ESTTA Tracking number:

ESTTA901204

Filing date:

06/06/2018

IN THE UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE BEFORE THE TRADEMARK TRIAL AND APPEAL BOARD

Proceeding	92049706
Party	Defendant American University of Kuwait
Correspondence Address	ROBERT W LUDWIG JR LUDWIG & ROBINSON PLLC 1717 PENNSYLVANIA AVE NW STE 450 WASHINGTON, DC 20006-4626 UNITED STATES Email: rludwig@ludwigrobinson.com, jhousey@symbus.com
Submission	Brief on Merits for Defendant
Filer's Name	Robert W. Ludwig
Filer's email	rludwig@ludwigrobinson.com
Signature	/Robert W. Ludwig/
Date	06/06/2018
Attachments	Ehs D63-D71 Housey Decl D.pdf(2462813 bytes) Ehs D72-D76 Housey Decl D.pdf(5928989 bytes) Ehs D76-D78 Housey Decl D.pdf(5805463 bytes) Ehs D79-D87 Housey Decl D.pdf(3291293 bytes)

IN THE UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE BEFORE THE TRADEMARK TRIAL AND APPEAL BOARD

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Petitioner,

V.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT.

Registrant.

Cancellation No. 92049706

Reg. No. 3387226

Mark: AUK AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT

Reg. Date: February 26, 2008

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT,

Counter-Petitioner,

V.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY,

Counter-Registrant.

Reg. No 2986715 Mark: AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date Aug. 23, 2005

Reg. No. 3559022

Mark: A NEW AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date: Jan. 06, 2009

Reg. No. 4127891

Mark: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

WASHINGTON COLLEGE OF

LAW and Design

Reg. Date: Apr. 17, 2012

Reg. No. 4774583.

Mark: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date: Jul. 21, 2015

EXHIBITS D63-D71 to DECLARATION "D" OF JANICE HOUSEY (RE: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY'S USE OF "WASHINGTON, D.C."

WITH ITS AMERICAN UNIVERSITY MARK)

10/25/2017

Family Weekend | American University, Washington, D.C.

All-American Weekend

All-American Weekend 2017

WELCOME TO THE AU COMMUNITY!

If you have questions about your specific registration, please contact family.allamericanweekend@american.edu (mailto:family.allamericanweekend@american.edu), including the name on the registration and your students' name,

AU alumni should visit the Alumni Programs web site to register for All-American Weekend. More information on alumni events (http://alumniassociation.american.edu/s/1395/index1colnonav.aspx?sid=1395&gid=1&pgid=449) (/alumni/allamericanweekend/index.cfm)

ALL AMERICAN WEEKEND BROCHURE

VIEW SCHEDULET (/OCL/ORIENTATION/UPLOAD/18-112_AAW_BROCHURE_2017.PDF)

Making Plans for All-American Weekend

Program Dates

October 20-22, 2017

REGISTRATION FOR PARENT & FAMILY MEMBERS OF CURRENT STUDENTS

Registration for All-American Weekend closed on October 16th. However, on-site registration will be open on Friday (Oct. 20) from 10:00am-6:00pm and Saturday (Oct 21) from 9:00am-3:00pm. Additionally ticketed events may be limited, due to availability.

All family tickets purchased through the All-American Weekend website will be distributed during check-in/registration (reference dates and times listed above).

Registration Fee for Parents and Family Members of Current Students

A registration fee of $40 per family covers the cost of publications, postage, and registration materials. All families of current AU students participating in any All-American Weekend event must pay this fee. The registration fee includes weekend events and activities indicated by a star (*). Events not starred require the purchase of an additional ticket.

Hotels

October is a very busy month in Washington, D.C. We suggest that you make your hotel arrangements as soon as possible. Please visit our online list of local hotels (/oct/orientation/Local-Hotels.cfm).

Getting to AU

We encourage guests to use public transportation to get to campus, including the Metro and the AU Shuttle. Temporary parking permits are available for those who need to park on campus on Friday, October 20. Parking is complimentary for registrants and should be requested when you register for the weekend. Parking will be open on Saturday, October 21, and Sunday, October 22. For directions to campus, see american edu/maps.

Refunds, Cancellations, and Changes to Your Registration

Cancellations must be made in advance, with requests for refunds submitted in writing by October 13. Please note that all refunds will be credited to your charge card after All-American Weekend.

If you wish to make any changes to an existing registration, please email your request to family allamericanweekend@american.edu. (mailto:family.allamericanweekend@american.edu). Changes cannot be made online.

Accommodations

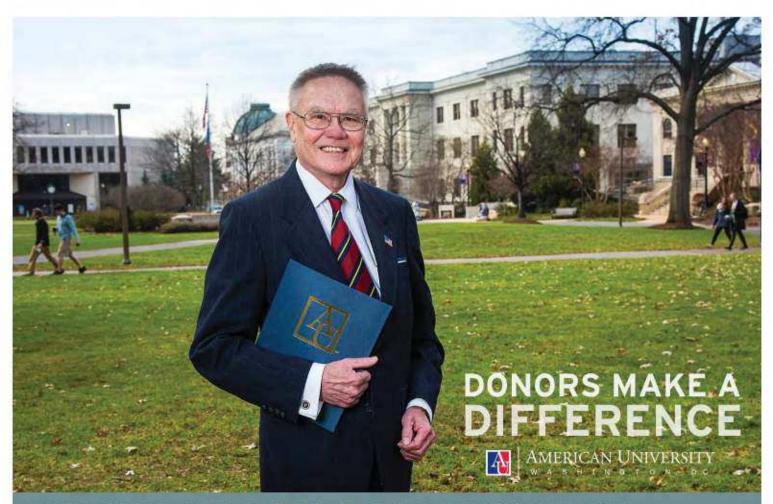

If you have questions about access or need to request sign language interpreters, please contact the Academic Support and Access Center by email atasac@american.edu or by phone at 202-885-3360.

BIGAPPLE WRITING TEAM SERVES BLEND UP LATTE TROUBLE p. 18

ANEW RANKS OF STUDENT VETS ARE SWELLING P. 22

HIGH SICK KIDS ENJOY FACE TIME WITH CLASSMATES P. 28

HOWARD LEE, SPA/BA '69, WCL/JD '73

Howard Lee is proof that there's no better place to study government and law than the nation's capital. A Washington native, Lee is a veteran of the George H. W. Bush administration and a former staff director for the US House of Representatives's subcommittee on domestic finance and monetary policy, "AU's School of Public Affairs and Washington College of Law provide students the opportunity to learn from some of the finest policy makers, advocates, and judges serving our country," says Lee, executive secretary and managing director of Cosmos Alliance, a DC-based investment group that advances emerging biotechnologies.

An AU alumnus twice over, Lee believes it's his duty to help safeguard the academic integrity of independent, private institutions. "It's important that everyone who has a stake in AU do what they can to ensure its future." For his part, Lee created three awards, named in honor of friends and family—Pat Heinaman, SPA/BA '71; Charles M. Johnson, CAS/BA '68, and his wife, Lucy; and his aunt Alice Lee Quan, CAS/BA '34, and her husband, Lau King Quan—to help AU students cover their academic expenses. Lee has also provided annual contributions to WCL for more than three decades.

Years ago, the Fredericksburg, Virginia, resident named SPA and WCL in his estate plans. His gift will support scholarships to help relieve the burden of student debt and better prepare AU Eagles to pursue their passions. "Howard's commitment to helping the next generation of AU students fulfill their academic and professional dreams is remarkable," says AU president Neil Kerwin. "I am grateful for his philanthropic vision and generous spirit."

FOR INFORMATION ON HOW YOUR VISION CAN CREATE A LEGACY at American University through a sound charitable estate plan, contact Kara Barnes, director of planned giving, at 202-885-5914 or kbarnes@american.edu, or visit american.edu/plannedgiving.

PASSION +COMMITMENT+ GENEROSITY =ANNUAL GIVING

DESIGNATE YOUR GIFT TO THE AREA OF CAMPUS THAT MEANS THE MOST TO YOU.
FIND YOUR PASSION AT

GIVING.AMERICAN.EDU

AMERICAN
UNIVERSITY
N WASHINGTON, DC

WASHINGTON, DC 20016-8002

Address Service Requested

For information regarding the accreditation and state licensing of American University, please visit american.edu/academics. NON-PROFIT ORG

US POSTAGE PAID

BURLINGTON, VT 05401

PERMIT NO. 604

SHOW US YOUR LOVE (OR TELL US WHAT WE CAN DO BETTER).

TAKE THE AMERICAN MAGAZINE SURVEY BY APRIL 30

FOR A CHANCE TO WIN AN IPAD MINI.

AMERICAN.EDU/AMERICANMAGSURVEY

AND DON'T FORGET TO DOWNLOAD THE AMERICAN APP-LOIS LOYES THAT, TOO!

AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY MAGAZINE | NOVEMBER 2014

A Dream, Realized?

OPACIS OF RIGHTS

COL

NIPACINIL 196A

CULTU

AND CHA

REMAIN

VICTORIES, HEARTBREAKS, UNINTENDED CONSEQUENCES,
CULTURAL MILESTONES, AND CHALLENGES THAT

For more than a decade, AU friend Lillian Abensohn has been an ardent advocate of the Center for Israel Studies, the first university based center devoted to the multifaceted study of the Middle Eastern nation. The center, founded in 1998, "offers students and the community exciting lectures and programs that are balanced and current, bringing to light the many dimensions of Israel," says Lillian, a retired English professor and former AU adjunct. Lillian and her late husband,

Lillian and her late husband,
Seymour, were instrumental in propelling the Center for Israel Studies to international prominence by providing financial support for the creation of an endowed chair.
Michael Brenner (pictured), who started Germany's first Jewish history and culture program, joined the center in 2013 as the inaugural
Seymour and Lillian Abensohn
Endowed Chair in Israel Studies.

started Germany's first Jewish history and culture program, joined
the center in 2013 as the inaugural
Seymour and Lillian Abensohn
Endowed Chair in Israel Studies.
"Under Dr. Brenner's leadership, the center has brought some of the finest minds and cultural innovators in Israel to AU," says Peter Starr, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences.
"We are grateful for the Abensohns' foresight in creating a permanent chair in support of the center."

Lillian also made plans in her estate to support the center through a gift of life insurance. The Abensohn Endowment has been supplemented by donations from friends of AU and the couple, and members of Washington's Jewish community. American University is grateful for the Abensohns' inspired philanthropy. Their generosity ensures that the Center for Israel Studies will continue to serve as a model in this vibrant field of study.

For information on how your vision and charitable estate planning can create a legacy at American University, contact Kara Barnes, director of planned giving, at (202) 885-5914 or kbarnes@american.edu, or visit american.edu/plannedgiving.

SHARE +NETWORK+ REMINISCE =CONNECT WITH AU

AMERICAN.EDU/ALUMNI

- FACEBOOK facebook.com/americanualum
- TWITTER

 ®americanualum
- FLICKR flickr.com/americanualum
- INSTAGRAM
 instagram.com/americanualum

- in LINKEDIN

 American University Alumni
- STORIFY storify.com/americanualum
- YOUTUBE youtube.com/americanualum
- ONLINE COMMUNITY alumniassociation.american.edu

AMERICAN
UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON, DC

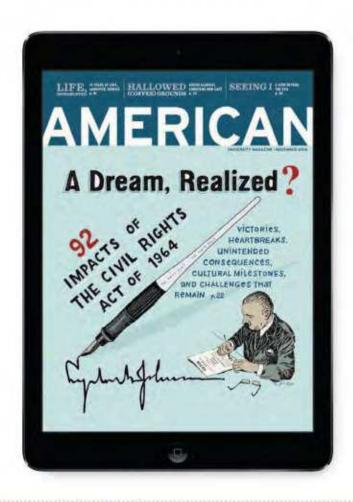

WASHINGTON, DC 20016-8002

Address Service Requested

For information regarding the accreditation and state licensing of American University, please visit american.edu/academics. NON-PROFIT ORG
US POSTAGE PAID
BURLINGTON, VT 05401

PERMIT NO. 604

APP-ETITE?

DOWNLOAD OUR NEW, free app for iPad, which offers a stunning digital presentation of American magazine, plus extras like video, time lapse photography, links, and other interactive features.

TED RINGELHEIM, CAS/BA'68

Ted Ringelheim is perhaps busier in retirement than he was during his working days, and the former Alexandria Public Schools employee's own alma mater remains an important part of his social calendar.

After attending an AU men's basketball game in 2001 at the invitation of the alumni association, Ringelheim, a sports nut and a history buff, has become one of the Athletics Department's biggest cheerleaders. He's a regular in the stands at basketball games and volleyball matches, and hits the field himself as a second baseman with the Northern Virginia Senior Softball league. An avid bowler and Washington Nationals' season ticket holder, Ringelheim—a former social studies teacher and guidance counselor—also exercises his mind, auditing AU history courses with Professor Peter Kuznick.

In appreciation of those who shaped his AU experience, as both a student and an alumnus, Ringelheim established the Ted Ringelheim Life Skills Fund to give student-athletes training in financial literacy and social etiquette. "I wanted to extend a big thank you to AU during my lifetime and now have the pleasure of seeing AU student-athletes mature through the life skills program," Ringelheim says. He also made provisions in his estate plans to enhance the Life Skills Fund and to create an endowed scholarship for AU students pursuing a degree in history.

American University is grateful for Ringelheim's foresight, enthusiasm, and lifelong commitment to students. Scores of AU Eagles will benefit from his generosity—on the field, in the classroom, and beyond.

FOR INFORMATION ON HOW YOUR VISION CAN CREATE A LEGACY at American University through a sound charitable estate plan, contact Kara Barnes, director of planned giving, at (202) 885-5914 or kbarnes@american.edu, or visit american.edu/plannedgiving.

WASHINGTON, DC 20016-8002

Address Service Requested

For information regarding the accreditation and state licensing of American University, please visit american.edu/academics.

NON-PROFIT ORG US POSTAGE PAID BURLINGTON, VT 05401 PERMIT NO. 604

DECONSTRUCTED

LOBSTER IS THE MOST SUCCULENT, SOUGHT-AFTER SEAFOOD IN AMERICA.

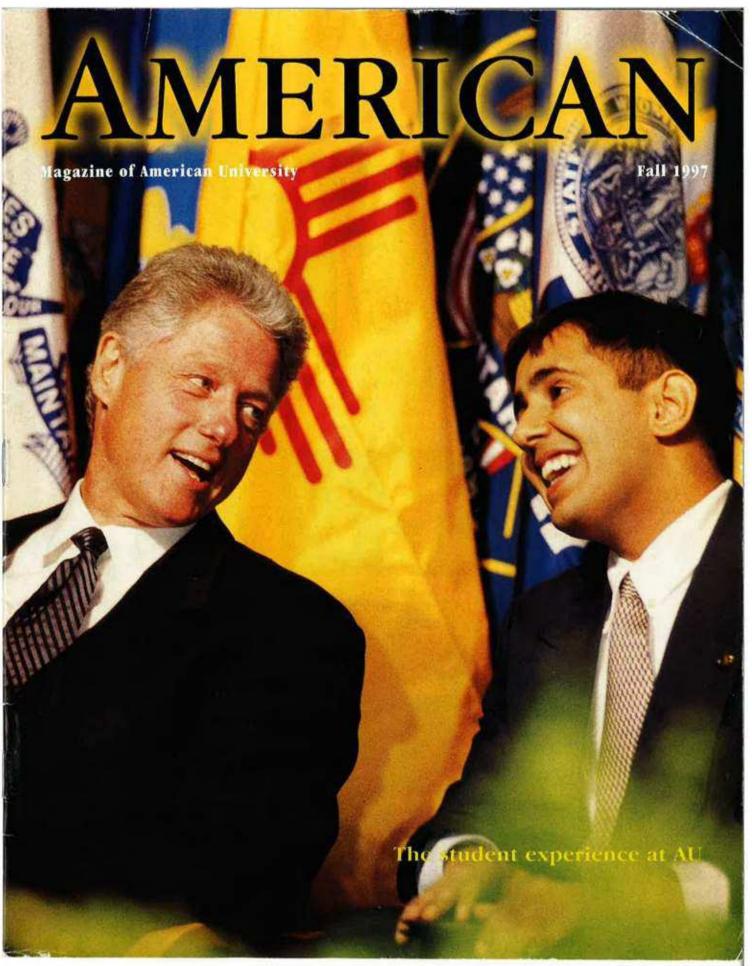

Whether we're delicately devouring one with a tiny fork at a fine-dining establishment, cracking one on a picnic table in Maine, ordering a McLobster roll at McDonald's (they do exist), or dunking a piece of tail meat into melted butter at, well, a Red Lobster, it's clear that if you like food that once swam in the ocean, you love lobster.

No one knows this more than Mark Grobman, CAS/BA '77, the wholesale purchasing manager for New York-based Lobster Place. He buys about 15,000 pounds of lobster in an average week-and has eaten his fair share as well. We asked the former Maine resident to help us debut our new back-cover feature by deconstructing this craved crustacean.

Get your (lobster) tails in gear and enter to win a lobster roll kit for four from Lobster Place. Email answer to magazine@american.edu WONKS: or tweet us at @au_americanmag by August 15.

In 2013 US lobster landings (the total weight of the catch) tipped the scales at 149,762,251 pounds-worth a whopping $461,818,967. But there's more to lobsters than girth and worth. Which one of the following statements about lobsters is not true?

