TABLE OF CONTENTS

	Page
I. Introduction.....	1
II. The General Plastic Factors as well as Petitioner’s Abuse of Inter Partes Review Petitions Warrant Denial of Institution.....	3
A. Each of General Plastic Factors Support Discretionary Denial .....	4
i. Factor 1 supports denial because Petitioner previously filed a petition directed against similar claims in a related patent.....	4
ii. Factor 2 supports denial because at the time of filing the petition for the ’739 IPR, Petitioner knew of the prior art asserted in the instant petition.....	6
iii. Factor 3 supports denial because Petitioner benefited from Patent Owner’s briefings and the institution decision in the ’739 IPR.....	6
iv. Factors 4 and 5 support denial because there is no justification for the 10 month delay in filing the instant petition .....	7
v. Factor 6 supports denial because the finite resources of the Board should not be used to entertain Petitioner’s attempt at re-litigating the issues of the ’739 IPR .....	8
vi. Factor 7 and its considerations under 35 U.S.C. §316(a)(11) also support denial .....	8
B. Petitioner’s Conduct is an Abuse of the Inter Partes Review Process and Patent Owner Harassment.....	9
i. Petitioner largely ignores the issues raised and evidence presented in the ’739 IPR.....	9
ii. The instant petition was filed to harass Patent Owner.....	11
III. Overview of the ’069 Patent and the Prior Art.....	13

IV.	Claim Construction.....	15
V.	Grounds 1-3: Prior Art Does Not Disclose the Claimed Phospholipid Range. ....	17
	A. Grounds 1 & 2 – The '196 PCT and the '189 Publication do not teach the recited phospholipid concentration range. ....	18
	B. Ground 3 – The '554 Publication also does not teach the recited phospholipid concentration range. ....	19
	C. Petitioner engages in illogical calculations and improper hindsight to arrive at purported ranges.....	19
VI.	There is No Rationale/Motivation Supporting Obviousness.....	23
	A. Formulating Nucleic Acid-Lipid Particles Was Not a Matter of Routine Optimization .....	26
	B. Lin and Ahmad Do Not Supply the Missing Motivation for Ground 2.....	29
VII.	Unexpected Results Further Rebut any Prima Facie Obviousness .....	32
	A. The '069 Patent Reports Extensive Testing of Numerous Formulations within the Claimed Range.....	34
	B. Post-Filing Publications Provide Testing Data for a Broad Range of Lipids and Cargo Molecules (including both siRNA and mRNA) .....	37
VIII.	Petitioner Fails to Make the Requisite Assessment of Objective Indicia of Non-Obviousness .....	42
	A. Long-Felt Need – the delivery problem was not solved for over 20 years.....	43
	B. Failure of Others – despite the motivation alleged by Petitioner, those in the art failed to formulate nucleic acid-lipid particles suitable for systemic delivery.....	45
	C. Skepticism – those in the art questioned the safety of the SNALP as a suitable delivery platform.....	46

D. Commercial Success – The Claimed Nucleic Acid-Lipid Particle is the First FDA Approved siRNA Drug .....47

I. INTRODUCTION

The Board should not institute inter partes review of claims 1-22 of U.S. Patent No. 8,058,069 (the '069 patent) because Moderna Therapeutics, Inc. (“Moderna” or “Petitioner”) fails to show that it has a reasonable likelihood of prevailing.

The nucleic acid-lipid particles claimed by the '069 patent have achieved tremendous recognition in the field of genetic therapy. The '069 patent is now listed in the FDA’s Orange Book as protecting the patisiran commercial product—tradename “Onpattro.” EX2025. Patisiran received regulatory approval in the U.S. and Europe and has been designated by the FDA as a “first-in-class” drug. EX2023; EX2024.

As an initial matter, the petition (2-3) cites to Petitioner’s pending challenge (IPR2018-00739) of Patent Owner’s related U.S. Patent No. 9,364,435, but fails to appreciate that its serial attacks actually weigh against institution here. Petitioner asserts similarities between the cases, but does not explain why it sat on the present challenge for 10 months while using prior Board decisions and Patent Owner’s briefing as a roadmap for drafting the current petition. Despite this advantage, Petitioner ignores the evidence presented in the '739 IPR directly pertinent to numerous issues presented here—evidence that should have been addressed but was not. Infra Sections VII-VIII. This includes, inter alia, extensive experimental
