2. It is the regular practice of the UC Davis Library to, among other functions, collect, organize, and make publicly available books, journals, and other resources. The UC Davis Library maintains and catalogues such resources in the ordinary course of its regularly conducted activities.

3. I have worked at the UC Davis Library since 2014.

4. I am familiar with the UC Davis Library's current and historical systems for receiving and cataloguing articles, as well as the UC Davis Library's procedures and practices for making materials available to the public.

5. Attached hereto as Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of excerpts from a Journal entitled "Applied Artificial Intelligence, An International Journal," Vol. 7, No. 1, which contains an article entitled "Eyes Detection For Face Recognition" by Luigi Stringa. Because Exhibit A is kept organized in the UC Davis Library collection and because it contains particular stamps placed on it by the UC Davis Library, Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of the Journal.

6. Exhibit A contains the stamp reprinted below. The stamp indicates that the UC Davis Library received Exhibit A on March 5, 1993. It has been the regular business practice of the UC Davis Library to have its librarians add this stamp to journals when they are received by the UC Davis Library to indicate the date the journal was received. It is the regular business
