JOINT CLAIM CONSTRUCTION STATEMENT

Plaintiff Alcon Research, Ltd. and Defendants Mylan Pharmaceuticals Inc. and Mylan Inc. hereby submit the following Joint Claim Construction Statement.

(a) The parties have exchanged lists of the claim terms, phrases, or clauses which they believe require construction, as well as proposed constructions. The parties have agreed upon the following constructions:

Claim Term/Phrase	Construction
“self-preserved”	“compositions that do not contain a conventional antimicrobial preservative, and yet are preserved from microbial contamination”
“anionic species”	“an ion having a negative charge”
“polyol”	“any compound having at least one hydroxyl group on each of two adjacent carbon atoms that are not in trans configuration relative to each other”

In addition, the parties agree that the claim term “borate,” while not in need of construction, includes boric acid, sodium borate, and potassium borate.

(b) The parties have further agreed that there are no contested claim terms requiring construction by the Court.
