

About Lorraine Wheeler

Lorraine Wheeler is an accomplished serial entrepreneur and founder of Redstoke. She specializes in taking innovative ideas from the concept stage to product. She has done this at startups as well as large companies. She is considered a pioneer in mobile software. She co-founded and led Actual Software, which developed MultiMail, an award-winning email client for the Palm platform. The company was purchased by Palm, Inc and the flagship product, renamed VersaMail, was used by millions. She has held VP Product positions with Zeemote, Inc, and Qado Energy. She was named a Woman to Watch by Mass High Tech and was also named a Top Innovator (TR100) by Technology Review for her innovations in the field of mobile computing. Her philosophy is that a great product is made with a strong technical design, customer input, and is delivered at the right time to the right market. She graduated from MIT with two degrees, one in Computer Science and one from the Sloan School of Management. She holds eight US patents.