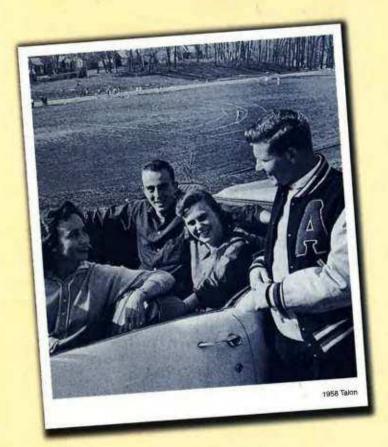

- A. Offshore lobsters migrate during the spring anywhere from 50 to 190 miles.
- B. Scientists believe some American lobsters may live to be 100 years old.
- C. Females can produce from 5,000 to more than 100,000 eggs, depending on their size.
- D. Lobsters molt only once over a period of five to eight years before they reach the minimum legal size to be harvested.

AU059548

University Publications Washington, DC 20016-8121

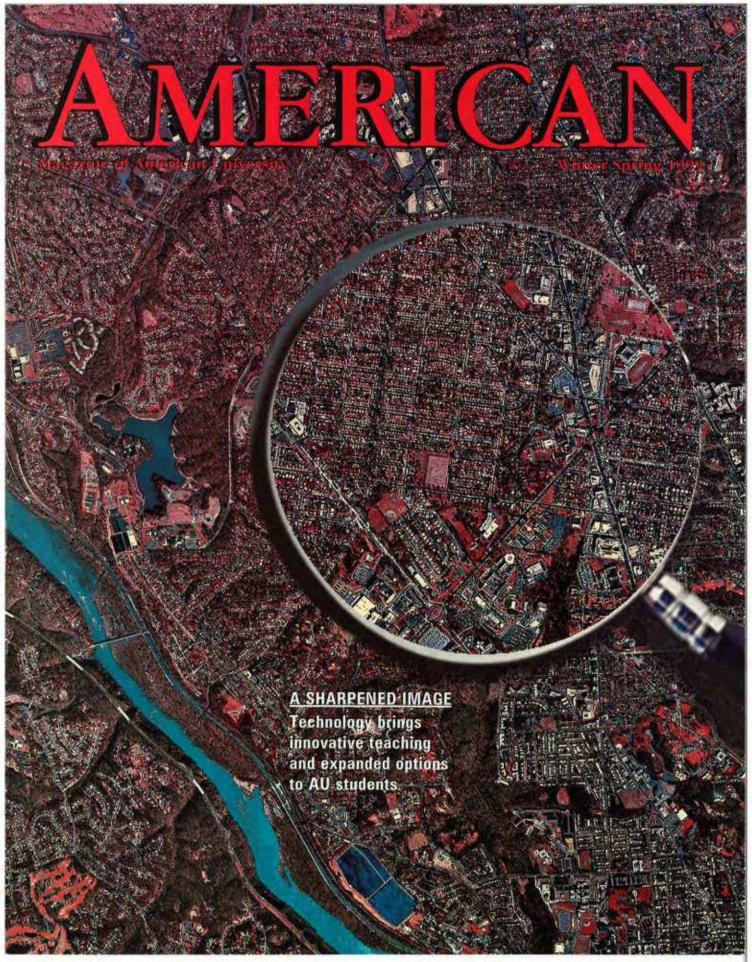

If you remember ...

crew cuts, cars with tail fins, JFK's commencement speech, Vietnam, Watergate, supply side economics, or Bill Clinton's first inauguration . . . then you belong at Reunion '98. September 11-13, 1998

Honoring the classes of 1948 (and prior years), 1953, 1958, 1963, 1968, 1973, 1978, 1983, 1988, and 1993

For more information about Reunion '98, call the Alumni Relations office at 202-885-5960 (D.C. alums) or 1-800-270-ALUM (out-of-town alums).

Non-Profit U.S. Postage PAII Permit No. 966 Washington, D.C

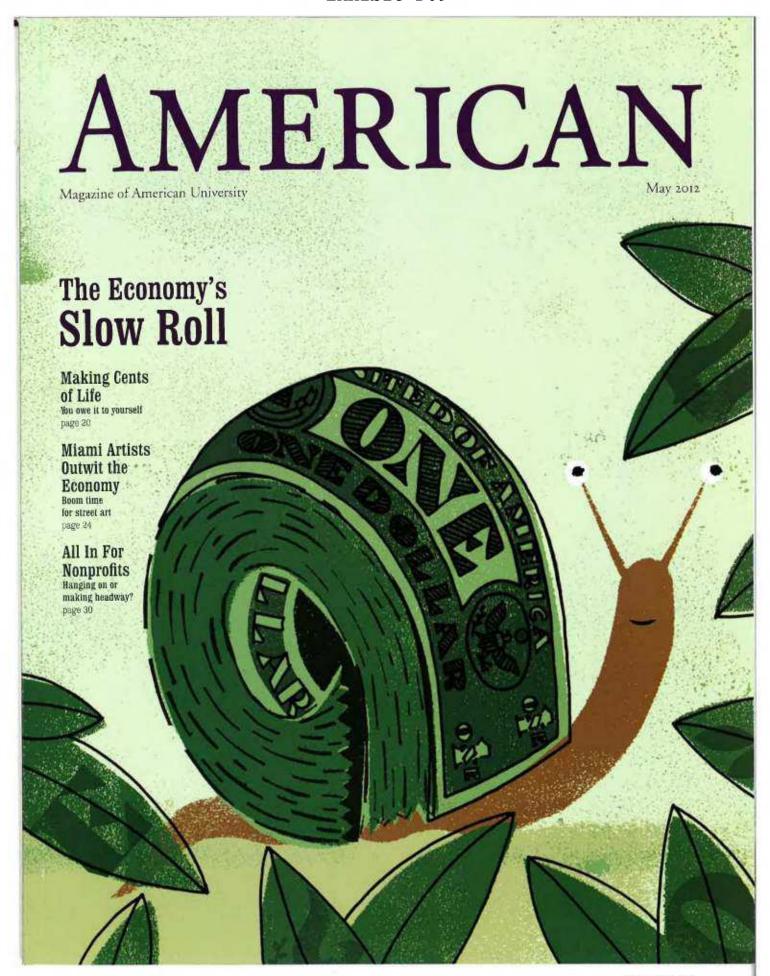

Count yourself in . . .
Classes of: 1934, 1939, 1944, 1949, 1954, 1959, 1964, 1969, 1974, 1979, 1984, 1989, and 1994
We're counting on you.

Reunion '99 September 24–26

For more information about Reunion '99 or to volunteer to serve on the Reunion Committee, call the Alumni Relations office at 202-885-5960 (D.C. alums) or 1-800-270-ALUM (out of town alums).

University Publications Washington, DC 20016-8121 Non-Profit U.S. Postage PAID Permit No. 966 Washington, D.C.

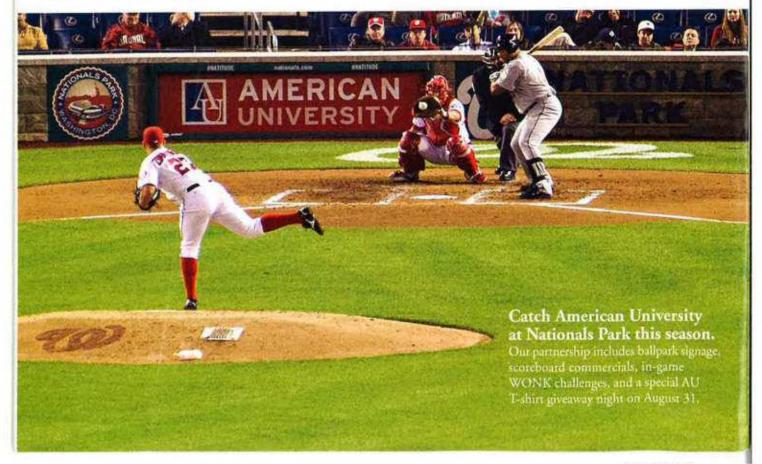

US POSTAGE PAID BURLINGTON, VT 05401 PERMIT NO. 604

NON-PROFIT ORG

Washington, DC 20016-8002 Address Service Requested

TEETERING PENSIONS, PRIVACY, PAPER MAPS, AND MORE
ON EXTINCTION p. 18

Exhibit D70
BRACING FOR A DISASTER, PLANE
IMPACT P. 24

HOME FIELD 1985 SOCCER MATCH WAS A GAME CHANGER P. 32

UNIVERSITY MAGAZINE | NOVEMBER 2015

AFTER THE FLASH

The painful past and peaceful rebirth of Hiroshima

p. 26

平和を

せなが

DIVERSE +NETWORK+ OUTREACH -ALUMNI AFFINITY COMMUNITIES

ALUMNIASSOCIATION.AMERICAN.EDU/AFFINITY

American University boasts 15 affinity groups—networks that celebrate and support identity, industry, leisure, and student activities and experience. Alumni affinity communities include:

- Black Alumni Alliance
- Eagles Nest faculty and staff alumni
- Entertainment and Media Alumni Alliance
- >> Honors Alumni Network

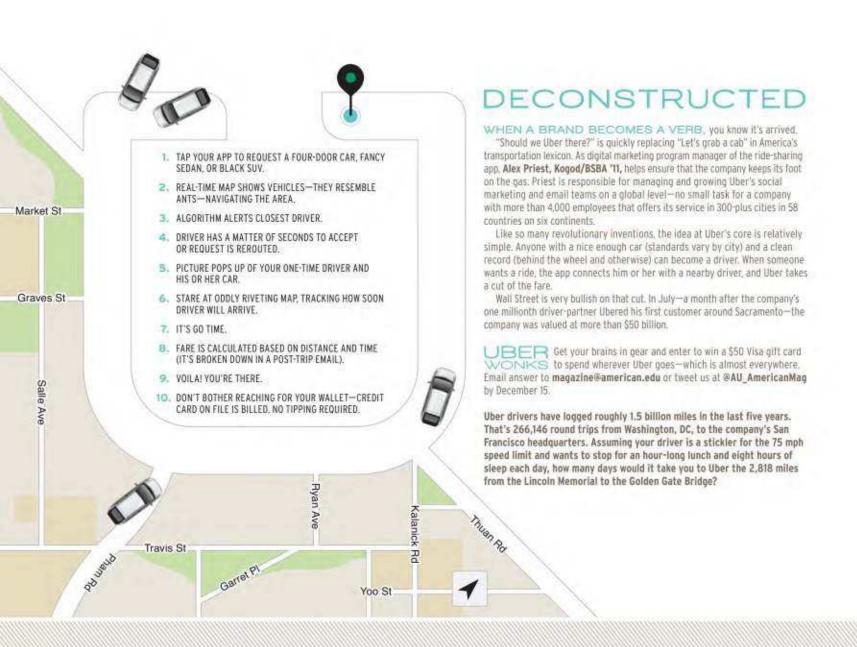

- >> Latino Alumni Alliance
- Legacy Alumni Network
- >> Pride Alumni Alliance
- Veterans Network
- Women's Network

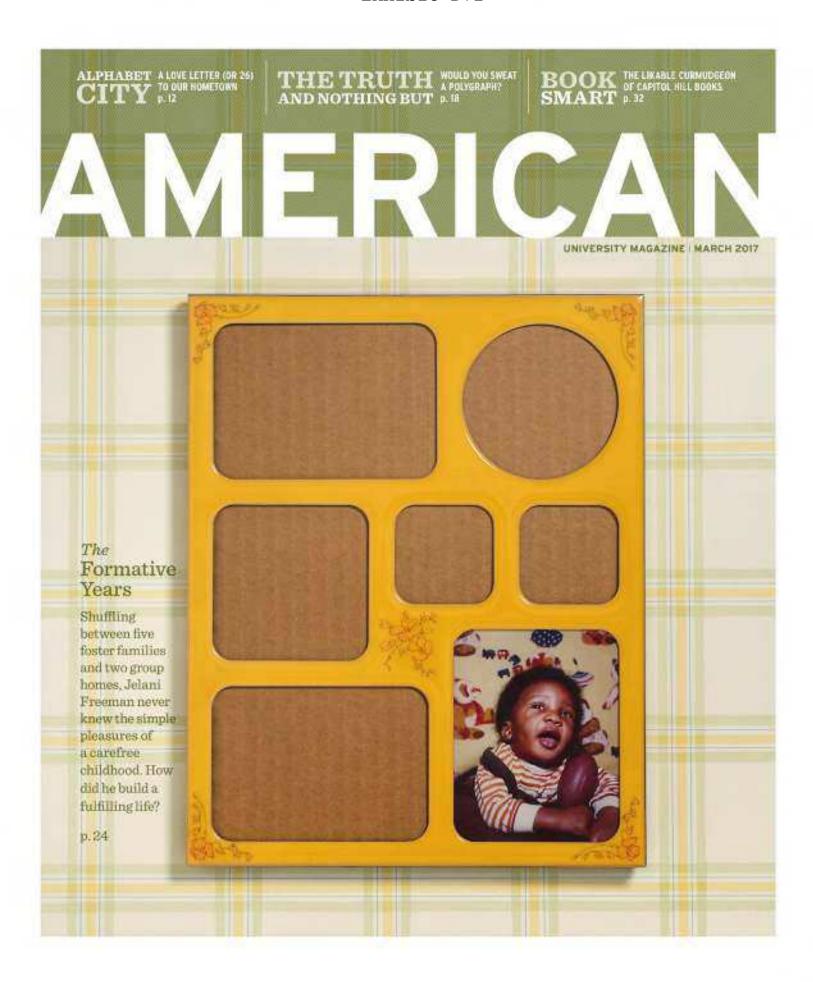

AMERICAN
UNIVERSITY
WASHINGTON, DC

WASHINGTON, DC 20016-8002 Address Service Requested

For information regarding the accreditation and state licensing of American University, please visit american.edu/academics. NON-PROFIT ORG
US POSTAGE PAID
BURLINGTON, VT 05401
PERMIT NO. 604

GEORGE "COOKIE" REED-DELLINGER, KOGOD/BSBA '69, KOGOD/MBA '71

Beginning with the 1976 Olympic Games in Montreal and extending through last aummer in Rio, George "Cookie". Reed-Dellinger has experienced 14 Olympics (and his plans are already underway to attend the 2018 Winter Olympics in Korea). It is no surprise, then, that athletics also played a significant role in his American University experience.

Reed-Trillinger began playing secont his suphumore year. Although at first be "ran like a fire hydrant and kicked with my toe," he later became captain of the succer team, a highlight of his time at AU. To this day he remains firmly connected to the team through volunteer service on the AU Athletics Eagles Leadership Council, through philanthropic support—he gave a grit to name the men's locker room—and through mentoring student-athletes in their professional careers.

An alumnus twice over, an AU legacy parent (of daughter Whitney Dellinger, CAS/MA '09), and a former adjunct professor in the Rogad School of Business, Reed-Dellinger now evaluates financial markets as senior vice president at Washington Analysis. As a professor, he showed his AU students the power of investing in education. He would assign a range of investments from stocks and bonds to horses and antiques. Then, after taxes or capital losses. Reed-Dellinger would underscore that "an investment in tailtion is the best investment you can make. The IRS and the divorce court can't take your education. You'll feel better about yourself and probably make more money."

Reed-Dellinger, who also recently joined the American University Alumni Board, has chosen to further his personal investment in AU student-athletes by naming the university as a beneficiary in his estate plans. He intends to provide need-based financial support durough the "Cookle Scholarship" for student-uthletes who play sneed at AU "It is time to give back," Reed-Dellinger says, "As I retire, it made sense to give time, focus, and resources to AU. Once an Engle, always an Engle."

FOR INFORMATION ON HOW YOUR VISION AND CHARITABLE ESTATE PLANNING can create a legacy at American University, contact Kara Barnes, director of planned giving, at 202-885-5914 or kbarnes@american.edu, or visit american, edu/plannedgiving.

PASSION +COMMITMENT+ GENEROSITY =ANNUAL GIVING

DESIGNATE YOUR GIFT TO THE AREA OF CAMPUS THAT MEANS THE MOST TO YOU.
FIND YOUR PASSION AT

GIVING.AMERICAN.EDU

WASHINGTON, DC 20016-8002

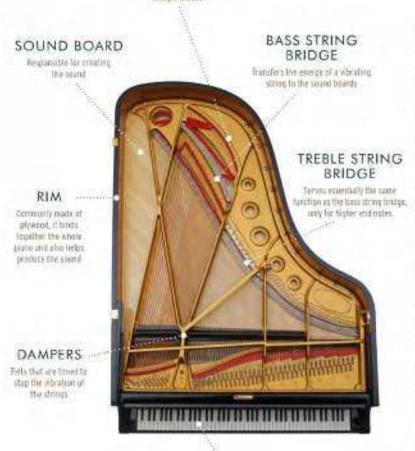

Address Service Requested

For Information regarding the accreditation and state licensing of American University, please visit american, edu/academics.

MON-PROFIT DRG US POSTAGE PAID BURLINGTON, VT 05401 PERMIT NO. 604

CAST IRON PLATE

Rolats together the strings, bodges. and pln Blacks

KEYBOARD

88 keys: 52 white and 36 black:

DECONSTRUCTED

JAZZ LEGEND THELONIOUS MONK one of the greatest to ever fickle the ivories, once said, "The prana aid") got no wrong notes."

Dearly he never heard us play. The instrument, said to have been inverted in the seventeenth century by Raken Bartolomec Cristofors. is an Ingenious concection of hommers, strings, pedats, and keys on which many of the greatest musicians composed their masterphices. For the rest of us, it's often our first farey into the world of mysicianship.

The layout is so logical," says Max Mittles, the technician who ensizes that the purios at the Katzen Arts Center sound exquisite. 'On another instrument like a clarinet or guitar you have to team that roadmap of the fingering whereas on a plano within minutes you could feeds semebody the notes and it's just night there at frost of you."

