We requested this call to seek permission to expunge that exhibit, 2011, that you just referred to, which is Mr. Brumfield's testimony in a District Court trial, so it was not prepared for these proceedings, and we said that the in the testimony only a handful of times in our patent owner's responses, and to support just three points.

As Your Honors may recall, we agreed on our last call to let petitioner depose Mr. Brumfield; rather, that the deposition was strictly limited to the testimony we relied on for our patent owner's responses, but we have since recognized that most of our cites to Brumfield are redundant, because our two points are also supported by other exhibits in the record.

For example, the patent itself, or the patents themselves, I should say, so any additional support from our points from the Brumfield testimony is not worth the additional cost of the deposition, and because we had previously agreed to let the deposition move forward only on the
