FYI, I have a mock-up done of Peter's interface idea. It is functional, although there are LOTs of things we would need to do with it if we decide to continue with the work. I like the way it looks AND works. I've attached a snapshot taken while I had some orders outstanding (dark blue/red are the local users, light blue/red are everyone elses).

Look forward to showing everyone on Monday AND showing them the capabilities of the new client (although there's bunches of stuff still to be done there....).