A direct descendant of the horpsichers, the plane produces sound when one of the keys triade out of plastic these days) is pressed and powers a humber to strike one of 220 strings. (The number of strings cert very.t

"If you lift the hammer deliberately toward the string, it comes very close to the string but it doesn't touch it. From that point on, momentum is the only thing carrying the humber flowers the string, so we can choose to play softly or loodly," Mitter says. "This is one thing I find magical about pianes."

FINGER flow hear time. Correctly enswer the trivia grestion WALKING below and enter to win a 550 Plones gift card. WONKS Email answer to magazine Flamerican.edu or treet us #AU_AmericanNeg by April 30.

Which of the following is not the name of a pedal on a grand granc?

- As tion corda
- 8) Sestenuto
- C) Sustaming

Di Hass

IN THE UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE BEFORE THE TRADEMARK TRIAL AND APPEAL BOARD

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Petitioner,

V.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT,

Registrant.

Cancellation No. 92049706

Reg. No. 3387226

Mark: AUK AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT

Reg. Date: February 26, 2008

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT,

Counter-Petitioner,

V.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY,

Counter-Registrant.

Reg. No 2986715 Mark: AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date Aug. 23, 2005

Reg. No. 3559022

Mark: A NEW AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date: Jan. 06, 2009

Reg. No. 4127891

Mark: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

WASHINGTON COLLEGE OF

LAW and Design

Reg. Date: Apr. 17, 2012

Reg. No. 4774583.

Mark: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date: Jul. 21, 2015

EXHIBITS D72-D76 to DECLARATION "D" OF JANICE HOUSEY E. AMERICAN LINEYERSITY'S USE OF "WASHINGT

(RE: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY'S USE OF "WASHINGTON, D.C."
WITH ITS AMERICAN UNIVERSITY MARK)

THE NO-JOKE MEET WASHINGTON'S OLIVIA POPE p. 26

BRADY'S ESPN'S PUBLIC EDITOR DOESN'T PULL THEM P. 34

THE AMERICAN REFLECTING ON THE REFUNDING P. 28

AMERICAN

WASHINGTON, DC 20016-8002

Address Service Requested

For information regarding the accreditation and state licensing of American University, please visit american edu/academics

NON-PROFIT ORG US POSTAGE PAID BURLINGTON, VT 05401 PERMIT NO. 604

Hung Lin's Jui Jin Shan (Old Gold Mountain) was displayed this fall at the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center as part of the Daughter of China, Resident Alien exhibition.

- · It's made of 225,000 fortune cookies from My Lucky Fortune near Baltimore.
- · They came unwrapped and without fortunes, although a few fortunes slipped through.
- It took seven people two weeks to create the mountain of cookies. Total installation time was three weeks.
- The railroad tracks are from the B&O Railroad Museum in Baltimore.
- . The work clocks in at 6,750,000 calories. Based on a 2,000 calorie-per-day diet, it would take one person nine years and three months to eat all the cookies.
- · It weighs 3,968 pounds—as much as a Ford Taurus.
- · The work contains 1,984 pounds of sugar.

DECONSTRUCTED

There are few things more American than Chinese fortune cookies. The prescient treats first appeared at San Francisco's Japanese Tea Garden in the 1890s, and actually were flops when they were introduced in China a century later.

Today, more than 3 billion cookies are made each year. California-based Passport Food Group makes 25 million annually.

"If you're an Asian food company, you have to do fortune cookies," says Rodney Naylor, SIS/BA '84, Passport's vice president of sales and marketing. "When I bring customers into the plant, they all want to see how fortune cookies are made."

First, a mixture of flour, sugar, vanilla, and sesame seed oil is shaped into silver dollar-sized pancakes. It's then folded before a machine inserts the fortune (prior to the cookie being folded a final time). Ah yes, the fortune. Where do those bite-sized words of wisdom come from, anyway? At Passport, from the minds of its employees. The company maintains a database of more than 1,800 fortunes that were written by everyone from machinists to accountants.

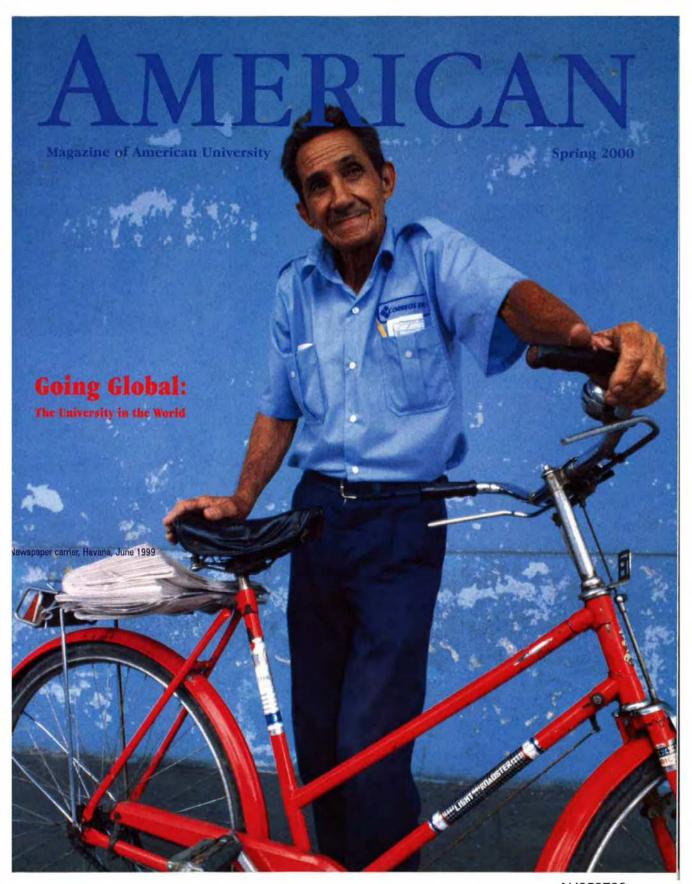

"To me, a fortune cookie is a minute of happiness for a customer," Naylor says. "It's one of the last free gifts you get anymore. It's like the Cracker Jack prize-you know there's one in every box."

Or, when it comes to Chinese food, one in every carryout bag.

WISDOM We're looking for the wisest, wittiest, or wackiest fortune cookie message. Send us your 12-words-or-less nugget of knowledge, and we'll pick our favorite and send the winner a $50 gift certificate to a Chinese restaurant of their choice. Email fortune to magazine@american.edu or tweet us at @AU_AmericanMag by December 16.

AU059700

Have a dream?

Spain?

Costa Rica?

Provence?

Live it with AU's Alumni World Capitals Travel Program.

Alumni College in Spain

March 27-April 4, 2000

Tour Andalucia in southern Spain with AU alumni. Put yourself under the spell of its Moorish-influenced, whitewashed villages, flamenco music, magnificent mosque Mezquita, and Moorish palace, the Alhambra.

Alumni College in Costa Rica

June 9-18, 2000

Naturalist guides will accompany you and other AU alumni adventurers through Costa Rica's lush rainforests. Tour Monteverde Cloud Forest, Palo Verde National Park, and Monteverde Butterfly Garden. Alumni College in Provence

July 18-26, 2000

Spend nine wistful days and nights exploring the magical palette of Provence including Mt. Sainte-Victoire and Arles, land of inspiration for Cezanne and van Gogh.

Please send me more information about:

O Costa Rica

O Provence

Name ____

Degree/School/Year _____

Address _____

Phone ____

City ____

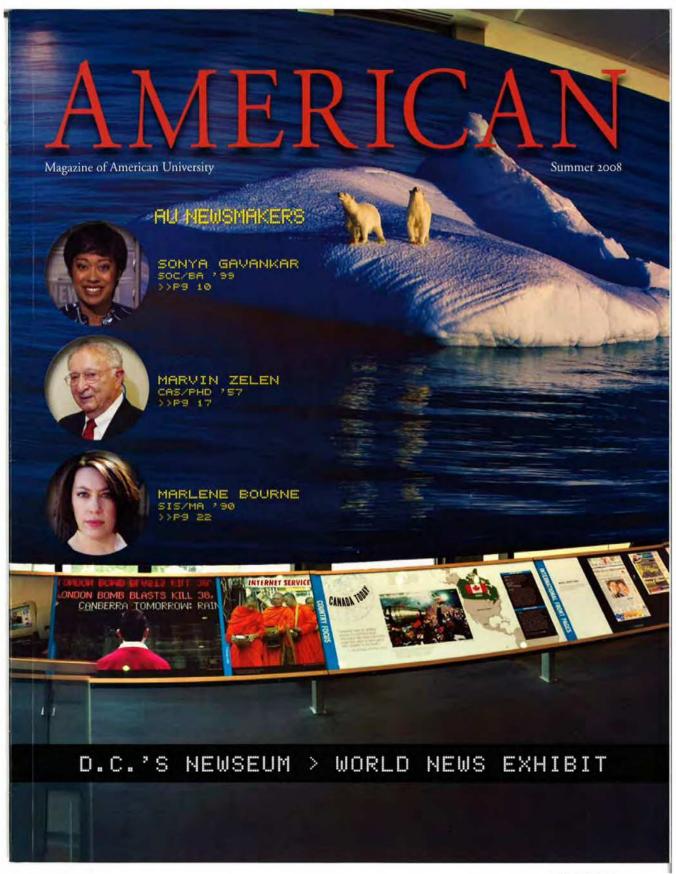

E-mail _

State/Zip/Country

Send to: Alumni Relations, American University, 4400 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20016-8002, Fax 202-885-5964

University Publications Washington, DC 20016-8121 Non-Profit U.S. Postage PAID Permit No. 966 Washington, D.C.

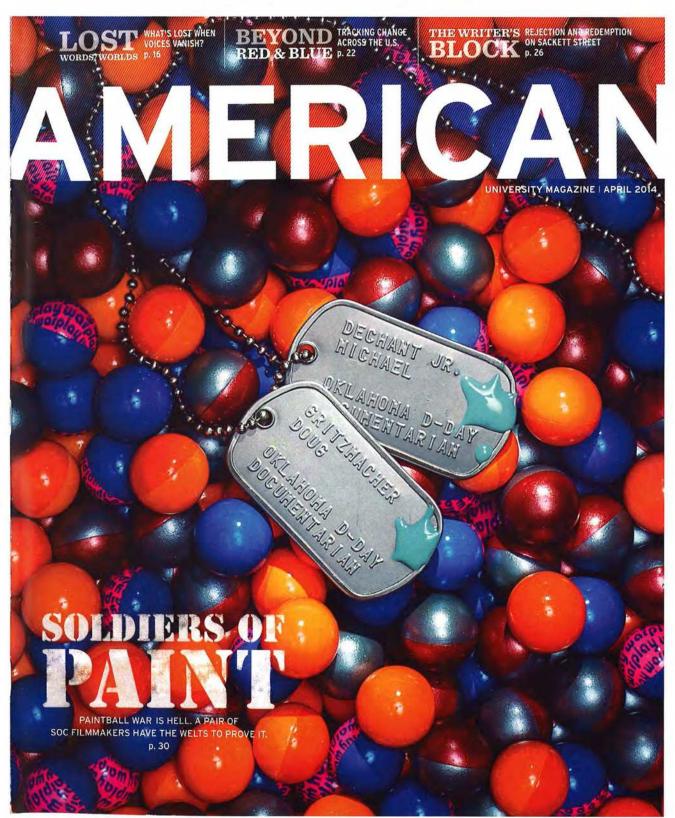

Non-Profit Org. U.S. Postage PAID Permit No. 451 Dulles, V.A.

Washington, DC 20016-8002 Address Service Requested

Join the strategic plan conversation. E-mail strategicplan@american.edu. Help us define the ideas that will transform AU in the 21st century. Fax 202-885-3279.

ling contributions in the stychology. As a doctoral he was inspired by AU as Margaret Rioch and Weiss, He lives and works reville, North Carolina. of Clinical Psychology for sed a new novel, Imprisoll, the calls into question the future of the United Samuel Sheres, SIS/MA ill belong to religious trives or nonbelievers.

and remained friends over the next 37 years but hadn't seen each other in 23 years. They enjoyed exploring Sorrento, Capri, Minori, Naples, and all the towns

Bruce Plaxen, WCL/JD '82, received the 2013 Leadership in Law Award from the Daily Record, a Maryland publication for legal

TOP TUNE

Kendra Harris, Kogod/BSBA '83, talked about her blog, Hoppily Never Married, on WHUR Radio.

craduces the introprecessor; by Stath American time in tower the e to 18 L2000 and war militarits for during the May Jay Pratests in Weshington, Q.C. INTHENEWS

Renee Rosen, SOC/BA '83, wrote

Dolfface: A Novel of the Rearing Twenties, published by Penguin

NAL in November.

published a book called I Wish There Wore Baby Factorics. Julie Weinberg, CAS/BA '87, fluor residents of Juderson port a supling spooting out ole in the Sathroom celling, MTHEAUARCHIVES

Square House Foundation, which provides grants to bousing and Public Relations, was elected to a third term as president of the Susan R. Shelby, S15/BA '88, president and CEO of Rhino A. Dubin, CAS/BS '78, District Mobile Dental, a ely mobile dental service f. The company offers fentul care to businesses aebound and senfor nities in the Washington, meaning to Tree hou to do stand-up comedy. Gina appears on stages around the D.C., area and other cities as time permits, ginabrown.com reimagining the next half of her life and, in addition to writing # book of "Gina-isms," has started Gina Brown, SPA/BA '89, is Laughlin, CAS/PhD '78, ed her eighth novel, Amy nsions between sisters, and parent and child idst of unsettling world rge. The story explores tro area.

appointed to the newly formed by Oronged by Oro-Community/Dire Goal Trade and Logistics Leadership Ground: Formed by the Beacon Council, the group is tasked with charting the future of Mismi's trade and logistics industry. Peter Quinter, WCL,/JD '89, was Hiderth, SOC/BA'80, recently vacationed together on the Amalfi Coast of Italy. They were

Rathy Ferguson Sinnes, SOC/ BA '80, and Anne Murray

TOP GROSSING FLICK TIME -1988

INTHENEWS

C3s outset viryt receits for the first time, 8.45.6 scientist varies Harser warns Congress about the sengers of clobal Merming terroraty bornt Pay Am Inght 103 over Lockettie, Scotland, Miling 270

ALT residence falls go dry, but students can ytill enjoy a cold one in the Tavara. FROMTHEAUARCHIVES was appointed vice president of public affairs for the BrightFocus Michael Buckley, SPA/BA '90, Foundation, a nonprofit that supports research on brain and eye-

1990s

Jules Raymond Cattie, SPA/ BA '90, married > shelter organizations that supp women and families in Boston ounding communities diseases.

Kevin Lane, StS/BA '93, was relieved from Rabin Latif on July 18, 2013.

duty as commanding officer of the amphibious dock landing ship USS Oak Hill. He will join the chief of naval operations staff as ao operations director at the Pentagon.

Stacey L. Young, Kogod/BSBA
93, wrote a new book, Above Expectations—My Story An
Unikely autrmy from Amost
Failing High School to Recoming
a College Projector; in a YouTube video promoting the book, he credits AU for helping him reach his educational goals.

恒恒

EEB

> experience as a second-generation Filipino American and discussed building a law firm and raising a featured on the Filipino Channel the leading cable television network for Filipino Americans in the U.S. Guerrero shared his Rio Guerrero, SIS/BA '94, was family in New York City.

art looting. A blog with links to related content can be found on her website. I aurenfogleboyd.com released her first novel, The Altarpiece, on the subject of Nazi Lauren Fogle, SOC/BA '96, a trip to Mr. Everest in 2012, bringing an AU logo putch with her, This year, she plans to visit Bhutan or Myammar, Toni Bacon, SPA/BA '97, took

BUILDING A BETTER AMERICAN UNIVERSITY WWASHINGTON, DC

> DeCarlo Felix (Derrick Wayne Jackson), CAS/MS '98, wrote a book, The Xstablishment, available for free on Amazon's Kindle

Ari Ghosal, SIS/ MA '98, joined the labor and employment group of Whiteford Taylor

CAS/BA '99, married Mark Murphy on September 29, 2013, at the Richmond County Country Club in Staten Island, New York Jessica Schoenholtz, Washington College of Law asks, and Kenneth Lore answers.

FOR INFORMATION ON THE TENLEY CAMPUS CAMPAIGN, VISIT TENLEY.WCL.AMERICAN.EDU.

AMERICAN.EDU/ALUMNI 37

HEAN MAGAZINE APRIL JOIN

AU-DC024744

vision + planning = legacy

CAN

MY FAVORITES Seiberts most influential musicals:

AMERICA

Stallone, wrote and produced the musical, which stars Andy Karl in the title role.)

GIANT—Based on the Elizabeth Tavior movie about a ranch family and the Texas of boom this debuted at the Signature Treatre in Artington. La Chiusa's score is gargeous. at Toby's Dinner Theatre in Columbia), Seibert returns to AU An avid theatergoer (ber first playbill: Velveneen Rabbit

5.
WITO THE WOODS—In ring school is played the width, and all shaped the bakers with light auditioned for Cindentia.
With light auditioned for Cindentia.
Wither's and a bald role in the bunch, if may a forever Sondheim San. Menninger's Business of Acting class. "It helps me remember bow many steps it's taken to get where each year to speak to students in professor-turned-friend Carl 7.

RASTIME—Lynn Abrens and Skephen Flaherty, the composers of Beglime, also wrote the score for flocky. It's an honor to sing their music. 6.

THE BOY DETECTIVE RAIS—This one also premiere at the Signature Theorier, it's about a boy detective Theorier, it's about a boy detective on or first 50 figure out with his sister died. It's a beautiful story about love and loss. WEST SIDE STORY — I gree up watching WEST SIDE STORY — I gree up watching Need Side Story I Helm I can sing every word. If doesn't matter if ill is a high school production, I'm there.

