Counsel,

8:30 A.M. will be our start time for the claim construction hearing on February 1, please plan to be connected by 8:15 A.M.

I will enter a new order that includes Zoom information for joining as an "attendee," and you should also receive an e-mail from Zoom with an individual link for you to join as a "panelist." If anything goes wrong with your panelist link, you can join using the attendee information and I can promote you to panelist.

Would the parties be available for a Zoom test on Wednesday or Thursday (January 27 or 28) (some time between about 1:00pm and 2:30pm Pacific Time works best for me, but I have some flexibility)? This should be brief, and business casual attire is fine if you'd like. The purpose is to make sure that we can all hear each other, etc., and to give you an opportunity to ask any remaining logistical questions. Only attorneys who plan to present oral arguments at the claim construction hearing need to attend the test, but all are welcome.

Thank you,
David Keyzer

Mr. Keyzer,

We understand that the time for the Markman hearing on February 1st has not yet been scheduled. We would like to repeat our previous request included in the earlier email from Mr. Hughes that the Markman hearing be scheduled for the morning of February 1st. Since Mr. Hughes' earlier email, a mediation in another case in which Mr. Fowler is also the lead attorney has been scheduled for 2 Pacific on the afternoon of February 1st and therefor Mr. Fowler now has a conflict on the afternoon of February 1st.

Thank you in advance for your consideration of this request.

Best wishes,

Jim
