Do it Now. George Merriam, one of the founders of Merriam-Webster, kept that motto posted above his rolltop desk. It was this slogan that motivated George and his younger brother, Charles, as they carried forward the work of Noah Webster, the United States' first great lexicographer, after his death in 1843. George and Charles Merriam recognized the significance of Webster's great dictionary and worked to continue his tradition of excellence. Their efforts made "Merriam-Webster" the most important name in American dictionaries.

Today, Merriam-Webster maintains an ongoing commitment to innovation and scholarship. Our dictionaries and other reference products are prepared by a distinguished staff of scholars who rely on a file of more than 14,500,000 citations documenting actual word usage to ensure that every Merriam-Webster publication meets the highest standards of quality and reliability. Other publishers may use the name Webster, but only Merriam-Webster products are backed by 150 years of accumulated knowledge and experience. The name Merriam-Webster is your assurance that you are purchasing the most authoritative, accurate, and well-designed language reference products in the world.

Not just Webster. Merriam Webster.®

A GENUINE MERRIAM-WEBSTER

The name Webster alone is no guarantee of excellence. It is used by a number of publishers and may serve mainly to mislead an unwary buyer.

Merriam-Webster™ is the name you should look for when you consider the purchase of dictionaries or other fine reference books. It carries the reputation of a company that has been publishing since 1831 and is your assurance of quality and authority.
