Tom came in and put the client on 6 computers (BTW, we need to add to a couple of more) Before the Tuesday trading meeting, the six traders sat down to play eachother. Good news. They all got into the game aspect and became very engrossed.

I had the clerks positioned behind them with a pad to write down comments and suggestions. But for the most part the clerks got ingrossed in the proceedings and did not write a lot.

A number of procedural and technical problems plagued the demo. I have include an outline of my observations.
