Dear Ms. Cannon,

I recently visited Kiawah Island, SC and went into a gift shop. I saw "i play." products and I thought they were made by the manufacturer I know from Asheville. I later learned that someone else is using the i play. name (International Playthings). This was very confusing to me and perhaps even misleading since I trust the i play company that I am familiar with and do not know anything about the other one. I did not think the quality looked as good on their products, but I was tempted to buy one because I know that the Asheville i play produces a very well-made item.

Subject: Confusion regarding International Playthings and I Play

Dear Ms. Cannon,

While attending a trade show recently, I happened to see a booth advertising "I Play." I entered the booth expecting to see the products I know and love and was surprised to learn that a company by the name of International Playthings was using the name I Play. Their logo was VERY similar so I thought that International Playthings was simply distributing I Play products. When I enquired about this I was told that the brand I Play belonged to International Playthings and there was no connection between the two companies. I found this to be very confusing. I was attending the trade show with a Japanese client who has been buying I Play for a number of years and he was as baffled as I was. In short, I find this situation to be very confusing not only consumers but to industry professionals as well.

Please let me know If I can be of further service.

Best regards,

David Murrell
