Introducing Webley.
The first voice-activated assistant over your phone...and on the Web.

It's like air traffic control for all your communications!

Webley is a personal voice-activated assistant solving a panorama of communications problems.

Part computer, part telephone technology and part Internet, Webley handles your telephone, your e-mail and fax communications, like an air traffic controller --whether you're on the Web, in your office, at home, a hotel room, in your car or anywhere. Anytime.

You speak to Webley. Webley speaks to you – then carries out your commands. The result is a unique service that allows members to dramatically enhance their performance in dealing with communications gridlock.

What Webley does is pretty amazing.
