President & Chairman

Ironmonger Initiatives Ltd

June 2008 – Present (8 years 8 months) | United Kingdom

I founded Ironmonger Initiatives to consult and advise on specialist software packages and markets in niche areas to include the telecommunications and gaming online internet space. Ironmonger Initiatives specialize in consulting strategies for small to medium companies who want to expand their presence in new markets. The Company services are in demand because it is evident that many companies fail in their expansion plans which are often due to their lack of specialist knowledge and ability to implement the correct approach, not the product or software itself. The range of services offered are bespoke but include Technical Consulting, territory assessments and business growth opportunities, creating business cases, conference networking, consultative management on specialist software negotiations and contracts.

Major focus is put on assessing risk and understanding all the moving complexities of the end-to-end process to ensure the Product or Software Company is not at risk technically, commercially or legally. It is imperative to understand each of these areas intimately to ensure this can be achieved.
