

X|Tech Catheter

Boosting Catheter

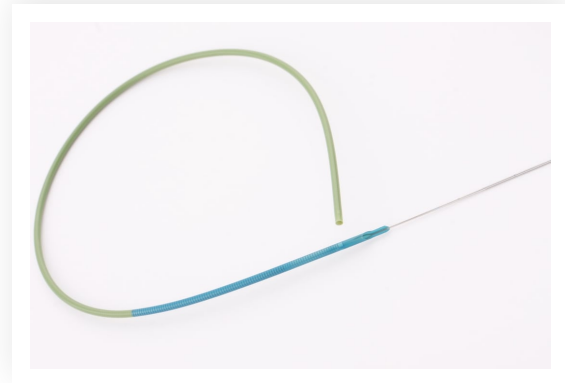

Coronary and Peripheral Vascular Interventions

The QXMédical Boosting Catheter is the next generation guide extension support catheter for use with guiding catheters and sheaths to assist delivery and exchange of interventional devices in coronary and peripheral vessels. The catheter offers exceptional trackability along with a novel tip design and large internal passageways to facilitate complex procedures. Currently available in select regions.

Product Specs at a Glance

About this Product

WHERE TO BUYBECOME A PARTNER

Product Specs at a Glance

Proprietary tip design

Hydrophilic coated distal tube

Large internal passageways

Expanded clinical indications, including intra procedural fluid injection for selective contrast injection

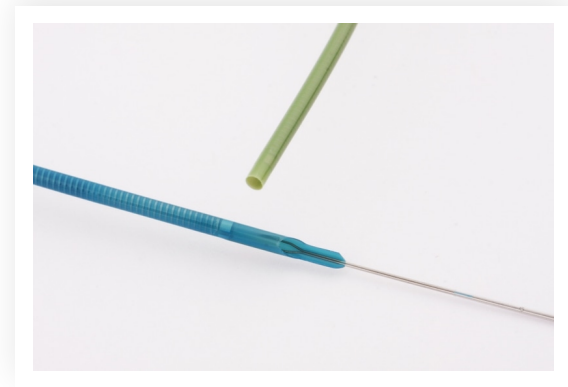

Working length of 150cm suitable for coronary and peripheral interventions

About this product

The QXMédical Boosting Catheter is the next generation guide extension support catheter for use with guiding catheters and sheaths to assist with delivery and exchange of interventional devices in coronary and peripheral vessels. The catheter offers exceptional trackability along with a unique tip design and large internal passageways to facilitate complex procedures. The Boosting Catheter provides excellent support to advance interventional devices in coronary and peripheral procedures including complex PCI and CTOs.

Currently available in select regions.

Product covered by one or more U.S. and international patents.

Where to buy

BECOME A PARTNER

Check out some more of our product offerings.

VIEW ALL PRODUCTS

Disclaimer: Products listed may not be available in all markets. As with all medical devices, please refer to the Instructions for Use. Prescription only. Caution: USA Federal Law restricts the sale, distribution, or use of these devices to, by, or on the order of a physician.