8.
MELAKCHOLY PLAY—Strath Ruhl and Todd
Amnords smissical which I saw in Brookym in 20%, is swered that designiful, it's willed as "an irrediceal play with a highly cational string quertet."

10.
THE DISAPPEABING MAN—I'm partial to this one because it's any bordined Jahm Sood's musical about a 1930s circus. Yee been involved creatively with the stoney it's important to cultivate and support new ait. ONCE — Once is a beautiful movie-into-e-mistical, which is the trent now will the actors than instruments — fiddles and accordions. It's excling to waith such a falented cast.

PLAY PLAY PLAYI PLAYBIL 0 0 0 0 0

ntchon, Kogol, BSBA '80, and wife Jame, CAS'RA '81, speak of American University as others might extended family, 113 aparison: The couple's cannections to the AU community can deep. Joined AU's wresting program after being recruited by School of Education, Teaching, and Health professor Robert Karch.

OREN AND JAMIE DANIELSON

Before inheriting Talia Shire's famous red beret, Seibert,

6/FSY—6/psy has one of the most beaufild books (narralives); the language is so hones. The part of Louise is my dream role—one day all the stars will align.

LES MISERABLES—An obline but goodle.
Inever fre of Les ME; it's one of the first mustles to use a renolving stage, which is magical. It's coming back to Broadway—I can't wait.

SIS/BA. '05, honed her craft on stages across D.C., including the Forger Theatre, Imagination Stage, and the Oftwey Theatre. Dubbed one of Entertainment Weeklys, 2018 faces to watch, the native Marylander moved to New York in 2010 with sights set on her name in lights, Rocky, she says is "thrilling and scarp—and the opportunity of a lifetime." 1

A knockout performance, Thar's what crities are calling Marigo Selbert's Broadway dobut as painfully shy per store clerk Adrian in Rocky, the musical adaptation of the foorie boxing files, which opened at the Witter Garden Theatre in March, (The Italian Stallion himself, Sylva

DONORS MAKE A

N.

YBI PLAYE PLAY! PLAY! PLAY

DISAPPEARING

ORMATION ABOUT HOW YOUR YISION AND CHARITABLE ESTATE PLANNING can create a lepacy at American University, contact eyer, assistant vice president of development, at 202 885-3411 of spever@american.edu, or visit american.edu/plannedgivring,

RICAN MAGAZINE APPLIL 2014

AU-DC024749

UNPACKED WRIGHT BANNA

MAT '12, kindergarten teacher at Stanton Elementary School, Washington, D.C.

ndrul of what I hat Love Crosch's also and red berries grandly and Faras Cafe , after with almond hep me going.

Trember of 24th Pit Bela al Juliuse/24, antibiotifing back opposited for Trimbred in time Capacity, and profile with the Edges, many of all teachers in the ELG, area, of to paramount in our dissipance of the paramount in our displayer.

RICAN MAGAZINE AFRIL 2016

4. Lenity that shopping Value Vill age in a falser Sprint, bushishadi, Sim for a favoritie everything is falser Sprint, bushishadi Sur Mondaya. Nave Selling plant many things; it an epid for 200.

5. These backings operate and shall a studies. We've done with on the most profess of the sprint region. The MSS ericyned warf the great region. The MSS ericyned hearing should the Naturing should be the Mostage Ameno, the first place, midlay spalloos. 6. Shanton is very college-minded—It's not a version of "f for our shotent, It's "where "Classrooms are named for a college, Outs is tuskepe University, a historica iy black college in Alabama.

7. In a kindergarten classroom gerns are everywhere! Luss sankier to keep my hards cream and students sa'e and Bath and Gody Worlds sree castmere biston to keep them 50%.

8. Stanton is very invested in family emphasement. We do all least two home visits a year, and I pick two superstar students of the casy and other call the patrents or send a note home. Day Goldfish crackers and animal crackers in bulk for the kids.

Iscarted a fitness club for leachers.
 rive of us run the steps of the school.

Imanitain a private blog for my studers and their parents. I also share classroom ideas on my personal blog. Mumbeleachercom.

12. I'm one of 20 Ckybridge Education Innovetion Fellons – a yearlong Fellonship in DL. Leathers. Wive visiting schools in callionia and Cetros. Ihor I'll develop a lehended, presonelized harming pilot program.

Crayole has nothing on me: I have an array of writing utensits in my bag.
 Lustlest less then pins. The kids always notice when I wear one.

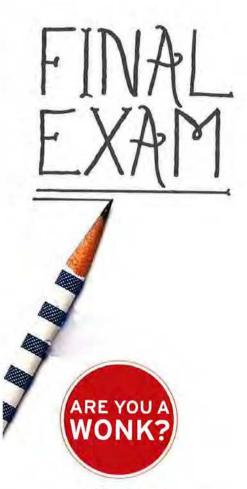

GIVING.AMERICAN.EDU

SCAN

WASHINGTON, DC 20016-8002 Address Service Requested

For information regarding the accreditation and state licensing of American University, please visit american.edu/academics. NON-PROFIT ORG
US POSTAGE PAID
BURLINGTON, YT 05401
PERMIT NO. 604

Go fact to fact
WITH AU'S PEOPLE IN THE KNOW AT AMERICANWONKS.COM/QUIZZES.

THE CHALLENGE

Frostbitten Washingtonians likened this winter—one of the coldest on record—to the Arctic. But comparisons to the North Pole, an area especially vulnerable to the effects of global warming, aren't entirely accurate: while D.C. saw record lows, the Arctic is getting warmer. Government professor James Quick kicks off his popular Power and Money course with a discussion of the security, economic, and environmental implications of Arctic melt. Drop anchor and take the following quiz to see how your Arctic aptitude stacks up to that of SPA students.

THE QUESTIONS

- 1. What is the primary body of international law governing the Arctic Ocean?
- Commercial shipping through the Arctic has increased dramatically in recent years. What other activity is likely to generate a flurry of activity in the region?
- 3. Why does Denmark care?
- 4. What is Svalbard saving for the rest of us?
- 5. Russia has a fleet of icebreakers, Canada has six, and Estonia has two. How many does the United States have? (Extra credit: how many does National Geographic have?)

THE DETAILS Submit the correct answers to magazine@american.edu by May 15 to be entered to win a six-month subscription to Politics and Prose Bookstore's Book-a-Month Gift Program.

Congratulations to Christopher Hannigan, SPA/BA '07, who aced last issue's final exam.

This Week's Newsmakers Aug. 14 - Aug. 20, 2010

Top Stories

High Achieving Students at AU

The Washington Post profiled two sisters, Meghan and Moira Esson, who as incoming freshmen are members of American University's highest achieving class in history. The class of 2014 boasts the most students who graduated in the top 10 percent of their class, and an average GPA of 3.79. The story illustrates a trend at universities across the nation where applications are up—as are the caliber of applicants— and admission at selective schools is down. (8/19)

A Mosque at Ground Zero and Religious Tolerance

Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, appeared in major media outlets to discuss the controversy around the Ground Zero mosque, religious tolerance, and Americans' views about Muslims. "For most Americans, 9/11 remains as an open wound, and anything associated with Islam, even for Americans who want to understand Islam—to have an Islamic center with so much publicity is like rubbing salt in open wounds," he said in an Associated Press story, which appeared in more than 375 news outlets. This week Ahmed appeared on WAMU's Diane Rehm Show, CNN's Anderson Cooper 360, and Fox News Channel's America's Newsroom. Ahmed also wrote an OpEd which appeared on CNN.com.

Quotes

Travel to Cuba Eased

Robert Pastor, professor of international relations, was quoted by The New York Times regarding developments the easing of travel restrictions to Cuba saying, "We're dealing with a relationship that's so contorted; it would take another 50 years of incremental steps to pull it apart and reassemble it in a constructive way." (8/16)

19th Amendment Brings Results Today

In The Christian Science Monitor Jennifer Lawless, director of the Women & Politics Institute, suggested women are finally making the gains in politics that were promised to them when the 19th Amendment was passed 90 years ago. "Women turn out to vote in greater proportions than men, so women can often be the decisive bloc in an election," she said. (8/18)

Buffet Reclaims His Stake in Johnson&Johnson

Bloomberg Businessweek

Gerald Martin, professor of finance, was quoted in Bloomberg Businessweek about Warren Buffet's repurchase of his shares in Johnson & Johnson. "He's starting to [build] back up in the investments he wants to be in-Johnson &

Johnson and, of course, the new Fisery," said Martin. (8/17)

This Week's Newsmakers Aug. 20 - Aug. 27, 2010

Top Stories

Freshman Service Experience

First year students were featured in The Northwest Current for their efforts during last week's Freshman Service Experience. They volunteered at Tenleytown's Washington Home and Community Hospice. Students served at more than 50 sites throughout the D.C., Maryland, and Virginia suburbs and according to freshman participant, Aaron Grushkin, the goal was to contribute 14,000 hours of service by the end of the week. (8/25)

Ground Zero Mosque Controversy Grows

Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, continued to appear in national media outlets to discuss the controversy around the Ground Zero mosque, religious tolerance, and American perceptions of Muslim Americans. In his appearances on MSNBC's Andrea Mitchell Reports and Fox News' O'Reilly Factor, Ahmed discussed the mosque controversy, including his views about Imam Fiesal Abdul Rauf and the need for Muslims to be more sensitive to post 9/11 issues. In The New York Times, Ahmed said, "[Fiesal Abdul Rauf] is in the eye of a storm for which he's not suited at all. He's not a political leader of Muslims, yet he now somehow represents the Muslim community." Ahmed was also quoted in stories on CNN.com and The Washington Post.

Additional Feature

Mosque Controversy Stirs Discussion on Campus

Tanim Awwal, president of the Muslim Student Association, was interviewed by The Washington Post for a feature about Muslim college student reactions to the Ground Zero mosque controversy. AU was mentioned as a campus where Muslim students felt safe and included despite tension throughout country over post 9/11 issues. (8/27)

OpEds

Experiencing the Journey into America

For The Washington Post's "On Faith" column, AU graduate fellow washingtonpost.com Hailey Woldt discussed her experiences working with Professor Ahmed on his new book Journey into America: the Challenge of Islam.

"For many non-Muslim American children, they are inheriting a legacy of fear and mistrust and there are innocent Muslim children, not even in existence on 9/11, who are becoming the victims." "(8/24)

This Week's Newsmakers Aug. 28 – Sept. 3, 2010

Top Story

Best Places to Work in Federal Government

The Washington Post

The School of Public Affairs' Institute for the Study of Public Policy Implementation and the Partnership for Public Service's annual Best Places to Work in Federal Government rankings show that employee satisfaction is at an all-time high as reported in a Washington Post exclusive. Chronicle of Higher Education, Federal News Radio, Fox News Channel, and The Hill, among others, also published the rankings. (9/1)

OpEds

Experts Debate Muslim Culture

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

The Wall Street Journal published an OpEd by Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, who discussed the impact the Ground Zero mosque debate has had on American perceptions of Muslims. "Having studied the practices of Muslims around the world today, I've come up with three broad categories: mystic, modernist and literalist. Of course, I must add the caveat that these are analytic models and aren't watertight," Ahmed wrote. (9/1)

Advocates for Troy Davis

A federal judge in Savannah, Georgia, ruled that new evidence did not support death row inmate Troy Anthony Davis' innocence in the 1989 slaying of an off-duty police officer. Gemma Puglisi, professor of communication, who has incorporated efforts to advocate for Davis' innocence into her classes, wrote an OpEd for Savannah Morning News rebutting another column that supported the judge's ruling." (8/30)

Quotes

Beck's Restoring Honor Rally

Jane Hall, professor of communication, appeared on CNN's Reliable Sources to comment on Glenn Beck's Restoring Honor rally on the National Mall. She discussed the landmark event and who constitutes the "we" that Beck said would be the group of people to "restore honor" to the country. (8/29)

Federal Court Upholds Verdict

The New York Times

The New York Times quoted Stephen Vladeck, professor of law, about his efforts to file a brief asking a federal appeals court to rehear the case of Guantanamo detainee Ghaleb Nassar al-Bihani from Yemen. "They've basically removed the single biggest complaint people had with that opinion," he said, "They said, 'We don't think we need to rehear the whole case just to limit the opinion." (8/31)

This Week's Newsmakers Sept. 4 – Sept. 10, 2010

Top Story

Primary Voter Turnout Low for Democrats

"What the last 16 months have done is rob the public of the hope that was engendered in 2008," said Curtis Gans, director of the Center for the Study of the American Electorate, to USA TODAY about the center's analysis which showed democratic voters did not vote in mass for the midterm election primaries. On MSNBC's The Rachel Maddow Show, Maddow said the analysis was more useful than polling data. The Associated Press story was circulated to more than 140 outlets including Washington Post, Los Angeles Times, Forbes and Time. The Wall Street Journal's Washington Wire and Washington Post's Who Runs Gov also commented on the study's significance. (9/7)

Additional Features

AU's Green Campus

Students, faculty, staff and local neighbors built a green roof on the Kogod School of Business and Chris O'Brien, director of sustainability, noted on WUSA-CBS9, that AU has the highest density of green roofs for a DC campus. WRC-NBC4 featured the new School of International Service building and noted its environmentally friendly aspects during a teaser for the evening weather. (9/8)

OpEds

Religious Turmoil in America

Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic Studies, wrote an opinion piece for CNN.com suggesting Pastor Terry Jones and Imam Feisal Abdul Rauf "appeared to be disconnected" from the controversies surrounding them in the media until recently. Ahmed observed, "Two men of God, both believing that they are motivated by their faith, are adding fuel to the fire flaring around the religion of Islam in the United States today." (9/8)

Quotes Burn Quran Day

Florida Pastor Terry Jones threatened to burn the Quran, the Muslim holy book, if Imam Feisal Abdul Rauf did not change his plans to build a mosque near Ground Zero. Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, commented on the pastor's ultimatum on CNN's American Morning, "I've never heard this argument before that a construction that's yet to be created is somehow jeopardizing this national security of the [USA]." He discussed the controversy on BBC World News, BBC Radio,

WJLA-ABC7 and WTOP Radio. The Associated Press and the Los Angeles Times quoted him. (9/8-9/9)

This Week's Newsmakers Sept. 11 - Sept. 17, 2010

Top Stories

Religious Tolerance in a Post 9/11 World

In an Associated Press article about the anniversary of the September 11 tragedies, Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, said, "Many mosques are engaged in internal struggles between Muslims with rigid and modernist views, but I found none that fit the imaginings of anti-Muslim conspiracy theorists." More than 275 outlets republished the article, including the San Francisco Chronicle, Los Angeles Times and MSNBC.com. Ahmed was also quoted in an NPR.org article and wrote an OpEd for CNN.com. On NPR's On Point, he spoke about his recent journey across America to visit mosques and for YahooNews.com, he discussed his decision to join a coalition to defend the rights of Muslims to build mosques in their communities. A previous article in Los Angeles Times was republished in more than 20 online news sites this week.

Center's Voter Turnout Data a Resource for Media & Politicians

AU's Center for the Study of the American Electorate analysis pointing to stronger Republican voter turnout during the primaries continued to drive discourse. Curtis Gans, director and lead researcher on the project, discussed the results on ABC's World News Tonight, which aired on 175 ABC affiliate stations, and on NPR's All Things Considered. "I think it's going to be very, very difficult in places where Republicans have plausible candidates for the Democrats to mobilize in the way that they were able to mobilize in 2008." CNN's Situation Room with Wolf Blizter, New York Times, Bloomberg BusinessWeek, Boston Globe, and Buffalo News cited the study in pre-primary day election coverage. Wall Street Journal noted the results in an article about Tea Party primary wins. More than 25 online outlets republished this article.

Women Underrepresented on Talk Shows & Campaign Trail

The New York Times' Media Decoder blog cited findings by AU's Che New Hork Cimes Women & Politics Institute in a post about the lack of diversity on the major networks and cable news outlets Sunday mornings. In CQ

Politics, Jennifer Lawless, the institute's director, suggested that the "Year of the Women" for congressional candidates might not be so. "After the June primaries, where we saw this alleged upsurge in women candidates," she said, "we were not talking about 20 or 30 or 40 high-profile candidates. We were talking about four." Lawless told the Washington Post that there are more new Republican than Democrat women running for office this year.

Additional Features

What Matters Most to Federal Employees

Robert Tobias, director of AU's Institute for the Study of Public Policy Implementation, told Federal Computer Week that the relationship between employees and top-level leaders not their immediate supervisors—carries the most weight with federal employees. "The Best Places to Work in the Federal Government" survey and ranking finds a strong correlation between this specific aspect of employee satisfaction and an agency's ranking. (9/12)

Best Practices in Bringing Broadband to the Underserved

A post on PBS's Media Shift blog about the Public Media Corps' effort to bridge the broadband gap for underserved communities mentioned that the Center for Social Media will help the corps evaluate their efforts and results to identify best practices. (9/15)

This Week's Newsmakers Sept. 18 - Sept. 24, 2010

Top Story

Nature Documentaries Not So Natural

The Washington Post

Chris Palmer, director of the Center for Environmental Filmmaking, discussed the little-known secrets of wildlife filmmaking with the Washington Post for a feature story about his new book Shooting in the Wild. According to Palmer, most nature films and TV shows use footage of wild animals from game farms in controlled situations. "If you see a bear feeding on a deer carcass in a film," Palmer said, "it is almost certainly a tame bear searching for hidden jellybeans in the entrails of the deer's stomach." (9/22)

Wonks Live Here

Wonk if you love American U.

