

UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE

BEFORE THE PATENT TRIAL AND APPEAL BOARD

PHIGENIX, INC.
Petitioner

v.

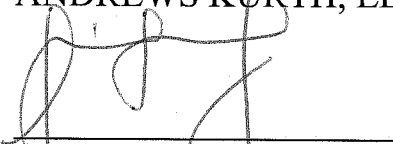

IMMUNOGEN, INC.
Patent Owner

Case IPR2014-00676
Patent 8,337,856 B2

PHIGENIX, INC.'S RESPONSE TO IMMUNOGEN'S MOTION TO ENTER PROTECTIVE ORDER

Phigenix was surprised to see in the Motion that Immunogen “certifies it met and conferred with Petitioner, Phigenix, Inc., in an attempt to reach agreement on entry of this Default Protective Order , but no agreement was reached.” In point of fact, Phigenix had previously stated back on January 16, 2015 that “we do not oppose entry of the default protective order.” (Exhibit A). Before Immunogen made the certification in its motion, it did not attempt to meet, confer, or even answer the question posed in Phigenix correspondence of the same day. (Exhibit B). Without waiving any rights it may have to object to or move to strike any evidence produced under a protective order, Phigenix does not oppose entry of the default protective order.
