In fact, industry research has shown that it takes the average software developer hundreds of hours and $20,000 - $60,000 a year (admin., salary, TI, equipment maintenance, etc.) to keep it operating. In other words, you'll need at least $1 million in incremental Web sales to justify doing it yourself.

Turn your website into a webstore in one week at no cost.

As a Web site publisher you may not be aware that selling your products to people in Iran, Iraq, Cuba and many other countries, it a federal offense under U.S. Export Ban. Or, that there are tax ramifications for the sale of your products at the state, county and even city levels. At Digital River, we take full responsibility for making sure that sales of your products will be in compliance with all federal, state and local laws.

Yes, you opened your website to sell, but selling digital products directly off your site can be slow, expensive to implement, a significant security risk and a 24-hour obligation. Frankly, it can be a huge pain in the butt — unless, of course, you specialize in it.

With Digital River as part of your site, shoppers can select, buy and download your products in minutes. And, oh yeah, it's also incredibly profitable and worry-free.

Digital River:

- GUARANTEES secure and accurate transmission.
- PAYS all state, federal and international taxes.
- PROTECTS your product from theft.
- PAYS all credit card fees.
- ASSUMES 100% accountability for transaction and fraud issues.
- PROVIDES live customer service 24 hours a day.
- PAYS you promptly for your product sales.

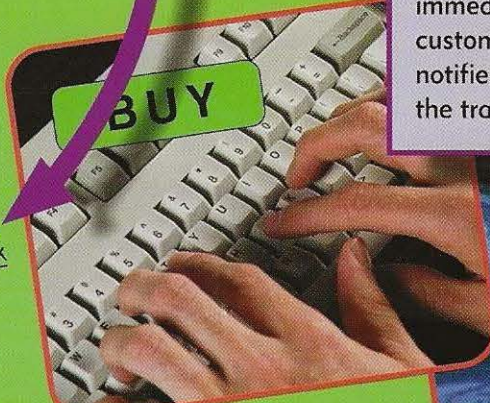

So, if it's time to turn your website into a webstore, call Digital River. We can have you selling off your site in a week. (And, for a limited time, at no cost to you.) Otherwise, call your attorney, your programmers, your accountant, your...

Before you buy on the web, be sure you're on the river.

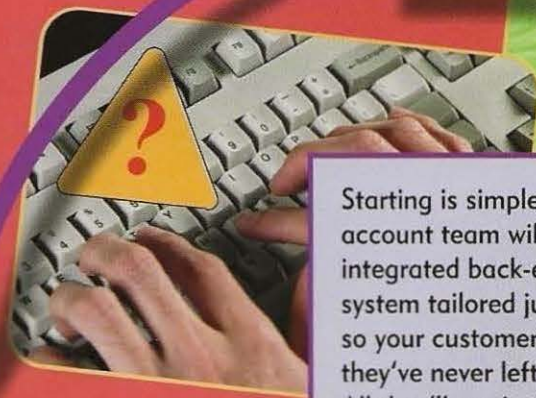

As a client of Digital River, you will become part of the Digital River Network. Network members will be able to link between each other's sites so that complimentary products can be bundled, and the consumer experience enhanced; not to mention the added opportunity for sales revenue. Digital River can also provide assistance in increasing site traffic, the sites' sales impact, and even design modifications.

Ever wonder whether it's safe to purchase directly off a website? Now you don't have to.

Next time you find a digital product you want to buy and you're about to enter your credit card number, look for the Digital River icon in the bottom-right corner of the page. If it's there, that site is part of the Digital River NetworkSM and your transaction is guaranteed safe and secure.

So buy with confidence when you see the DR on the screen. And, if you don't see it...well, we'll let you worry about that.

(If you would like to become a member of the Digital River NetworkSM and sell digital products safely and securely off your website, call Digital River at 1.800.643.0624. We can help turn your website into a webstore in a week.)

Starting is simple. Our new account team will develop an integrated back-end commerce system tailored just to your site so your customers will feel that they've never left your page. All they'll see is the Digital River icon in the corner of their screen reassuring them that their transaction will be secure, easy, accurate and immediate.
