I want to dedicate this book to the Microsoft Visual FoxPro team for all their efforts in building and maintaining such a powerful development tool. Even in the face of adversity, this product continues to kick butt, allowing developers like myself to build amazing applications with ease without sacrificing power. I, like many of you, I suspect, have benefited tremendously from the power of this product, and I want to thank the team for continuing to pour their creative resources into this tool. Thanks, guys (and gals)!

And don't ever let a Dilbert-head tell you that it can't be done with the Fox!!!
