

Frost and Sullivan Recognizes Bosch Healthcare's Contribution Towards Remote Patient Monitoring

Published on December 23, 2011 at 3:12 AM

By Andy Choi

Frost and Sullivan have awarded Bosch Healthcare with the North American market Share Leadership Award for 2011. They have chosen Bosch Healthcare for their contribution in the field of patient healthcare monitoring sector.

Remote patient Monitoring system

The remote patient monitoring products from Bosch have a proven performance track record on the line of remote patient monitoring systems such as the T400 Home Health Monitor, Health Buddy System etc. The home telehealth products from Bosch monitor the vital parameters and perform remote disease management.

The two most popular product offerings from Bosch are the T400 Home health Monitor and Health Buddy System. These systems provide effective care for chronic diseases and post-acute care of patients with complex disorders. The Health Buddy System in particular suits medical needs such as long-term management of patients suffering from chronic diseases, while the T400 Home Health Monitor suits post-acute home healthcare needs. Apart from home monitoring systems, Bosch has also provided healthcare and disease management systems that have helped Department of Veteran's Affairs in their home telehealth programs. The Market Share Leadership Award is given in recognition of a company's products that have a major share in the market, in terms of revenue or units.

Source: <http://www.bosch-telehealth.com>