Hi Leighton –

The launch date for the “commercial” product (the advertiser content, not the community-based content) is approximately mid-May; the availability of a critical feature (the ability to fire VOD videos from the interactive sessions) is delayed until then. We are also delayed in getting the product tested – we are trying to book time at Navic in Mass. and at Oceanic, but we are not getting time soon enough. We actually finished construction of the commercial product almost two weeks ago...

The first phase of the consumer-based product is scheduled for mid-June. We are entering construction in the next couple of weeks, specs are being put together now.

Of course, the pressure is on to get this done, but honestly I don't know if I can get it all to you by Tuesday since I now have too many appointments on Monday. I will do my best and will let you know Monday / Tuesday.

Thanks,

Thanks, Milton, for the update. Just to let you know, Thursday, April 29, is my last day in the office this week, then I'll be traveling to Korea all the following week, and returning by May 10. If May 1 is still BBiTV's launch date, then you should try to get me your final materials no later than Tuesday morning, April 27. If the launch date has been delayed into the late May, then you can take additional time to perhaps capture some of the detailed specs from the dev team on the community content system, and we can work together to finalize the application and file it sometime after May 10.
