Novo Nordisk Exhibit 2300
Mylan Pharms. Inc. v. Novo Nordisk A/S

I have been qualified and have testified as an expert in many federal courts throughout the United States and before the U.S. Patent Trial and Appeal Board (“PTAB”) as an economist generally, as an expert in statistics/surveys, and as an expert in the economics of the pharmaceutical industry specifically.

B. Assignment

3. As part of my current assignment, I have been asked by Groombridge, Wu, Baughman and Stone LLP, counsel for Novo Nordisk (or “Patent Owner”), to evaluate the commercial success of the drug Ozempic® and the extent to which Ozempic®’s commercial success is causally linked to the claims-at-issue from U.S. Patent No. 10,335,462 (“the ’462 patent”), which I understand covers methods of treating type 2 diabetes (“T2D”) using semaglutide 1.0 mg once weekly. I refer to the inventions covered by the ’462 patent as the “’462 Patented Inventions.” I have also been asked to evaluate the extent to which the presence of U.S. Patent Nos. 8,129,343 (“the ’343 patent”) and 8,536,122 (“the ’122 patent”) may have acted as so-called “blocking” patents that would have dampened the marketplace incentives for third parties to undertake efforts to pursue and develop the inventions claimed by the ’462 patent. Additionally, I understand from counsel that I may not have the opportunity to submit a reply or otherwise respond to arguments that Petitioners may submit regarding commercial success.
