Zytiga label extended

■ FDA approves use in pre-chemo pts, as expected

Zytiga was previously approved for chemo-experienced advanced prostate cancer pts and now gets nod for earlier stage pre-chemo. Pre-chemo market opportunity is >2x that of chemo-experienced. We model Zytiga www sales improving from $1.0B in 2012 to $1.4B in 2013 (US: +28%; ex-US: +53%), accounting for ~20% of our projected 3.5% total organic rev growth for JNJ in 2013.

■ Competition is the key question (Chart 1)

Since Xtandi approval in Sep, Zytiga TRx's are flattish (~1600/wk) and NRx's have dipped (now ~550/wk; peak ~600/wk). Use in chemo-naïve (but largely chemointolerant pts) has increased already ahead of the approval, and was estimated at 36% of US sales in 3Q12 (31% in 2Q12 and 28% in 1Q12 per JNJ, based on third-party analytics). A recent check with a high vol medical oncologist indicated all his new Zytiga vol is now pre-chemo (not intolerants) and reimbursement is not an issue.

■ Co-existence?

We assume that an expanding chemo-naïve market could sustain some Zytiga growth, although increasing Xtandi use in this setting may relegate Zytiga to downstream use. The PI for Zytiga indicates that the median OS of 35.3 mo's for Zytiga vs. 30.1 mo's for pbo did not meet statistical significance, which could put Zytiga at an overall disadvantage in this setting. Our view on Zytiga has always been that relatively long runway for chemo-naïve pts would facilitate some utility for multiple agents.

■ Valuation – Maintain Buy rating and $76 price target (DCF-derived)

On our 2013E, JNJ trades at 13.0x PE and 8.3x EBITDA.

OHITSOH & JOHNSON TO DECEMBER 2012

■ Johnson & Johnson

Johnson & Johnson engages in research and development, manufacturing, and sale of products in healthcare through operations in three segments: Pharmaceutical (e.g., anti-fungal, anti-infective, cardiovascular, contraceptive, gastrointestinal, hematology, immunology, oncology, pain management, psychotropic, and virology); Medical Devices and Diagnostics (e.g., circulatory disease management, orthopedics, wound care, surgical, blood glucose monitoring, insulin delivery, and vision care); and Consumer (baby care, skin care, oral care, women's health, nutritionals, and OTC pharmaceuticals).

Statement of Risk

Risks for the medical device and pharmaceutical industries include, but are not limited to, changes in reimbursement, delays in product approvals, litigation outcomes, patent expirations, increased competition, clinical trial outcomes and product failures or recalls. In addition, there are company specific downside and upside risks for Johnson & Johnson. On the downside, the company may not achieve the synergies expected from the integration of the Pfizer Consumer Healthcare acquisition or may not do so as rapidly as expected; the company's restructuring efforts may not be adequate to prevent declining margins due to decreased sales in key pharmaceutical and medical device products; the ESA market may decline more rapidly or to a greater extent than we have forecast; and the company may utilize free cash flow to engage in non-value creating acquisitions. On the upside, Johnson & Johnson's pharmaceutical products including Remicade, Risperdal and Topamax may be more resilient to own or competitive patent expiration than expected or operating margins may improve by more than anticipated.
