1	PROCEEDINGS
2
3	JUDGE PAULRAJ: Good morning. This is the consolidated final
4	oral hearing in a series of inter partes reviews involving Petitioner Medtronic
5	and Patent Owner Teleflex, IPR 2020-00126, 127, 128, 129, 130, 132, 134,
6	135, 136, 137, and 138. I'm Judge Paulraj and also appearing via video
7	today will be Judge Tornquist and Judge Snedden. Let's start with
8	appearances starting with Petitioner's counsel first and then Patent Owner's
9	counsel.
10	MR. MORTON: Yes, Your Honor, this is Cy Morton for Petitioner
11	Medtronic. I have a number of people with me including other speakers
12	today will be Chris Pinahs and Sharon Roberg-Perez. I also have Emily
13	Tremblay with me and I believe we'll have our client representative Chad
14	Hanson on the phone.
15	JUDGE PAULRAJ: Okay, thank you, Mr. Morton. And I would ask
16	your co-counsel to introduce themselves when it's their turn to talk. So, and
17	I'm sure they'll be a lot of names that I'll have to try to remember during the
18	course of the day, but if they could re-introduce themselves when they
19	speak, that'd be helpful for me.
20	MR. MORTON: Of course, Your Honor.
21	JUDGE PAULRAJ: And then let's turn it over to Patent Owner's
22	counsel.
23	MR. VANDENBURGH: Yes, thank you, Your Honor. Derek
24	Vandenburgh for Patent Owner. We also have a number of speakers and
25	other people involved today speaking. We will hear from Peter Kohlepp and
26	Joe Winkels and Megan Christner. I also have Ken Levitt here in the room

1 with me and Tara Nogard of our firm on the line. And I believe on the dial-2 in line we have Howard Cyr, Dwayne Ritchie, Greg Smock from Teleflex. 3 JUDGE PAULRAJ: All right, thank you, Mr. Vandenburgh. You're 4 coming in a little bit muted. Is there a way you can get a little bit closer to 5 your microphone? 6 MR. VANDENBURGH: Is that any better? 7 JUDGE PAULRAJ: That is better, thank you. 8 MR. VANDENBURGH: Yes. JUDGE PAULRAJ: So, again, I would ask your co-counsel, 9 10 especially if they're going to argue portions of the hearing today, to 11 reintroduce themselves so I can keep track of who's arguing during a 12 particular section. As I mentioned during the prehearing conference on 13 Friday, this will be a public hearing. And we do have a public line where 14 members of the public can dial in. I'm not sure how much of those will be 15 members of your client representatives versus true members of public. But to the extent that confidential information will be discussed today, I would 16 17 ask counsel to let me know before we start discussing anything confidential 18 so we can mute the public line. 19 We're also in receipt of the parties' demonstratives and I have access 20 to the record in these cases. So, to make sure that the transcript is clear, I 21 would ask counsel to identify the specific slide number they're discussing 22 during their arguments so we can follow along. I know you cannot present 23 the demonstratives on your screen, but we have the demonstratives on our 24 respective screens and we'll follow along to whatever you're discussing. We 25 have also received the parties' objections to the other side's demonstratives.

1 We'll take those objections under advisement, but we will not exclude 2 counsel from presenting arguments based on those demonstratives today. 3 I will generally remind the parties that demonstratives are not 4 evidence themselves and cannot be used to supplement the record. 5 Generally, unless there's a risk that a party may be getting into confidential 6 information while on the public line, I would ask counsel to refrain from 7 making objections until the end of the other side's arguments. As set forth in 8 our hearing order, we'll be dividing the hearing into three segments based on 9 the main issues that are going to be argued. We'll start with arguments on 10 conception and reduction to practice, or CRTP, and each side will have 11 about 60 minutes to argue that issue with Patent Owner going first. Then 12 we'll get into the 102, 103 issues where each side will have 90 minutes to 13 argue those issues with Petitioner going first. And finally, we'll hear 14 arguments on the motion to amend with each side getting 30 minutes to 15 argue and Petitioner also going first on those arguments. 16 As set forth in our hearing order, each side may reserve some amount 17 of rebuttal or surrebuttal time for their respective arguments. But no more 18 than half the total time allocated for each argument section. We'll plan to 19 take a lunch break around 12:30 eastern for about an hour. We'll also take a 20 short 10 to 15-minute break between each segment, each argument segment. 21 And hopefully we'll wrap up by about 4:30, 4:45 or so Eastern. 22 I would like to remind the parties that if you aren't speaking, please 23 mute yourself so we don't hear any background noises during the arguments. 24 I'm hearing some feedback on the line right now, so, to the extent that you're 25 not muting -- you're not muted when you're not speaking please do so, so
