HONORABLE SARAH NETBURN (THE COURT): --

everybody, this is Judge Netburn. This case is Network-1 Technologies versus Google, et al. The docket number is 14cv9558 and 14cv2396.

Can I ask counsel for plaintiff, Network-1, to state her appearance.

MR. BRIAN LEDAHL: Thank you, Your Honor, it's Brian Ledahl from Russ August & Kabat on behalf of Network-1. I believe also on the call on our side are my colleagues, Marc Fenster and Amy Hayden from my firm, and Charles Macedo from the Amster Rothstein firm.

THE COURT: Thank you, good afternoon. And on behalf of the defendants?

MR. ANDREW TRASK: Good afternoon, Your Honor, this is Andrew Trask for defendants, Google and YouTube from Williams & Connolly, and joining me is Graham Safty, as well as Demarron Berkley who is senior litigation counsel in-house at Google.

THE COURT: Great, thank you. Some housekeeping matters, I am recording today's conference, we weren't able to get a court reporter here because of a radical shortage of court reporters that we're facing so I'm recording today's conference.

2 If anyone wants to have a transcript made of the 3 conference you can request that of my deputy. To 4 facilitate that possible transcription, I'll ask that 5 the lawyers state their name every time they speak so 6 that any transcriber will know to whom to attribute any 7 statements.

8 We are here on the letter that was filed with 9 Judge Gardephe that he referred to me filed on 10 September 7th, it's a joint letter regarding the 11 supplemental expert report that Network-1's expert
12 filed. As I understand the landscape, this expert 13 report was developed and served following supplemental 14 discovery which itself was necessitated after Google
15 announced that it had moved I believe the servers or 16 the relevant technology out of the United States and as 17 a result parties came to me and requested permission
18 which was granted to conduct new supplemental discovery
19 and to allow Network-1, if it chose, to serve a 20 supplemental expert report based on that supplemental 21 discovery.

22 Just so I make sure I've got the history
23 right, does that all sound correct to everybody?

24 MR. TRASK: This is Andrew Trask, Your Honor, 25 that sounds right to me.
