
