Ethical Products for Medical Professionals

The success of our premier line of ophthalmological drugs has launched our entry into other promising fields of medicine

Senju Pharmaceutical greatly values the clinical experience of medical professionals active on the front lines of medicine. Their clinical data provides us with the invaluable insights that accelerate the progress of our basic research.

Working in close cooperation with clinicians, Senju Pharmaceutical has succeeded in developing uniquely effective and highly reliable ophthalmological products that have earned the confidence of the international medical community.

Our pride in this accomplishment has inspired us to apply the results of our research to the development of products for the sensory organs that make possible the senses of sight, hearing, smell, taste, and touch. As a first step in pursuing this new avenue of opportunity, Senju Pharmaceutical has entered the promising field of otorhinolaryngological drugs.
