So sometimes bladders have a little but the setup that I constructed and designed 3 3 flexibility to them, sometimes they don't. This uses solenoid valves and manifolds and pressure 4 4 particular product has two layers. You could transducers. Q. A. I know that I've worked in some other Page 11 Page 13 1 Then I also worked on a valve case, 1 projects that involved pneumatics. Oh, I did 2 2 which is a quick connect poppet valve for a assist a client with a tire inflater. 3 fracking tanker that's pressurized. With that 3 Q. In the end, 4 5 5 the valve was taken apart and our analysis yourself to inflate a car tire? 6 showed that it was not the appropriate poppet 6 A. Yeah. It was basically like the size 7 7 of like a power drill and you could plug it into inside. 8 8 O. Did that involve a valve enclosure your cigarette lighter and pull the trigger, and 9 9 assembly at all? the display shows the pressure that you're MR. Does the check valve relate at all to 16 Q. What about the pneumatic pilot valves, 16 whether air is flowing into the tire or not? 17 17 did they relate to valves that were enclosed in A. Yeah. So the chuck has the stem in it, 18 18 and that stem has to push on the stem of your anything? A. No. Those valves are on outsides of 19 19 tire to open it. 20 20 Q. Anything else that's analogous? 21 Q. Are there valves in relation to this 21 A. Yes. I also did a case examining the 22 22 expandable innertube? failures of collets. A collet is basically --23 23 if you're familiar with a finger trap that the A. Yes. 24 24 Q. Are those enclosed in anything? kids play with. So imagine instead of fingers 25 25 A. That system -- so the product itself getting caught together, it's a quick way of

Page 14 Page 16 connecting pipes and things. 1 the tube? 1 2 2 So suppose you want to put a hot water A. That's right. 3 thing in line for like a coffee maker or 3 O. And then it hits an end of the tube and 4 4 something but you don't want to braze it then does what? 5 together or whatever. You just take this thing 5 A. And then it begins pressurizing. So 6 6 and you shove one pipe in this side and one pipe it's not an open channel all the way through and 7 7 it doesn't continue on going somewhere else. in that side and it's got little fingers in it 8 8 that keep everything together. Q. So the pressurized fluid remains in the 9 9 Q. So how is that analogous to adjustable innertube? 10 10 air mattresses? A. That's right. 11 11 A. Well, the system that I developed to Q. For what purpose? A. To pressurize it. 12 12 test that involved computer control of solenoid valves and pressurizing one part instead of the 13 Q. Is there something that's done with the 13 14 other and taking a pressurized source using a 14 pressurized fluid once it's pressurized? 15 15 pump and filling it. It didn't have a bladder, A. Yes. It's held there for a time and 16 16 but it goes to my experience with pneumatics and then after that time is up, then it's drained. 17 hydraulics. 17 Q. Do you have an understanding that the 18 18 '172 patent was filed in July of 1997? Q. Did it involve measuring the pressure? 19 19 A. Yes. Yes, I had a pressure measurement A. That sounds right, to my recollection. 20 20 on that. Q. You can look on page 6 of your report 21 Q. Your test did? 21 if you want to confirm. 22 A. Yes. 22 A. Yes, that's what it says on page 6. 23 23 Q. So at the time that this patent was Q. Why were you measuring pressure for 24 24 this finger-like trap object? filed, you had just graduated from Marquette, 25 25 MR. HARE: Objection, form. correct? Page 15 Page 17 1 THE WITNESS: So I was measuring 1 A. Yes, that's right. 2 2 Q. You would have graduated in May pressure in the system. This wasn't 3 3 particularly to measure the exact pressure in of 1997, approximately? each of these collets, but as part of the A. Yeah, approximately. 4 4 5 5 project in terms of where they were situated in Q. And you had a Bachelor of Science in 6 6 the field when they failed, I needed to have an mechanical engineering? 7 7 idea of what we were pressurizing them to. A. That's right. 8 8 BY MS. NATH: Q. Did you have any experience at the 9 Q. Anything else that you believe is 9 time? 10 analogous to adjustable air mattresses? 10 A. I did, actually. 11 11 A. Well, I'm just giving you my MR. HARE: Objection to form. 12 experiences in pneumatics and things like that. 12 BY MS. NATH: 13 I've worked on a number of other product cases 13 Q. And what was the experience at the 14 14 where I used air power and pressure and valves time? 15 15 to do it. There is just a smattering of things A. So I had a year-long design project 16 all over the place. 16 with a team of people and we built a computer 17 17 controlled vacuum cleaner that ran on a 286 Q. When we were talking about the 18 18 innertube project, what did you mean when you motherboard and had sensors that would control 19 19 said closed systems? the vacuum cleaner. 20 20 A. So the innertube and the jacket, it was Q. It's something that you worked on while 21 like -- if you want to think of it as a 21 you were in school, is that right? 22 22 cul-de-sac. The fluid comes in from one side A. That's right. And while we worked on 23 and hits a dead end and then the whole thing 23 it, we reached out to a number of vacuum cleaner 24 24 companies and we ended up making a contact with starts to fill. 25 Q. So the fluid comes in from one end of Hoover, who gave us a number of -- they gave us
