(57) ABSTRACT

The present invention provides an apparatus that allows a user to easily perform a gaming operation while playing a game on a handheld wireless device without weakening the battery in the phone. This apparatus allows a user to effortlessly perform a gaming operation on the handheld wireless device while simultaneously charging the phone and implementing a vibration mechanism on the apparatus. In addition, this apparatus provides the advantage of allowing a user to play a game for a prolonged period of time without depleting the battery power of the wireless phone.