"New York has financiers and Las Vegas has gamblers. Washington has wonks," said the Washington Post about American University's new WONK campaign. "We looked at what the word was doing in its current use, and we decided this is what we are," said Terry Flannery of University Communications & Marketing.

AU was featured as part of a larger look at university branding efforts across the country. (9/24)

Additional Features

Race Still Influences Decisions

The Washington Post

The Washington Post reviewed Danielle Evans', professor of literature, new collection of short stories called Before You Suffocate Your Own Fool Self about African-American teenagers and young-adults still struggling in a world where race is less of an overt concern. (9/22)

Conflict among Obama Advisors

CBS News interviewed Alan Lichtman, professor of history, about Bob Woodward's new book, focusing on President Obama's strategy in Iraq and Afghanistan. The segment aired on more than 20 affiliate stations across the country. Lichtman said, "Obama is not doing what is politically reasonable and could follow in the footsteps of his predecessor, Lyndon Johnson, during the Vietnam War era." (9/23)

Quotes

Advertisers Track Children on the Net

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL. online, that they can understand—not the kind of legalese in a "We need clearer explanations of what's happening to their data privacy policy that basically obscures what's really going on," said Kathryn Montgomery, professor of public communication, to The Wall Street Journal about technology that lets advertisers track childrens' activity on the Web. (9/17)

Fed Ready to Take More Debt

"The committee put a marker down in August," said Ellen E. Meade, The New Hork Cimes professor of economics, to the New York Times about how the Federal Reserve will stand its ground on low interest rates so banks will borrow more, which will spur economic growth. "They opened the door on quantitative easing, and they're keeping it open until they're sure they need to close it." (9/21)

This Week's Newsmakers Sept. 25 – Oct. 1, 2010

Top Story

Wildlife Films Far From Wild

Chris Palmer, director of the Center for Environmental Filmmaking, was the focus of an ABC's Nightline story for drawing back the curtain on the dark side of wildlife filmmaking in his book Shooting in the Wild. During the segment, he explained why he wrote the book and discussed the reason for coming clean about the staged aspects of wildlife documentaries. The story re-aired on ABC's Good Morning America, then on ABC news affiliates across the country, and Canada Television, Canada's largest TV news outlet. NPR's Weekend Edition also interviewed Palmer.

Additional Features

Midterm Elections

Curtis Gans, director of the Center for the Study of the American Electorate, appeared on NBC's Nightly News to discuss the American people's disappointment with their government stemming from comedian Stephen Colbert's testimony to Congress on immigration. "People are angry, some people are scared about the economic condition, some people are disillusioned," Gans said. His segment re-aired on NBC's Weekend Today Show. He was also quoted by the Wall Street Journal about developments in the midterm election campaign period, and U.S. News about candidate's use of PACs.

Democrats in the Line of Fire

"They're worried, they're frustrated, and they're taking it out on incumbents, primarily Democrats," said James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, to NBC's Nightly News about what American dissatisfaction with the government could mean for the Democratic Party in the midterm elections. The Chronicle of Higher Education also featured Thurber in the "5 Minutes With" column addressing why politicians embellish their accomplishments to look better to the voters during election periods.

Tennessee Mosque Controversy

"The notion of Sharia being implemented in America with about 2 percent of the population, to me, is mathematically absurd," said Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, on CNN's Anderson Cooper 360 about the controversy surrounding the construction of an Islamic community center in Murfreesboro, Tennessee.(9/26)

Kennedy-Nixon Debates after 50 Years

"They [Kennedy-Nixon] didn't debate on television, they didn't debate on the radio, they didn't debate out in the streets," said Allan Lichtman, professor of history, on ABC's Topline about the history of political debate in America. Lichtman discussed what televised debates have brought to the political arena over the past fifty years since the Kennedy-Nixon debates in 1960. (9/24)

Oct. 2 - Oct. 8, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Story

Book Details Legacy of Supreme Court Justice

Stephen Wermiel, professor of law, appeared on NBC's Nightly News to discuss the start of the Supreme Court's new session and his book Justice Brennan: Liberal Champion. The next morning, he appeared on MSNBC's Morning Joe where his work was praised by hosts Joe Scarborough and Mika Brzezinski. The New York Times cited that Brennan placed his trust in Wermiel to write his biography before his death in 1997.

Additional Features

The Artists Behind Katzen

"I can't imagine this happening many places... To me it's a wonderful example of how a little bit of concern for the university's family and your neighbors and your community can pay big dividends," said Jack

Rasmussen, director and curator of the American University Musuem at the Katzen Arts Center about the tightknit group of AU art alums called Group 93. A Northwest Current feature story about Group 93 outlined how the group's longtime comraderie with each other and their former professor, Luciano Penay, led to the Katzen Arts Center's creation. (10/7)

D and R Wonks Agree: Youth Vote Is up for Grabs

They may be on opposing ends of the political spectrum, but during the School of Communication's American Forum, MSNBC political analyst Karen Finney and Republican strategist Kevin Madden agreed that the youth vote is always up for grabs. The event, live streamed on the WashingtonPost.com's Post Politics page and on Federal News Radio, allowed AU's students—ranked the most politically active in the nation—to challenge Finney and Madden with questions about the 2010 midterm elections. "In 2006, only 11 percent of the voters were young people, but they made the difference in several races," Finney said. In addition, Fishbowl DC/MediaBistro ran a photo and blog post about the forum. (10/6)

Wild Life Documentary Fans Disillusioned

Moviefone.com published a feature spotlighting Chris Palmer, director of the Center for Environmental Filmmaking, and his new book Shooting in the Wild. The article garnered more than 300,000 hits and was featured on the AOL homepage twice. (10/1)

Quotes

Politicians Play the Blame Game

The Associated Press quoted James Thurber, director of the Center for Associated Press Congressional and Presidential Studies, about the strategies politicians are using for midterm election campaigns. He said, "The election will be about anger, with not a lot of content." This article was syndicated to more than 400 news outlets including the Los Angeles Times, Washington Post, Chicago Tribune, and Houston Chronicle. (10/2)

Oct. 9 - Oct. 15, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

Curveballs Don't Break

According to a new study by Arthur Shapiro, professor of psychology, a curveball's sudden break is more optical illusion than reality. The curve is "always going to follow a parabolic path. But from a hitter's point of view, an approaching ball can appear to break, drop or do a whole range of unusual behaviors," Shapiro said in an interview with the Associated Press. More than 50 news outlets including MSNBC.com and SportsIllustrated.com republished this article. The AP article was translated into Spanish and published on each Major League Baseball teams' Spanish companion site. In addition, USA Today, Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, Vancouver Sun, UPI.com, and Science Magazine published original stories. Shapiro also spoke to ABCNews Radio. (10/13)

Republican Turnout Remains Strong

Democratic voter turnout is lower than Republicans for the first time in 80 years according to final results on primary voter turnout released by the Center for the Study of the American Electorate. The Wall Street Journal, Politico, and PBS's NewsHour.com highlighted the findings. Curtis Gans, director of the center, said, "this should be a warning for the Democrats to work harder to keep control of Congress." (10/14)

Obama Courts Young Voters: Too Little, Too Late?

"I don't know why he didn't turn to this base much earlier," Jane Hall, associate professor of communication, told the Christian Science Monitor in a story examining Obama's recent efforts, including an MTV town hall forum, to mobilize young voters for the midterm elections. Capitalizing on the MTV forum, washingtonpost.com posted the School of Communication's American Forum: Is Your Vote up for Grabs? highlight video and an accompanying blog post mentioned professor Dotty Lynch's students' analysis of polling data about young voters. (10/14)

Additional Features

College Not for Everyone

Dropping out of college costs the average tax payer billions of dollars. Robert Associated Press Lerman, professor of economics, guestioned whether pushing all high school students toward college is wise and to the Associated Press said, "it could just as easily be used to argue that less-prepared, less-motivated students are better off not going to college." More than 435 news outlets including USA Today, Los Angeles Times, Washington Post, and Houston Chronicle republished the article. (10/11)

Nobel Prize may not help Obama's Fed Nominee

Winning the Nobel Prize does not boost influence as much as it once did. "It's not Associated Press automatic that someone receiving a Nobel Prize will be helped by it, politically, any more," said James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, to the Associated Press about economist Peter Diamond, President Obama's nomination for a Federal Reserve seat. More than 235 news outlets including the Los Angeles Times and Washington Post republished the article. (10/12)

Oct. 16 - Oct. 22, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

Controversial Topics in the Midterm Elections

Jamin Raskin, professor of law, discussed the separation of church and state on MSNBC's Countdown with Keith Olbermann after Delaware Senatorial candidate Christine O'Donnell challenged her opponent's statement that the Constitution specifically defines the concept. Raskin also appeared on CBS9 WUSA to discuss laws that require local television stations to air a D.C. delegate candidate's graphic abortion campaign ad. (10/19)

Supreme Court Justice Expert

The Associated Press highlighted Stephen Wermiel, professor of law, for his book, Justice Brennan: Liberal Champion, noting Wermiel was granted unprecedented access to Brennan. The article was republished by more than 145 news outlets including the Los Angeles Times, Washington Post, Chicago Tribune, and CBSNews.com. Wermiel also appeared on CNN's The Situation Room to discuss the apology Justice Clarence Thomas's wife demanded from Anita Hill, who accused Justice Thomas of sexual harassment.

Additional Features

Young Republicans Are Mobilized

CNN's Sunday Morning highlighted a forum by American University's College Republicans in a segment about how young Republicans are turning out in greater numbers this election year compared to young Democrats during the 2008 presidential election. Stephan Laudone, president of AU's College Republicans, said he knows "several friends who are splitting the ticket this year, whereas in 2008 it was all Democrats." (10/17)

Gay Rights Advocates Wear Purple to Protest Anti-Gay Bullying

USAToday.com's video unit documented American University's Queers & Allies club's campus campaign in support of the national Wear Purple Day. Kae Klepitskaya, transgender advocacy director for AU Queers & Allies, said "Spirit day was formed as a response to a number of suicides of queer youth. There have been a shocking number in the past few months. In order to stand up for everyone we're wearing purple today to show support." (10/21)

Monday's Poem: Note Blue

THE CHRONICLE

The Chronicle of Higher Education's Arts & Academe online column reviewed a poem by Kyle Dargan, professor of literature. The poem, Note Blue or Poem for Eighties Babies, is described as "rich, nostalgic, forgiving and reveals another of Dargan's poetic gifts: a kinetic stereoscopy that allows, in any one poem, a provocative conflation of personal and public histories, of past and present situations." (10/17)

Oct. 23 - Oct. 30, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

2010 not the Year of the Woman

Jennifer Lawless, director of the Women & Politics Institute, told Forbes that despite the number of women running for office, 2010 is no "year of the woman" like 1992 was. "In 1992, women's issues were really driving the election cycle," Lawless said, citing the Family and Medical Leave Act as an example. Lawless also discussed female political candidates running in this year's election with Globe and Mail, CNN.com, and Associated Press Television. (10/26; 10/25; 10/28; 10/25)

Satire Could Energize Electorate

Lauren Feldman, assistant professor of public communication, explained to the New York Times how Jon Stewart's and Stephen Colbert's non political rally could foster greater political engagement. "To the extent that people are showing up because of their enthusiasm for the message behind the rally—that is, discontent with extremist rhetoric and divisive politics—that is a political statement, and that makes their participation political," she said. Feldman also discussed the rally with Washington Post, WTTG-Fox5, WAMU 88.5, and TBD.com. (10/29; 10/25; 10/26; 10/29; 10/29)

Additional Features

Federal Executive Leaders Win Prestigious Award

The Washington Post

Washington Post's Federal Eye noted the winners of this year's Roger W. Jones Award for Executive Leadership. Robert Tobias, director of the Key Executive Program, emceed the ceremony which honored

Kenneth E. Baker, principal assistant deputy administrator for the Office of Defense Nuclear Nonproliferation at the Energy Department, and Margaret A. Focarino, deputy commissioner of patents for the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office. (10/25)

Op-Eds & Editorials

Voter Disillusionment Tied to Economy

ROLLACALL

Curtis Gans, director of the Center for the Study of the American Electorate, asserted in his Roll Call Op-Ed that the economy, unemployment, and underemployment are the main sources of voter disillusionment for the midterm elections. "Obama chose to build his record on individual policy achievements rather than the assertion and defense of an engaged government as the only entity with sufficient resources and ability to attack the magnitude of the nation's economic crisis," Gans wrote. (10/28)

Quotes

Focus on Fiscal Discipline

President Obama likely will focus on fiscal discipline between now and 2012—a nod to voters tired of big spending and to a Congress positioned to become more Republican. "To a certain extent, (Obama's) strategy depends on the strategy of majority of the House, and what can be found in the Senate, where's he's basically going to be deadlocked," James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, told the Associated Press. The article was republished more than 470 times. (10/24)

Oct. 30 - Nov. 5, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

Election Night Coverage

News outlets featured American University elections experts both on camera and in print before and during Election Night. Danny Hayes, professor of government, appeared on NBC News in more than 100 markets in five-minute election analysis segments from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Reuters quoted James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, about Speaker Nancy Pelosi's possible exit from her position. CBS Radio also interviewed Thurber and Dotty Lynch, executive in residence for the School of Communication, on election night about developments during the evening. Leonard Steinhorn, professor of public communication was on WTTG-FOX5 to analyze potential results one day before polls opened. (11/1, 11/2)

NBC's Today Show, WTTG-FOX5, and Canada TV interviewed Jennifer Lawless, director of the Women & Politics Institute, about why many female candidates campaigned, but few won. Lawless told Atlantic.com that women were able to position themselves as the better alternative to incumbents in Washington. CNBC interviewed Allan Lichtman, professor of history, to discuss President

Obama's new set of priorities in light of the Republican House majority. Curtis Gans, director of the Center for the Study of the American Electorate, told the Associated Press, "competitive races featuring tea party-backed candidates in Florida, Texas and Delaware were drawing high voter turnout, with mixed results." (11/1, 11/2, 11/3)

Additional Features

Washington Location Puts Kogod on Top

The Washington Diplomat prominently featured the Kogod School of Business in a trend story about business schools launching programs focused on emerging markets. "It's always been my feeling that we need to exploit our location advantage," said Frank DuBois, director of The Kogod Global

Management Institute focused on business and emerging markets. "You know we're not in Harrisonburg, or Blacksburg, Virginia, or in the middle of Kansas," said DuBois, "We're in Washington—and we need to get involved with the IMF and the World Bank and the embassy community, and talk about the market opportunities our students are going to have going forward." (11/1)

American University's Increased Stature

WAMC-Northeast Public Radio interviewed President Neil Kerwin about American University's history and progress throughout the past 30 years during a live broadcast on campus. "The stature of the institution has increased enormously due exclusively to the influence of a remarkable faculty," Kerwin said.(10/29)

American University's Campus Arboretum an Urban Oasis

The Washington Post

The Washington Post featured the university's devotion to aesthetics in groundskeeping in the Local Living section of the paper. "This attention to an ailing environment has coincided with the arrival of major new buildings and a strategy of landscape shifts: Underground parking garages support green roofs; old roads and lots are being torn up for new plantings, fresh paths and sitting terraces," noted the article. (11/4)

Nov. 5 - Nov. 12, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

Paradox: Low Turnout with Partisanship

Curtis Gans, director of the Center for the Study of the American Electorate, released a study on Election Day voter turnout and appeared on MSNBC and Capitol News Connection to discuss the pattern of party changeovers in recent elections. Regarding the election, he told the New York Times, "the mandate was to go in a different direction and make it a better country." NPR.org and 20 additional outlets published his study. (11/5, 11/7)

Michelle Obama's favored candidates: 6 wins, 7 losses

The Los Angeles Times interviewed Anita McBride, executive in Los Angeles Times residence for the School of Public Affairs, about the success rate of the candidates First Lady Michelle Obama supported during the midterm election. "Given the current environment and given the sweeping changes that took place in this election, the fact that six of the 13 candidates she helped and campaigned for won their seats is a good number," she said. Chicago Tribune and 20 additional outlets republished the article. (11/6)

Additional Features

Butterfly' on stage at American University

Washington Jewish Week featured Gail Humphries Mardirosian, professor of theatre, for her production of the musical, I Never Saw Another Butterfly. The story centers on the children confined in the Jewish concentration camps at

Terezin during the Holocaust. "I wanted to see if I could use theater as a conduit to enlighten students and the American population about Terezin," she said. "It was such an unusual phenomenon that you have these intellectually and artistically extraordinary human beings there in the [direst] of circumstances." (11/4)

Behind the Research: Dr. Sabiyah Prince

The Atlanta Post featured Sabiyah Prince, professor of anthropology, about her work regarding race, class, and culture, and a focus on African Americans in Washington, DC. "I'm writing for my book which is about how Washington, DC, is changing demographically and how African-Americans are affected by the changes, how they are interpreting the changes and how they are responding to the changes," said Prince. (11/8)

The Faces of NPR

Vanity Fair included WAMU 88.5 host Diane Rehm in a feature which matched faces to the voices of NPR's on-air personalities, asking 'you know these voices, but could you pick these veteran personalities out of a line-up?' A veteran of public radio since 1973, Rehm has interviewed the world's movers and shakers for an audience of more than 2.1 million a week. (11/9)

Nov. 12 - Nov. 19, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

Less Spending for National Security

Gordon Adams, professor of foreign policy, led a team that prepared the Che New Hork Cimes Bipartisan Policy Center's military spending recommendations for its new report aiming to address the U.S. deficit. Adams discussed his team's recommendations, which included a 5-year freeze on Pentagon spending, with the New York Times, acknowledging it would not be easy. Adams also spoke to NPR.org about Democrats losing their top defense and military voices on the Hill. (11/12, 11/17)

