I. INTRODUCTION

Uniloc Luxembourg S.A. (the “Patent Owner”) submits this Owner’s Preliminary Response to Petition IPR2017-1800 for Inter Partes Review (“Pet. at _” or “Petition”) of United States Patent No. 8,243,723 B2, System and Method for Instant VoIP Messaging, (“the ’723 Patent” or “EX1001”) filed by Samsung Electronics America, Inc. (“Petitioner”).

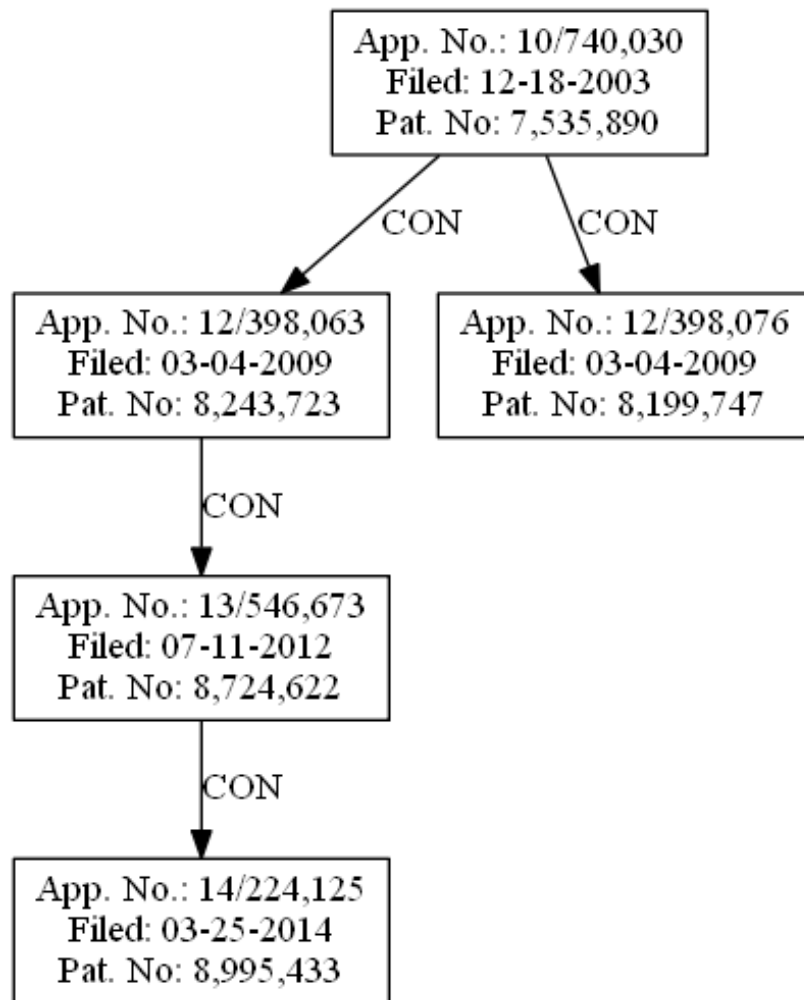

Petitioner argues that Claims 1–3 would have been rendered obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art (a “PHOSITA”) in 2003 in view of a user interface patent to Griffin, EX1005, and an application for patent to Zydney, EX1006.

The Board should deny IPR2017-1800 in its entirety. First, the petition, references, and grounds stated, are duplicative and redundant over IPR2017-1365. Second, Petitioner fails to satisfy the All Elements Rule. Instead, Petitioner impermissibly attempts to fill in missing limitations, at least in part, by offering claim interpretations that are expressly proscribed by the unambiguous claim language. The user interface patent to Griffin does not describe instant voice messaging or packet-switched networks. In addition, the references cannot and should not be combined as the Petitioner suggests.

II. RELATED MATTERS

The ’723 Patent is in a family of patents including United States Patent Nos. 8,199,747 (the ’747 Patent); 7,535,890 (the ’890 Patent); 8,724,622 (the ’622 Patent); and 8,995,433 (the '433 Patent).<sup>1</sup> The diagram below how this family of patents is interrelated.
