Some of the best eye drops out there

Tom Spooner on Apr 18, 2022

These eye drops are great, they really help with the eye strain I get from all the screens I look at in a day My only complaint about them is the cooling agent in them is so strong, it's hard to open my second eye after putting in the first drop. I'm sure this is something that will go away after I use them for more than a few months. I don't understand how there are fully grown adults who are stumped by such an easy to open cap, if you really struggle with this cap then you have some dexterity issues that you need to work on. Anything that has a child lock on it is probably too advanced for these people to understand

So, I'm not going to review about its effect on my eyes since it can be different for every person My biggest concern is the c

It was so bad, that I has to use a pair of pliers to pull the top off. if you have time to screw around with opening the package then it is a good product, but you will soon come frustrated wit