Additional Features

Blasphemy Law Prevents Free Speech in Pakistan

During a 7-minute interview segment on CNN International, Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, discussed a case of blasphemy against a Pakistani Christian woman sentenced to death for comments about the Prophet Mohammed. "These cases appear again and again, unfortunately, targeting the Christian minority," Ahmed explained, saying blasphemy law often compromises Pakistani citizens' right to free speech. (11/18)

Washington Project for the Arts at the AU Museum

The Washington Post

The Washington Post ran a glowing review of Catalyst: 35 Years of Washington Project for the Arts, now at the American University Museum. "It is the role of nonprofit alternatives such as WPA to act as a catalyst - and a home - for art that might otherwise slip between those cracks," wrote critic Michael O'Sullivan about WPA's role in promoting art that is not shown in D.C. museums and galleries. The Post also featured an image gallery and a sidebar article about Alberto Gaitan whose work is in Catalyst. (11/18)

Reinventing Yourself in Journalism

A Huffington Post column by AU alumna Janet Janijigian highlighted a School of HUFFINGTON Communication event about staying ahead of technology in journalism—moderated by SOC alumna and WRC-NBC4 anchor Wendy Reiger. "Larry Kirkman, Dean of the School of Communication, has encouraged and cultivated a broad spectrum of professors, alums and students attracting new talent and exciting educational programs and opportunities, Yes, the AU experience did change my life and my career in news—mine and many others," wroteJanjigian . (11/15)

The Democratic Lame Duck Agenda

James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, appeared on NBC Nightly News to discuss President Obama's new agenda with a Republican led Congress. "He's trying to play the space in the middle. There's nobody in the middle and it's going to be very hard for him," he said. Thurber also appeared on PBS NewsHour to discuss the rise of government earmarks and in an interview with Gannett, he said Democratic leadership needs to have "someone who is tough and knows the media and knows how to react." (11/12, 11/16 11/17)

Nov. 19 - Dec. 3, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

Young Guns in Power

The Kennedy Political Union hosted Majority Leader-designate Eric Cantor (R-Va.), Majority Whip-designate Kevin McCarthy (R-Calif.), and presumptive budget chairman Paul Ryan (R-Wisc.) for a town hall meeting. The congressmen said President Obama must agree to work with the GOP to create progress in the current lame-duck session of Congress. C-SPAN broadcasted live from the event, and re-aired the forum three times. A two-part interview with the congressmen appeared on FOX News' On the Record with Greta Van Susteren. Roll Call, The Hill, National Journal, and National Review, and others published articles. (11/29, 11/30)

Additional Features

Washington Post Chat with Bill Mayer

Bill Mayer, university librarian, discussed final exam preparation, washingtonpost.com navigating the library, and finding the best research sources in a Washingtonpost.com Campus Overload online chat. Mayer talked about the university's library system and why it is a good place to study for exams. "With so many internet-enabled resources now, the library is everywhere, you have a network. We're in the dorms, we're in the classrooms, we're on the quad!" he said. (12/2)

Notable LLM Degree Programs

Financial Times highlighted the Kogod School of Business and the FINANCIAL TIMES Washington College of Law in a feature about their joint LLM and MBA program. According to the article, the popularity of post-graduate law and business degrees is rising. (11/21)

Women Who Spoke For Presidents Say More Women Should Run

In a bipartisan expression of concern former White House press secretaries Dee Dee Myers and Dana Perino said finding female candidates to run for office is difficult during a discussion hosted by the Women & Politics Institute. National Journal and U.S. News & World Report covered the event. (11/30)

Attention Getters: 40 Who Shaped 2010

Washingtonian magazine included Danielle Evans, professor of literature, as one 40 people in Washington, D.C. who made an impact in 2010. Evans, the only university professor and the only university representative on the list, published "one of the year's best short story collections," Before You Suffocate

Your Own Fool Self. (December)

Op-Eds and Editorials

The Nation.

Robin Broad, professor of international development, coauthored a threepage profile in The Nation about a Philippine congressman who participated in the People's Power protests against Ferdinand Marcos in 1986. Broad accompanied the congressman to the Philippine president's state of the nation. (12/6)

Dec. 3 - Dec. 10, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Story

Challenges in Prosecuting Wikileaks Founder

Stephen Vladeck, professor of law, appeared on CNN's American Morning and CTV: Canadian Television to talk about challenges the U.S. government faces in prosecuting the WikiLeaks founder. "One of the hardest and most important things for the government to prove is that the defendant knew that what he was doing was violating the Espionage Act," he said. An ABCNews.com article also quoted Vladeck. (12/7, 12/8, 12/9)

Additional Features

Boosting the Profile of Local Artists

WAMU's The Kojo Nnamdi Show featured CATALYST: 35 Years of Washington Project for the Arts, an exhibit at the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center. The segment focused on the WPA's history of helping local artists build their artistic reputations. (12/7).

Op-Eds and Editorials

GOP's Southern Stampede

St. Petersburg Times "For decades after the end of Reconstruction, the Democratic Party ran the South's public affairs, but the political world has changed, and last month, the formerly one-party Democratic region continued its evolution into a one-party Republican one," wrote Danny Hayes, professor of government, in a St. Petersburg Times Op-Ed about the strong Republican influence in the South. (12/5)

Quotes

Obama Wants New 'Sputnik Moment' for America

The Associated Press interviewed Howard McCurdy, professor of public Associated Press policy, about President Obama's charge for an American "Sputnik Moment." According to McCurdy, while a jolt of innovation is needed for the country, he's not sure what type of precipitous major event Obama is referring to. "Usually, it requires a Pearl Harbor, a shock to the system, and is followed by something new and major, neither of which is occurring," he said. More than 180 news outlets republished the article. (12/6)

In Congress, Short-Timers Pack Up as a New Wave Prepares to Move In

The Washington Post

"The unvarnished truth is that most of them made absolutely no impression whatsoever," said Allan Lichtman, professor of history, to the Washington Post about ousted freshman and sophomore Democratic congressional representatives. (12/8)

Political Negotiating on Tax Cuts and Jobless Benefits

James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, discussed the tax cut deal between President Obama and congressional Republicans in an interview with American Public Media's Marketplace. "The Democrats will claim that the Republicans want to give tax cuts to the very wealthy, and the Republicans will say the Democrats want to raise taxes and spend money yet again," he said. (12/6)

Dec. 10 - Dec. 17, 2010

Prepared by University Communications

Top Story

Report Details Ties between U.S., Nazi War Criminals

Associated Press

Richard Breitman, professor of history, talked to the Associated Press about a report he coauthored that uncovered the CIA's use of Nazi war criminals to wage "a covert war" against the Soviet Union during the Cold War. The New York Times also wrote a story and more than 315 news outlets, including the Los Angeles Times, Wall Street Journal, Houston Chronicle, FOXNews.com, MSNBC.com, and Forbes.com, republished the AP article. (12/10, 12/11)

Additional Feature

SOC Adds Current to Public Media Initiatives

The New York Times announced that public media trade publication Current The New Hork Cimes will have a new home with American University's School of Communication. Larry Kirkman, dean of the School of Communication, noted that the school is

"a laboratory for the future of public media," as demonstrated by initiatives like the Center for Social Media and the Investigative Reporting Workshop, which produces for PBS's FRONTLINE. Several other news outlets, including The Chronicle of Higher Education and Politico, also published the announcement. (12/13)

Healthcare Ruling

"It's just one judge, and on an issue of this importance, the Supreme Court justices will approach it from their own standpoint," said Dan Marcus, professor of law, on NBC Nightly News about a Virginia judge's decision to rule President Obama's healthcare bill unconstitutional. (12/13)

Politicians Fear Military Pay Raise Too Small

While opposition to the repeal of Don't Ask, Don't Tell may be mostly to blame for delaying approval of the Defense Authorization Bill, it isn't the only provision that has politicians sweating. "Dealing with military pay, benefits and health care is a classic third rail of defense planning," Gordon Adams, professor of international service, told CNN.com about the bill's proposal to give military personnel a 1.9 percent pay raise—an amount politicians fear is too small. (12/11)

Obama's History of Compromise Brought Him to Tax-Cut Deal

Bloomberg Businessweek

"This deal is all about stimulating the economy. Obama knows that if the economy recovers over the next two years he will rather easily win re-election, much like Reagan in 1984," said Allan Lichtman, professor of history, to Bloomberg BusinessWeek about President Obama's compromise on taxes with congressional Republicans. (12/16)

AU Expert on WikiLeaks, Health Care Law

Stephen Vladeck, professor of law, spoke to MSNBC.com and PBS.org about the WikiLeaks controversy. He said the single biggest problem with the Espionage Act is that its limits have never truly been tested. Vladeck was also a guest on WAMU's The Kojo Nnamdi Show to discuss a Virginia federal judge's ruling of the healthcare bill. "The question here is whether imposing [the] healthcare requirement is a bridge too far," said Vladeck. (12/12, 12/14, 12/15)

Dec. 17, 2010 – Jan. 7, 2011
Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

The 2010 Post 200

The Washington Post's Capital Business published a list of the 200 largest companies in Washington, D.C. that power the local economy. American University with one of the highest enrollments for the 2009-2010 academic school year ranked fifth among local universities. (12/27)

Center for Congressional & Presidential Studies 2010 Winter Institutes

The Campaign Management Institute hosted its annual two-week class to train individuals for political campaign participation. Students heard from campaign industry wonks including Ben Nienaber, David Winston, and Jeff Berkowitz. At the Public Affairs and Advocacy Institute, students learned from American University President Neil Kerwin, Elizabeth Moler, Charles Brain, and Michael Berman. C-SPAN2 provided live broadcasts of the sessions. Between live sessions and re-airs, more than 65 hours of programming appeared on the C-SPAN Networks. (12/27-1/7)

Additional Features

Common Sense Key to Entrepreneurial Success

In her research study, Barbara Bird, professor of management, found that entrepreneurs who learn from experience have an edge over those who acquire knowledge through observation or reading. Bird told Reuters, "They have to make the best decisions possible in the least amount of time. They need to act. Practical intelligence empowers them to act quickly and confidently." (1/6)

Banks Slowly Getting Stronger

Wendell Cochran, professor of communication, authored an article for the BankTracker series, a joint project of AU's Investigative Reporting Workshop and msnbc.com. He wrote, "The only category of troubled assets still growing is 'other real estate owned,' which is primarily property the banks acquired through foreclosure. As of the end of September, banks had $46.9 billion worth of other real estate owned, a 21 percent increase since the first of the year." (12/21)

Op-Eds/Editorials

Christians Senselessly Tormented by Extremists in Muslim World

Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, coauthored an op-ed for CNN.com about the persecution of Christians in Muslim nations. He wrote, "Christians living in the great societies of Islamic history, including Muslim Spain and the Ottoman Empire, largely lived in peace and security according to their own laws. Yet in the past few years, the persecution of Christians has increased in scope and frequency." (12/23)

January 7-14, 2011

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

Sense of Place

University Business showcased the new School of International Service's creative green elements and how the building reflects the school's mission. "We want the building to be an inspiration, and it already is," said Lou Goodman, dean of the School of International Service. "We want it to inspire students to dream and think about what they want to do in the world." (1/1)

American's Vlad Moldoveanu Has Come a Long Way from Romania

The Washington Post

The Washington Post featured American University senior and basketball player Vlad Moldoveanu for his accomplishments on the court. In one week, Moldoveanu earned three top honors including

Patriot League Player of the Week, East Coast Athletic Conference Player of the Week, and U.S. Basketball Writers Association Oscar Robertson National Player of the Week—a Patriot League and AU first. (1/11)

Op-Eds/Editorials

Career Advice: Job Letters

In two compositions for Inside Higher Ed, Richard Sha, professor of literature, provided pointers on how academics should write job letters. Sha said, "The job letter is one of the most important pieces of writing an academic does. But I have seen, serving on 15 search committees, that some letters never have a chance." His first piece discussed how doctoral committees review recommendation letters and the second advised doctoral students on how to write their letter properly. (1/10, 1/12)

Quotes

Political Discourse and the Arizona Assassination Attempt

In the wake of the shootings at a Congressional rally in Tucson, AZ, several American University experts discussed political discourse in the United States. Allan Lichtman, professor of history, appeared on BBC World News, and Leonard Steinhorn, professor of communication, appeared on WTTG-FOX5. Steinhorn, Carolyn Brown, assistant professor of communication, and Connie Morella, ambassador in residence, were quoted in the Boston Globe, Financial Times, and Roll Call respectively. Jane Hall, professor of journalism, discussed President Obama's role as "Consoler-In-Chief" with the Washington Examiner. (1/10, 1/11, 1/12)

NASA Names Backup for Giffords' Husband on Shuttle

Associated Press

Howard McCurdy, professor of public administration, discussed NASA's decision to name a back-up to astronaut Mark Kelly, commander of the space shuttle program's final flight and husband to Congresswoman Gabrielle Giffords. "The shooting of Mrs. Giffords put NASA in an uncomfortable position about what to do with the April flight," he told the Associated Press. More than 235 outlets, including the Los Angeles Times, republished the article. (1/13)

Struggle Forecast for Pentagon and Deficit Hawks

"The finger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledging that The linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and now he is acknowledged by the linger in the dike didn't work, and the linger in the linger in the dike didn't work, and the linger in the linger Adams, professor of international service, to the New York Times

regarding Secretary of Defense Robert Gates' defense budget cuts. (1/8)

January 14-21, 2011

Prepared by University Communications

Top Story

Business Schools See Rise in On-Campus Recruiting

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL.

The Kogod School of Business was one of two schools mentioned in a Wall Street Journal trend story about job prospects for 2011 MBA grads. "Not only are companies rebounding, they are also accelerating their hiring to make up for lost time," said Arlene Hill, director of Kogod's Career Development Center, about the rosier picture for the class of 2011, Hill added that 25 percent of the MBA class of 2011 had job offers (a more than 15 percent increase from the class of 2010) and that government consulting was a large factor in the uptick. (1/14)

Additional Feature

Barefoot Coach Brings Awareness to Good Cause

Jeff Jones, head coach of AU men's basketball, coached the Eagles-Army game barefoot in support of Samaritan's Feet, a non-profit that provides shoes for the poor. WRC-NBC4, WTTG-FOX5, WJLA-ABC7, TBD-Channel8, and WUSA-CBS9 profiled Jones for his efforts to bring attention to the cause. Earlier in the week, Coach Jones and the team did volunteer work on behalf of Samaritan's Feet which was covered by Comcast Sports. (1/19)

Op-Eds/Editorials

Five Myths about Defense Spending

The Washington Post

Gordon Adams, professor of international service, coauthored a Washington Post Op-Ed about common defense-spending myths. "Defense spending is a massive part of our federal budget and a cause of equally massive debate, whether in wartime or in peace," wrote Adams. "We can no longer separate national security from fiscal imperatives. Unfortunately, several myths keep us from a more disciplined defense budget." (1/14)

Quotes

Attorney Argues for GI's Release in WikiLeaks Case

"The allegations that this person is in some form of solitary confinement is by itself a matter of concern because solitary confinement by itself can, at least in some instances, cause very serious psychological harm," said Juan

Mendez, visiting professor of law, to the Associated Press about the detained WikiLeaks suspect. More than 35 outlets including Washington Post, Boston Globe, and MSNBC.com republished the article. (1/14)

Reversing 'Citizens United'

The Washington Post

"American citizens have repeatedly amended the Constitution to defend democracy when the Supreme Court acts in collusion with democracy's enemies," said Jamin Raskin, professor of law, to the Washington Post about an amendment to support last year's

Supreme Court decision on Citizens United v. Federal Elections Committee. (1/18)

January 21-28, 2011

Prepared by University Communications

Top Story

AU Faculty Wonks Analyze State of the Union Address

Several American University political and communication wonks analyzed President Obama's second State of the Union address. SOC's Dotty Lynch discussed how coverage has drifted from broadcast networks to cable news and the Web with Politico. CBS News Radio, San Francisco's ABC Radio affiliate and Federal News Radio interviewed SOC's Robert Lehrman, who also wrote an article for Christian Science Monitor. In addition, Lehrman was an in-studio guest for post address analysis on WAMU 88.5 Radio alongside SPA's Connie Morella. CAS's

Allan Lichtman discussed the Republican response with the Washington Post. WAMU's The Diane Rehm Show and Yahoo! News interviewed SPA's James Thurber. Finally, SPA's Jennifer Lawless, participated in a Canada Broadcasting Company radio tour and provided post-speech analysis with China Radio International. (1/21, 1/24, 1/25, 1/26)

Additional Features

Stress Driven by Economic Insecurity and Food Abundance Blamed for Obesity

"When I began to look into the issue of obesity, I realized that the most overweight are the least privileged members of society. And amongst those, it tended to be minorities. And amongst minorities it tended to be women. It was those people who possessed the least control over their lives, and thus suffer the greatest insecurity and stress," said Jon Wisman, professor of economics to eMaxHealth.com about his research suggesting economic insecurity leads to obesity. More than 60 outlets, including Asia News International, published articles about the research. (1/21, 1/22)

Circles, Stains at AU Museum

Washington Jewish Week featured Julie Linowes: STAIN, Marisa Baumgartner: Grande Avenues, and Nicole Cohen: Driving in Circles, three of the six exhibits at the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center. The article highlights Linowes, Baumgartner, and Cohen's D.C. roots and Jewish heritage. (1/26)

Op-Ed/Editorial

Hu Jintao's Visit Ends Any Dreams of the US and China Sharing the World Stage

Amitav Acharya, professor of international relations, wrote an editorial for Jakarta Globe about Chinese President Hu Jintao's visit to the United States and the U.S.-China summit. "While the unipolar moment in international relations is over, it will not be replaced by a China-U.S. duopoly, at least not an effective one that addresses the challenges of our time," he wrote. (1/25)

