

following facts are true:

From about at least 2010 through at least the end of 2015, Metrics conducted aluminum analysis on samples labeled Sandoz L-Cysteine HCl Injection, USP for KABS Laboratories, Inc. (hereinafter “KABS”). Each product sample that Metric’s received from KABS had an associated unique lot number. Metrics used the lot number to track the product samples throughout the analysis process and to ensure that the written test results reported back to KABS corresponded to the correct product sample.

Attached at Exhibit A is a true and correct copy of Document Number ASTD-0335 titled “Analysis of Aluminum in L-Cysteine HCl Injection”, which sets forth the analytical method that Metrics used to analyze the Sandoz product samples received from KABS. The analytical method set forth in Exhibit A is the analytical method that Metrics followed from 2010 until at least the end of 2015 with respect to the product samples that it received from KABS, including the product sample lot numbers referenced below.

Attached as Exhibit B is a true and correct copy of an Analytical Report issued to KABS for sample lot nos. 2093015, 2100115, and 2100215 on or about the date noted
