

On October 16, 2013 and October 17, 2013, I examined the Destination Maternity Corporation (“DMC”) Secret Fit Belly® Products listed below, provided to me by counsel for DMC, and took the photographs that are in this report. See Ex. 2078 for all photographs that are in this report.

Table 1 (Ex. 2077)

DMC Secret Fit Belly® Product	Garment Type
Style 93480-01	Trouser
Style 96316-42	Denim Jeans
Style 91401-01	Trouser
Style 94278-10	Skirt

My opinions in this report are based on the following underlying facts or data: I placed each of the Secret Fit Belly® products on AlvaForm maternity fit mannequins with detachable bellies that are shown in the AlvaForm web site.¹ See Ex. 2053. I used the 3 month (Size 8) pregnancy and 9 month (Size 8) pregnancy detachable bellies for two different body types associated with DMC’s product lines:

MOTHERHOOD and MIMI. I measured the circumference of each fit mannequin at the maximum girth and just below the breast.

It is my opinion that the above listed DMC Secret Fit Belly® Products meet the independent claim limitations of U.S. Patent No. RE43,531 E titled “Belly Covering Garment,” (hereinafter referred to as the “’531 Patent”) (Petitioner’s Ex. 1018), and U.S. Patent No. RE43,563 E titled “Belly Covering Garment” (hereinafter referred to as the “’563 Patent”) (Petitioner’s Ex. 1001). The DMC Secret Fit Belly® Products also meet the limitations of certain dependent claims of the ‘531 Patent and the ‘563 Patent that are at issue before the Patent Trial and Appeal Board (“PTAB”). The below charts identify the claims-at-issue that each product embodies. For both the’531 Patent and the ‘563 Patent, the only independent claim is Claim 1.
