Dear Mr. Kellogg and Mr. Meunier:

We have received instructions from our client Sipnet that it does not intend to file any additional briefs in this matter.

Thank you.

Subject: RE: IPR2013-00246 -- Order Regarding Additional Briefing

Dear Mr. Kellogg:

Straight Path writes in response to Sipnet's email below and to address the resulting uncertainty about the current briefing schedule in IPR2013-00246.

Sipnet has known that it missed the deadline for its additional briefing since at least last Wednesday morning, April 6, 2016, which is when Straight Path emailed the Board's scheduling order to Sipnet's counsel and informed Sipnet that it had failed to timely file its additional brief (due Tuesday, April 5, 2016). Straight Path took these actions because, in the course of investigating Sipnet's failure to file its additional briefing, Straight Path noticed that Sipnet had provided incomplete and incorrect service information for its counsel and thus may not have received the Board's scheduling order concerning the additional briefing. Straight Path informed Sipnet of its mistake and asked Sipnet how it intended to proceed.

Despite this, Sipnet still has not sought to extend the briefing schedule so that it may file additional briefing. Sipnet's below email suggests that it will not decide whether to move to alter the schedule until later this week, more than a week after Sipnet's brief was due and it learned of its oversight.

Straight Path's own supplemental brief is currently due tomorrow, April 12, 2016. By the Board's order, Straight Path's brief was due a week after Sipnet's so that Straight Path could respond to any arguments raised by Sipnet.

Accordingly, Straight Path respectfully states that it needs to know now whether Sipnet intends to ask for, and whether it will be granted, additional time in which to file its tardy brief. If Sipnet is allowed additional time, Straight Path requests that Straight Path be allowed to file its supplemental brief a week after Sipnet's, consistent with the Board's original order. If the schedule will not be extended to allow Sipnet to file an additional brief, Straight Path intends to file its brief tomorrow in accordance with the original scheduling order. Either way, Straight Path should not be required to file its brief before Sipnet's.

Please let Straight Path know how to proceed. Straight Path is available for a conference call any time today if that would assist the Board.

Sincerely,

William Meunier

Subject: IPR2013-00246 -- Order Regarding Additional Briefing

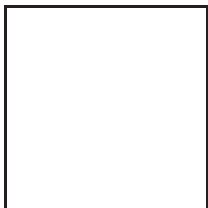

Dear Mr. Kellogg,

due to an incorrect email address in the USPTO email service list, counsel for Petitioner did not timely get the Board's Order regarding filing of the additional briefs. The order was forwarded to us by opposing counsel after the deadline for filing the Petitioner's brief has already passed.

We are consulting with our client regarding the situation and, after receiving approval, may file an appropriate motion with the Board by mid next week.

Thank you.
