JOSEPH B. ZICHERMAN - BY MR. GHIAM

- A. I'm a consulting fire scientist, and I
- 3 work in a wide variety of areas, both forensic and
- 4 what we call prospective. The forensic being
- 5 retrospective. The consulting, other than for
- 6 attorneys, is prospective work.
- 7 I also do some work on review of
- 8 environmental impact statements where fire safety are
- 9 issues.
- Most relevant to this litigation it would
- 11 seem is my work with rail fire safety and rail car
- 12 design and qualification that started in 1979.
- Q. What type of expertise do you offer when
- 14 you do rail fire safety work?
- 15 A. I offer formal -- what was the word you
- 16 asked me, what services? Was it services?
- Q. What sort of expertise do you offer?
- 18 A. What expertise? I offer expertise in
- 19 doing fire safety analyses both of rail passenger
- 20 systems, which the Federal Railway Agency calls
- 21 system-wide analyses; and I offer expertise with
- 22 regards to individual cars, car designs and products
- 23 used in cars that are subject to a fire safety
- 24 analysis if they're used for cars regulated by the
- 25 FRA.

JOSEPH B. ZICHERMAN - BY MR. GHIAM

- Q. Can you please tell me more about the
- 3 system-wide analysis that you perform, what it
- 4 entails?

1

- 5 A. Yes. It entails -- well, when the
- 6 original system-wide analyses requirement was added by
- 7 the FRA in the 1990s, there was a requirement to
- 8 complete a preliminary fire safety analysis which took
- 9 into account the operating environment of a rail
- 10 passenger system and the history of the system and
- 11 subjected that to an analysis -- essentially an
- 12 incident style analysis, which was based on a military
- 13 spec, which involves system safety and codifies system
- 14 safety. And what the goal of those analyses was to
- 15 identify unsafe conditions and provide documentation
- 16 of that to the system operators.
- 17 And under the FRA rule, there was some
- 18 time period -- it was either a year or 18 months --
- 19 for the identified shortcomings to be addressed and
- 20 mitigated. And at some point following that there
- 21 would be a final fire safety analysis.
- Q. For which operators did you perform these
- 23 analysis?

- 2 Angeles. Those were complete studies.
- 3 And I've conducted studies on individual
- 4 components, like rail cars and locomotives and things
- 5 like that, for car manufacturers, for operators as
- 6 part, again, of the FRA system safety requirements.
 - Q. You also mentioned that --
- 8 A. Let me also add that that fire safety
- 9 analysis work may involve an entire rail car design or
- 10 locomotive design, or it may involve the evaluation of
- 11 a cooking device going into a club car, a
- 12 refrigerator, electronic components, things of that
- 13 nature.
- 14 Q. You mentioned that you have worked on car
- 15 design projects?
- 16 A. Yes.
- 17 Q. Is that correct? What services have you
- $18\,$ offered when you worked and offered expertise for car
- 19 design?
- A. Well, in particular, the FRA requirements
- 21 and the FTA guidelines require that a fire safety
- 22 analysis be conducted of the design. And that started
- 23 with the FRA rules and became codified.
- And that means that I would look at a
- 25 complete design of a vehicle, including the