Quotes

Product Placement, Turned Inside Out

The New York Times

Patricia Aufderheide, director of the Center for Social Media, explained to the New York Times why high level officials of large corporations participate in interviews with documentary filmmakers, who typically put said officials on the hot seat. "If they're not there, it looks like an admission of guilt," she said. "And at least if they show up they have a chance to get their side of the story—their spin—across." (1/22)

January 28-February 4, 2011

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

The Fight for Democracy: Egypt in Crisis

Egyptian citizens demanded a shift from dictatorship to democracy and several AU foreign policy wonks analyzed the chaos in the Middle East. Diane Singerman, associate professor of government, discussed the situation with the New York Times, Bloomberg News, St. Louis Times-Dispatch, and in interviews on ABC's World News with Diane Sawyer, American Public Media's MarketPlace, Minnesota Public Radio, Wisconsin Public Radio, WHYY-FM's Radio Times with Marty Moss-Coane and WRC-NBC4. Singerman also wrote an op-ed for Foreign Policy magazine. Mustafa Aksakal, assistant professor of history, discussed what is at stake for the United States with USA Today, and Clovis Maksoud, director of the Center for Global South, spoke with Hispanic news service, Agencia EFE. Washingtonpost.com's Campus Overload was one of several outlets to highlight AU's efforts to assist students studying abroad in Egypt. (1/28-31, 2/1-2)

Snow Day Class Taught on Facebook

Rhonda Zaharna, associate professor of communication, wrote a washingtonpost.com column for Washingtonpost.com's Campus Overload about her decision to use Facebook to conduct class during a snow storm. "I learned a lot, and the students did an incredible job. They provided solid, thoughtful answers that referred to their reading and research. And they seemed to enjoy the experience," wrote Zaharna. The article went viral after Facebook featured it on its fan page and has received more than 18,000 "likes." (2/2)

Additional Features

Applications Rise (Yet Again) at Dozens of Selective Colleges

The sluggish economy and increasing cost of a college education The sluggish economy and increasing cost of a college education appear to have done nothing to cool applicants' interest in those institutions that, historically, have been among the most difficult to get into, according to the New York Times. The article included American University among a group selective colleges that saw an increase in freshmen applications. (1/31)

Can New Online Rankings Really Measure Colleges' Brand Strength?

of Higher Education

The Chronicle of Higher Education mentioned American University's Wonk campaign in an article about the relationship between a university's online presence and the success of its branding campaign. "Monitoring social-media usage is a good short-term technique for testing the effectiveness of a campaign," says Teresa Flannery, executive director of University Communications and Marketing. (1/30)

Race Relations and the White House

"[The White House] signals to many people around the world democracy, freedom, liberation; but not only the occupants of the White House historically not live up to those values, but the building itself was built by a combination of slave labor and free labor," said Clarence Lusane, associate professor of international service on BBC World News to discuss his new book The Black History of the White House. Public Radio International's

The Tavis Smiley Show and NPR's Talk of the Nation also interviewed Lusane. (1/28)

This Week's Newsmakers February 4–11, 2011

Prepared by University Communications

Top Story

Children's Body Mass Index May Rise the Longer Mom Works

Taryn Morrissey, professor of public administration, lead a study which found that children's body mass index (BMI) rose the more years their mothers worked over their children's lifetimes. "It's important to emphasize that it seems to be the environmental factors associated with the total time that moms work, and not maternal employment per se, that contributes to an increase in children's BMI," said Morrissey. More than 240 outlets including Los Angeles Times, US News & World Report, Boston Globe, CNN.com, FoxNews.com, NPR.org, and Time.com featured the study. (2/4-9)

Op-Ed/Editorial

The Reagan Legacy

Allan Lichtman, professor of history, wrote an editorial for EncylopediaBrittanica.com focusing on President Ronald Reagan's centennial birthday. "Ronald Reagan revived a conservative tradition that politically had been in eclipse since the days of Coolidge and Hoover, not by rallying a conservative base, but by making conservatism more optimistic, inclusive and diverse than before," wrote Lichtman. (2/4)

Quotes

Obama, GOP Moving in Different Direction on Jobs

James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential studies, discussed the cost of President Obama's State of the Union speech promises with the Associated Press. "Obama is trying to be pragmatic even though he never gets very specific on just how he'd reduce trillion-dollar-plus deficits at the same time he's pumping more government money into new programs," said Thurber. More than 160 outlets including Washington Post, CNBC.com and Forbes.com published this article. (2/10)

Reagan's Complicated Legacy for Federal Workforce

The Washington Post

"Reagan's lasting impact on the federal workforce was to successfully link his political goal of downsizing the federal government with the demonization of the workforce of the federal government," said Robert Tobias, distinguished practitioner-in-residence for the School of Public Affairs, to the Washington Post about President Reagan's legacy and policies on minimizing big government. (2/7)

Lawmakers urge FTC to Investigate Free Kids Games on iPhone

The Washington Post

Kathryn Montgomery, professor of communication, talked to the Washington Post about regulations the Federal Trade Commission is creating to oversee free games for children on iPhone. "The bigger question of business marketing practices moving forward is that policy doesn't have time to stay up, so we need to ensure there are safeguards across all platforms so kids are not exploited," said Montgomery. (2/8)

IN THE UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE BEFORE THE TRADEMARK TRIAL AND APPEAL BOARD

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Petitioner,

V.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT.

Registrant.

Cancellation No. 92049706

Reg. No. 3387226

Mark: AUK AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT

Reg. Date: February 26, 2008

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT,

Counter-Petitioner,

V.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY,

Counter-Registrant.

Reg. No 2986715 Mark: AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date Aug. 23, 2005

Reg. No. 3559022

Mark: A NEW AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date: Jan. 06, 2009

Reg. No. 4127891

Mark: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

WASHINGTON COLLEGE OF

LAW and Design

Reg. Date: Apr. 17, 2012

Reg. No. 4774583.

Mark: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date: Jul. 21, 2015

EXHIBITS D76-D78 to DECLARATION "D" OF JANICE HOUSEY DECLARATION "D" OF JANICE HOUSEY

(RE: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY'S USE OF "WASHINGTON, D.C." WITH ITS AMERICAN UNIVERSITY MARK)

AU Newsmakers September 30-October 7, 2011

Prepared by University Communications

Top Stories

Napolitano Confident More Suspected Criminals Will Be Deported this Year

In a policy speech at American University, Secretary of Homeland Security Janet Napolitano discussed smart, sensible immigration enforcement. The Associated Press, CNN's John King USA, New York Times, Washington Times, WAMU 88.5, and more than 25 other national and international news outlets attended, resulting in more than 800 news stories mentioning her speech at AU. Following the speech, Dean Bill LeoGrande, and professors Jayesh Rathod, Carolyn Brown, Alan Kraut, and Jordan Tama provided post-speech reaction to Univision, Cronkite News Service, Notimex

Mexican Newswire, VOA and Capital News Service. (10/5)

Additional Features

FDR and the Modern Presidency

During an hour-long broadcast of his class on C-SPAN's American History TV, Allan Lichtman, professor of history, discussed Franklin Delano Roosevelt's life and impact on the modern American presidency. "FDR always wanted to make his mark in politics. He didn't want to be an intellectual. He didn't want to study the law—didn't want to litigate. And he had a very meteoric rise in politics," Lichtman said. The class aired three times the weekend of October 1 and 2. A second hour of the class will air October 8. (10/1)

Several New Reports on Obesity Place Blame on Food Marketing

An Atlantic.com column about several new reports on the influences of food marketing cited the latest edition of Kogod Now, the Kogod School of Business' magazine, for taking "a tough look at how targeted marketing of foods and beverages contributes to the obesity crisis, especially among minority children and adolescents."

Hodgepodge of Life, from Subterra Australia to 1940s D.C.

Washington Diplomat reviewed three exhibitions at the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center, praising museum director and curator Jack Rasmussen's bold approach for showing several, unrelated exhibitions at once. "Ever since the Katzen Arts Center arose by Ward Circle, Rasmussen seems to have plunged himself into an almost subversive process of creating and assembling a panoply of exhibitions that don't readily connect to one another, but together make up some of the most fascinating, cutting-edge shows in town," read the review. (9/30)

Op-Ed/AU Authors

Overturning Lee Kuan Yews Legacy in Singapore

FOREIGN In his Foreign Affairs article, Amitav Acharya, the UNESCO Chair in Transnational Challenges and Governance, explained Singapore's recent elections results and how they may shape the country's democratic future. "In pursuing greater political openness in two elections this year, they [the Singapore voters] are challenging one of Lee's most deeply ingrained beliefs: that development and stability do not necessarily go hand in hand with democracy," Acharya wrote of the legacy of Singapore's first prime minister Lee Kuan Yew, who introduced his nation to stability and prosperity beginning in 1959. CNN.com republished the column. (9/28)

AU Newsmakers October 28–November 4, 2011

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Stories

Turning Halloween into a Science

Education Week's Beyond School online column featured AU's first Science Spooktacular, a science-themed haunted house for high school students and the community. "This event was part of a broader effort to recruit and retain science students at American University. We hope students from local schools are encouraged by having science-based fun at the college level," said Nathan Harshman, associate professor of physics. The Northwest Current also ran a front-page photo of a spooky learning station. (10/31)

WAMU 88.5 Celebrates 50th Anniversary

On WAMU 88.5's 50th anniversary, NPR.org reflected on the station's history. Current NPR staff members and reporters, including Susan Stamberg and Jean Cochran, whose careers began at WAMU, reminisced about the station's early days. Washington Life and Georgetown

Dish published a photo gallery and article about the anniversary gala. (10/28, 11/1)

Additional Features AU Students Raise Money, Awareness for Southeast Children's Fund

The Washington Post

Washingtonpost.com's The Root DC Live column featured a project spearheaded by students in professor Gemma Puglisi's public communication class. The students, whose goal was to raise money and awareness for a nonprofit that assists D.C. residents in Wards 7 and 8, planned an event at which First Lady Michelle Obama's hairstylist and a WRC-NBC4 traffic reporter read to Anacostia community center preschoolers. (10/28)

AU among Universities Attractive to Nontraditional Grad Students

In a trend story focused on nontraditional graduate psychology students, doctoral student David Neale-Lorello talked to gradPSYCH magazine (American Psychological Association's graduate student publication) about pursuing his PhD in clinical psychology at AU. "I decided to do something I was passionate about,"

Neale-Lorello said. (11/1)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Good for MetLife Good for Us All?

In a commentary for AmericanBanker.com's Big Think section, Robin Lumsdaine, professor of international finance, discussed MetLife's quarterly earnings and regulation as a bank holding company by the Federal Reserve.

"For insurance providers like MetLife that are also bank holding companies, the regulatory capital requirements associated with derivatives-based hedging could create challenges that will likely drive them to exit or curtail involvement in a number of important markets," she wrote. (10/28)

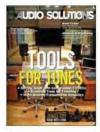

AU Newsmakers October 7-October 14, 2011

Prepared by University Communications

Top Story

Learn to Earn

Matt Boerum, studio manager and instructor of audio technology, described for Audio Solutions magazine the Audio Technology Program's new, state-of-the art facility and how the curriculum prepares students for a wide range of audio career options. "A classic approach is taken to broaden their audio knowledge. It's very well rounded," Boerum said. A photo of the new main control room graced the magazine's cover. (10/12)

Additional Features

Who Will Win the 2012 Race?

On Fox News Channel's Fox & Friends, Allan Lichtman, professor of history, discussed his "13 Keys" system and prediction that President Obama will win in 2012. "Whenever you have major policy change, historically, that gives you something to run on—something to present to the American people," Lichtman said in reference to counting the healthcare law as one of the nine keys in Obama's favor of winning a second term. (10/8)

Ex-Iran Prisoners Lunch with American University Professor Who Helped Them

On WRC-NBC4 News at 11 p.m., Akbar Ahmed, Ibn Khaldun Chair of Islamic Studies, spoke about a private lunch he and other Muslim leaders hosted for the U.S. hikers released from Iran. This group of leaders had helped the hikers in their fight for freedom. "What we saw were three humans with a great spirit surviving and emerging almost unscathed; and ready now to give to share with the whole world their sense of compassion," said Ahmed. MBCWashington.com featured a nine minute interview with Ahmed.

AU Students Produce Stage Fright!

NBCWashington.com will air 'Stage Fright!', a 10-part ghost-comedy Web series developed, written, shot, and edited by AU students in communication professors Claudia Myers' and Kyle Brannon's Creating Webisodes class. The show is scheduled to run on the NBCWashington.com beginning October 10, rolling out one episode a day (Monday-Friday) during a two-week period. The show will be up in its entirety after October 21 and remain on the site through Halloween and beyond. (10/10)

American Forum: Julian Bond Town Hall

As part of its Martin Luther King, Jr. Memorial dedication content this weekend, NBCWashington.com will feature the American Forum with associate professor of communication Jane Hall as moderator and guest Julian Bond, distinguished adjunct professor of government. The program, a discussion of civil rights with Bond and AU students, will also air over the weekend on WRC-NBC4's Digital Channel 4.2, Comcast 208, Verizon FIOS 460, Cox 803, and RCN. (10/13)

AU Newsmakers November 11–18, 2011

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Professor's Artistic Work Epitomizes Scholar-Teacher Ideal

TBD.com reviewed art professor Andy Holtin's new exhibition, pointing out how it reflects his teaching philosophy—to get his students to experience works of art rather than obsess over artist intent or the message a particular piece communicates. The three works in the exhibition involve video of performers doing ordinary things and elaborate mechanisms that make the videos (shown on separate screens) move and interact with each other. "It fakes a narrative. It's about our desire to understand what's going on," said Holtin of his intent keep his audience guessing. (11/15)

Additional Features

Northwest Washington: Tales From West of the Park

Mark Ozer, a lecturer with AU's Osher Lifelong Learning Institute, talked to the Washington Examiner about Northwest Washington: Tales From West of the Park, his new book chronicling the transformation of northwest Washington, D.C. "It's become a much more sophisticated city. When I moved here I lived in Bethesda and the city had gone through a period of decay. I live in the District now and it's an exciting place," said Ozer. (11/11)

Sex and Identity Symposium: AU Hosts Area Universities' Joint LGBT-Issues Conference

Metro Weekly, a Washington, D.C., based LGBT magazine, featured an interuniversity LGBT-issues conference that will take place at American University this weekend. "It's really a great opportunity for us to make sure the community, both locally and across the U.S., is aware of what's going on with LGBT people here and abroad," said Jacob Wilson, a graduate assistant at the GLBTA Resource Center. (11/17)

Op-Eds/AU Authors We're Neglecting Our North American Neighbors

The Miami Herald

Robert Pastor, professor of international relations, wrote an op-ed for the Miami Herald criticizing President Obama's Trans-Pacific Partnership strategy presented at the Asia-Pacific Economic Cooperation (APEC) Summit. Pastor argued that the United States should place more importance on growing the interdependent economy shared with Canada and Mexico. "The best path to freer trade in China and Asia is, paradoxically, for the United States to build on the region in which we draw our greatest strength—North America," wrote Pastor. (11/14)

Give Students a Break—An Election Break

HUFFINGTON POST

In a HuffingtonPost.com op-ed, Leonard Steinhorn, professor of communication, suggested a new kind of school break as a solution to young voters' lack of involvement. "Many colleges already have fall breaks, but these are typically in October. Why not shift it a few weeks later and call it a civic break? Changing the dates would be an easy administrative matter," wrote Steinhorn. (11/11)

AU Newsmakers November 18-December 2, 2011

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Thanksgiving Foods Are Some of the Healthiest

United Press International newswire featured health and fitness expert Stacey Snelling's commentary about how traditional favorite holiday foods can be healthful choices. "Several foods we consume this time of year are actually good for you when prepared with minimal added fat, sugar and salt, and consumed in moderation," she said. The Washington Examiner and DailyRx.com, a consumer health news website, also published the article. (11/17, 11/22)

Additional Features

Bleary-Eyed Students Can't Stop Texting, Even to Sleep, a Researcher Finds

THE CHRONICLE

Naomi Baron, executive director of the Center for Teaching, Research and Learning, spoke to the Chronicle of Higher Education about how today's faster, high-tech forms of communication, such as texting, have drastically altered the college experience. "My major concern about this continual connectivity is that students are being deprived of this wonderful opportunity that college used to give," said Baron, who has researched technology's impact on society. (11/20)

Seeking Sikh-Muslim Peace

The Washington Post

American University student Dylan Kaplan wrote an article for WashingtonPost.com's Guest Voices about the Sikh holiday, honoring Guru Nanak, the revered founder of Sikhism. On this holiday, Kaplan's mentor, Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic Studies, became the first Muslim to speak at a local Sikh Temple. "To witness such a degree of commitment to religious pluralism as was shown at the Sikh temple was very moving," wrote Kaplan. (11/22)

3 Ways to Use Foursquare To Connect With Your College

U.S. News & World Report cited American University's use of historical AU facts on the location-based social network Foursquare to foster school pride among students. "It's a really cool way to interact with the campus," said senior Chloë Troia, president of AU's Social Media club. While developing the AU location network, Jon Hussey, web communications manager said, "I actually reached out to a lot of students to get their insider tips on campus." (11/29)

Op-Eds/AU Authors N.Y. Bomb Plot: What Radicalizes Some Converts to Islam?

