ANN ARBOR, Mich., Aug. 17, 2015 /PRNewswire/ -- Domino's Pizza (NYSE: DPZ), the recognized world leader in pizza delivery, knows that customers, even celebrities, want to be able to order their pizzas from anywhere, at any time, on any device. Domino's newest TV campaign, which begins today, features Eva Longoria, Sarah Hyland, Richard Sherman, Clark Gregg, and their favorite ways to order, using Domino's AnyWare™.

"Thanks to the AnyWare suite of technology, customers can place their favorite order via text, tweet, TV, smartwatch and more," said Dennis Maloney, Domino's vice president – chief digital officer. "Domino's newest TV commercials showcase celebrities placing orders on their favorite devices, proving that, for every type of personality and in any situation, there's a perfect way to order."

In these celebrity-centric TV ads, Domino's teams up stars with their favorite ordering method: Longoria through her TV, Hyland with the pizza emoji text, Sherman through Twitter® and Gregg with his smartwatch.

"Domino's makes it so easy to order your favorite pizza," Longoria said. "Within a few clicks of a button, or in my case, TV remote, your dinner is ordered – and you never have to leave your sofa or miss a moment of your favorite show. Now, that's convenience."

"No matter which way you order, one thing is certain: Domino's aims to give its customers the best possible experience," said Maloney. "In fact, Domino's Android™ and iOS apps were just named the highest-rated retail apps for restaurants by ARC from Applause®, which we couldn't be more proud of. We hope to continue making our customers happy by allowing them to order from nearly anywhere, on more platforms than ever."