The Washington Post

In the wake of a recent bomb plot in New York City, Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic Studies, explained in a WashingtonPost.com op-ed that more contemporary American converts to Islam became extremists because of increased Islamophobia and the lack of good Muslim leadership post-9/11. "In the absence of a clear message emphasizing the peace and compassion which lie at the heart of Islam, the strong messages of confrontation and violence coming from religious leaders like Anwar al-Awalaki filled the void," wrote Ahmed. (11/21)

AU Newsmakers

November 4-11, 2011

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Art of the State: Collection Depicts an Israel Beyond the Conflict

A New Jersey Jewish News cover story featured The Rothfeld Collection of Contemporary Israeli Art, a recent gift to the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center from former long-time New Jersey resident Donald Rothfeld. "The Rothfeld gift helps us build a collection that will encourage this free, continuing discussion of ideas, beliefs, and values in the region [the Middle East]—exactly what is needed today," said Jack Rasmussen, American University Museum director and curator. Several images of works in the collection ran with the article. (11/09)

Additional Features

Internships Becoming Necessary for D.C. Grads

Internships "can allow students to make connections with employers and colleagues that could lead to other jobs down the road. They can also help students figure out what they don't want to do after graduation," said Francine Blume, director of experiential learning to WAMU-88.5 about the importance of students completing internships before graduation. (11/08)

Taking on Obama

To illustrate the change in attitudes among millennials toward the president since he took office, Canada Broadcasting Company suggested that the jubilant atmosphere at the Kennedy family's endorsement of then-candidate Obama at a 2008 rally at American University would be much different today. "In the first election I was campaigning and knocking on doors, but now I don't know if I have the same faith in him as I once did," said one AU student. (11/06)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Fair Representation for All

THE SUN Jamin Raskin, professor of law, wrote an op-ed for the Baltimore Sun calling for a more balanced congressional redistricting process in Maryland. "Used in many national elections and in a growing number of American cities, methods of fair voting (also called proportional voting) allow like-minded voters to pool their votes to elect representatives in numbers mirroring their level of public support. It puts voters, rather than partisan mapmakers, in charge of their representation in every election; citizens essentially 'district' themselves by voting," wrote Raskin. (11/07)

From Sarkozy to the IAEA—How Netanyahu Gets Stronger

THE HUFFINGTON POST

In an op-ed for HuffingtonPost.com, Josef Olmert, adjunct professor of international service, suggested that despite recent criticism from some allies of Benjamin Netanyahu, Israel's Prime Minister continues to gain his country's support. "Any action on his part will require a large measure of public support among his compatriots. He seems to have it now, and for the good of Israel he is expected to do his best not to lose it, as well as to win more international support," wrote Olmert. (11/09)

AU Newsmakers

December 16-22, 2011

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Stories

D.C. Debuts Live Near Work Pilot Program

Washington, D.C.'s Mayor Gray announced a new pilot program with American University to encourage employees to live within a few miles of work, creating a stronger tax base, healthier communities, and fewer cars on the road. WAMU 88.5, WUSA-CBS9, WRC-NBC4, Washington Business Journal, and Northwest Current reported on the partnership. Linda Argo, assistant vice president of external relations, told the Washington Business Journal, "It's a wonderful opportunity to avoid the glazed look of the hordes of commuters who travel every day in and out of the District of Columbia." (12/20)

Post 200: A Guide to the Region's Largest Businesses

The Washington Post

Washington Post Capital Business included American University in its 2011 guide to the region's top businesses. The article highlighted the opening of the Kogod Tax Center and plans to improve campus facilities. (12/19)

Op-Eds/AU Authors Presidents Have Strayed From Framers' Vision

The New York Times

In an opinion piece for the New York Times' online Room for Debate section, Jeffrey Crouch, assistant professor of American politics, wrote about how the presidential power of clemency has strayed from the founding fathers' intentions. "The world has changed, and largely in the past three decades or so. Recent presidents have little or no motivation to pardon anyone," wrote Crouch. (12/18)

Voting Rights: Which Side Are You On?

In an op-ed for the Chicago Tribune, Julian Bond, distinguished adjunct professor of government, argued that state attempts to require voters to show government IDs and limits on early voting essentially tax some members of society, such as the poor. "This is a direct assault on democracy and the biggest threat voters have faced since the passage of the Voting Rights Act.," wrote Bond. (12/18)

The Reluctant Firewall

David Bosco, assistant professor of international politics, wrote an article for Foreign Policy magazine about the European economic crisis. Bosco argued the United States must take a more active leadership role to contain the crisis should European leaders fail. "The critical question is not whether Europe is to blame but whether outsiders can step in where Europe has failed," wrote Bosco. (12/16)

Expertise

In Islamic Law, Gingrich Sees a Mortal Threat to U.S.

The New Hork Times

Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, talked to the New York Times about GOP presidential hopefuls propagating Islamic law as a threat to the United States. "Most American Muslims have no enthusiasm for replacing federal and state law with Shariah, as some conservatives fear, let alone adopting such ancient prescriptions as stoning for adulterers," said Ahmed. (12/22)

AU Newsmakers December 2-9, 2011

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Renewed Political Interest for Newt Gingrich

Two American University political wonks analyzed the resurgence of Newt The Boston Clube Gingrich in the Republican presidential primary race. Danny Hayes, assistant professor of government, spoke to the Boston Globe about Gingrich's ongoing political feud with Congressman Barney Frank. James Thurber, director of the Center for Congressional and Presidential Studies, discussed with NPR's All Things Considered Gingrich's health care consultancy. He also spoke to HuffingtonPost.com. (12/5, 12/6)

Additional Features

Use it, or Lose it

Publishers Weekly featured Patricia Aufderheide, University Professor of communication, and Peter Jaszi, professor of law, and their book, In Reclaiming Fair Use: How to Put Balance Back in Copyright. "The book, brimming with highly readable, real world examples, is a true interdisciplinary effort," read the article. (12/2)

American History On-Site in Washington, DC

In an article for Smithsonian Magazine's Around the Mall blog, Amy Henderson, professor of history, discussed her class in which students experience American history by visiting museums and historical sites in the District of Columbia. "At each place, the central question—who are we?—is consistent, but the ways history can be transmitted to 21st century audiences varies enormously," wrote Henderson. (12/6)

AU Exhibit Spotlights Unsung Photographer

A Northwest Current front page feature highlighted Re-viewing Documentary: The Photographic Life of Louise Rosskam, an exhibit at the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center. In the article, exhibit co-curator Laura Katzman described her working relationship with the late Rosskam and her effort to create an exhibition to celebrate Rosskam's work. (12/7)

Op-Eds/AU Authors A Cuban Conundrum

In an op-ed he co-authored for the Los Angeles Times, William LeoGrande, dean of the School of Public Affairs, explained the negotiations between the United States and Cuba for the release of Alan Gross, an American held for espionage in Cuba. "Republicans are already referring to Gross as a 'hostage' and excoriating Obama for not forcing Cuba (somehow) to release him. From a strictly political calculus, Obama would be better off securing Gross' release and getting the issue off the electoral agenda," wrote LeoGrande. (12/6)

AU Newsmakers December 9-16, 2011

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

When Two Are Better Than One

The Washington Post Express' Getting Ahead (linked PDF/pg. 15) section featured several of American University's dual degree programs. "Law school has taught me a lot about one side of the government and how we operate our society. Then the policy school fills in a lot of the gaps and speaks to a lot of the political and economic realities of how our society is organized and run," said Winfield Wilson, a JD/MPP student. Jonathan Tubman, vice provost for graduate studies, added, "There are things a dual-degree holder can do and career opportunities they wouldn't have [had] if they had one just one degree or another." The article also highlighted AU's new MA/MPA or MBA degree through a Teach for America partnership. (12/12)

Additional Features

At American U., the Next Barry Levinson?

The Washington Post

Washington Post profiled School of Communication student Jason Fraley whose 'Liberty Road' master's thesis short film about life in a small town Maryland crab shack won him a CINE Golden Eagle award. Fraley's advisor, professor Claudia Myers, said the film is, "very dense but in a good way. That's exactly what he wanted to pack all this stuff in. It's a unique film. It tells a different kind of story. I think it's really strong, and it has a good chance of getting a lot of attention." (12/9)

At American U., an In-Depth Look at Strange, Stark Spaces

The Washington Post reviewed Courtney Smith: Insatiable Spaces and Wayne Barrar: An Expanding Subterra, two exhibitions at the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center. Additionally, Washington City Paper ranked Barrar's exhibition and Re-Viewing Documentary: The Photographic Life of Louise Rosskam as two of D.C.'s top 10 photo exhibits of 2011. (12/7, 12/15)

Law Students Going Door-to-Door to Spread Word About Foreclosure Rights

CNS Maryland

Capital News Service featured Take Back Your Home—a student-run outreach program at the Washington College of Law in which students educate Prince George's County, Md. residents about their rights in regards to pending foreclosures.

"One foreclosure happens, and that's a very unfortunate thing, but it's very matter of fact. When millions of foreclosures are happening at the same time, something is incredibly wrong," said student founder Bradford Voegeli. (12/14)

Expertise

AU Expert Analyzes 2012 Presidential Race

Ap Associated Press

Leonard Steinhorn, professor of communication, spoke to the Associated Press about why it is advantageous for presidential candidates to appear on late night talk shows and other news outlets. "The campaigns are using free media as an amplifier and it's smart, especially for those who don't have much money," said Steinhorn. More than 390 outlets including, the the websites of Wall Street Journal, New York Times and Washington Post, republished the article. Also, on CBS Radio and WTTG-FOX5, Steinhorn discussed Newt Gingrich's resurgence as a serious presidential contender. (12/11, 12/10)

AU Newsmakers

January 6-13, 2012

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Stories

Fresh Eyes on the Primaries

In two articles, the Concord Monitor highlighted 34 American University undergraduate and graduate students who traveled to cover the New Hampshire primary as part of the joint School of Communication and School of Public Affairs

Communicating the 2012 Election class. The first article described how students used Twitter to document their coverage from moment to moment, and the second highlighted exit polling the students conducted for the Concord Monitor on primary day. (1/10)

Gender Imbalance on the Campaign Trail

JOURNALISM REVIEW Dotty Lynch, executive-in-residence in the School of Communication, discussed with the Columbia Journalism Review online the gender imbalance that exists in the reporters covering the primary elections. Lynch said that women are intrigued by the political field, but attributed the smaller number of female journalists to the fact that "the people at the top doing the hiring are still mostly white men." (1/12)

Additional Features

Predicting the Presidential Election: 2012

HuffingtonPost.com featured distinguished professor of history Allan Lichtman's 13 keys to the presidency in an article about the 2012 presidential elections. "According to Lichtman, if the incumbent party (that is, the political party that is currently in the White House) can claim eight of the '13 Keys,' then they can be assured of victory in the next election. If, on the other hand, they hold seven or less, they are headed for defeat," the article explained. (1/7)

Piecing it together: to create exhibitions, museum curators round up the artists—and the funding.

Washington Post Express (linked PDF/pg. 24) included American University's fine arts degree program as part of the Continuing Education and Career Advancement Guide. The article highlights American University as an institution where people can earn a degree as a museum curator and have a job like the successful curator featured in the article. (1/9)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Face it, Romney is Way Out in Front

In an op-ed for CNN.com, Jennifer Lawless, director of the Women & Politics Institute, critiques the media's downplaying Romney's victories in Iowa and New Hampshire to rather focus on his vulnerabilities and candidates who could potentially upset him in upcoming primaries. "As someone genuinely concerned with the consequences of the 24-hour news cycle, I am struck and disappointed by the disconnect between what the voters have said and how the media have covered their sentiments," wrote Lawless. (1/10)

AU Newsmakers January 11 – January 18, 2012

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

University Poll Reflects Youth Attitude toward Guns

WUSA9-CBS featured Women and Politics Institute director Jennifer Lawless' nationwide poll which revealed that more than half of 'depressed' high school and college-age students plan on owning a gun in the future. The poll of more than 4,000 students also showed that high school students who regularly play video games for more than 4 hours per day are 50 percent more likely than those who do not typically play video games to report plans to own a gun. More than 60 TV stations nationwide and USA Today online aired the segment. (1/15)

Additional Features

The Buck Stopped Here

The New York Times Magazine international service professor Gordon

With the New York Times Magazine, Adams spoke about the fear of proposed government cutbacks, especially at the Pentagon, and the potential effect on Washington, D.C.'s economy. "People are saying, 'We're going to lose a million jobs here,' that's not going to happen, and it's not going to happen because contractors are working on existing contracts financed with prior-year dollars. We're going to be working through this for some time, and there's going to be a very slow roll to actual projects. The implications aren't for current work, but the next round of work," said Adams. (1/13)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

The GOP's Disappearing Diversity in Congress

In an op-ed for McClatchy-Tribune Media, international service professor Clarence Lusane talked about the lack of diversity within the GOP in the U.S. Congress. "Overwhelming and growing black and Latino support for Democrats has terrified some in the GOP who believe there is no future for the party unless it can recruit support from communities of color. Like Sen. Marco Rubio, R-Fla., [South Carolina Sen. Tim] Scott is the counter to charges that the Republican Party (and its Tea Party engine) is lily-white and cares little for people of color," wrote Lusane. Ft. Worth Star Telegram, Kansas City Star online, and Minneapolis Star Tribune online republished the op-ed. (1/14)

For internal, informational purposes only. Any editing, reproduction or publication is forbidden and prohibited by copyright law.

AU Newsmakers January 13-20, 2012

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Women's Underrepresentation in Politics

The media turned to Jennifer Lawless, director of the Women & Politics Institute for expert analysis after the release of her report, Men Rule: The Continued Under-Representation of Women in U.S. Politics, which identifies seven factors discouraging women from seeking elected office. On C-SPAN's Washington Journal, Lawless discussed what can be done to counteract the trend. With Agence France Presse, she explained a woman's role in supporting her candidate husband and family during a presidential campaign. Lawless also spoke to Elect Women Magazine online and

Asia News International about the reasons why women defer running in elections. (1/14, 1/16)

Additional Features

Death of Poetry? Not in D.C.

In an online video on WashingtonPost.com, Kyle Dargan, assistant professor of literature, discussed Washington's poetry community and the connection between poetry and government. "In some ways they're very similar in a sense that poetry and government, when operating at optimum capacity, are entities that really hold the world together quietly," said Dargan. (1/12)

Readers' Review: "The Day of the Jackal"

On WAMU 88.5's The Diane Rehm Show, Peter Starr, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, discussed Frederick Forsyth's The Day of the Jackal, a book about a hitman out to assassinate French President Charles de Gaulle. "I'm a literature professor. I teach literature. I teach people to understand and appreciate literature.

One of the things that's remarkable about this novel is how true it is," said Starr. (1/18)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Obama Mirror's Bush in Signing Statements

In an op-ed for Roll Call, Jeffrey Crouch, assistant professor of American politics discussed President Obama's failure to follow through on a campaign promise to change policies past presidents enacted to expand executive powers. "Whether the initiation of military engagement in Libya without Congressional consent or a variety of secrecy practices, the president has acted on a number of occasions in ways that enable him to direct policy without engaging in the deliberative process with lawmakers," wrote Crouch. (1/19)

Expertise Obama Bid to Cut the Government Tests Congress

Beryl Radin, scholar-in-residence in the School of Public Affairs, spoke to The New York Times about President Obama's decision to shrink the size of the federal government. "Just because it's one fish doesn't mean it needs to be regulated by one agency," said Radin in regards to Obama's often cited multiple agencies salmon regulation example. (1/13)

AU Newsmakers January 20-February 3, 2012

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

President Clinton Named Wonk of the Year

"Thousands of American University students gathered in the basketball arena Friday night to present Bill Clinton with their inaugural Wonk of the Year award, and after accepting the award Clinton spoke about the work of his foundation and 'embracing our common humanity," stated Washington Post's Campus Overload in its coverage of the event. "He is the first person who comes to mind when you say wonk," said Alex Kreger, student director of the Kennedy Political Union, who presented the award on behalf of students. ABCNews.com, Washington Post's Post Local online, Examiner.com and Northwest

Current also highlighted this inaugural award. (1/27, 1/28, 1/30)

A New Home for WAMU

Washington Business Journal online and Washington City Paper online covered the news that American University has signed a contract to purchase a building to become the new home for WAMU 88.5. "We are pleased that WAMU will soon be housed in a facility to meet its current and future space needs, and provide an environment for future programming growth to better serve our listeners," President Neil Kerwin said in a statement picked up by all outlets. CityBizList.com and DCRTV.com also reported the announcement. (2/2)

Additional Features

What You Can Learn From Mitt's Tax Return

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL

For Wall Street Journal's Weekend Investor section, a trio of Kogod's Tax Center experts including Don Williamson, executive director;

Dave Kautter, managing director; and Center member Tom Ochsenschlage, analyzed Mitt Romney's tax returns. "The only schedules missing [from the Romneys' return] are the ones for fishermen, farmers and the elderly," said Kautter. Williamson added, "The credit [for $1 General Business Credit] could be for hiring a disadvantaged youth or qualified veteran and it flowed through from an investment partnership." Kautter also spoke to Bloomberg about President Obama's tax plan and with the Wall Street Journal's Total Return blog about Mitt Romney's tax preparation. (1/26, 1/28, 2/1)

Rethinking College Admisisons

Sharon Alston, vice provost for undergraduate enrollment, appeared on WAMU 88.5's The Kojo Nnamdi Show to discuss college admissions and the characteristics universities seek in applicants. "We are very much using our campus visitor center to connect students to what we think is most important for them to know about AU, and that we're looking for students who are smart, passionate, focused and engaged," said Alston. (2/2)

AU Newsmakers February 3 – February 10, 2012

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story Survey Reveals Common Tax Reform Goals for Businesses of All Sizes

Bloomberg

For Bloomberg BNA Daily Tax Report, David Kautter, managing director of the Kogod Tax Center, presented survey results from advisers with small, medium, and large businesses regarding 15 tax reform issues affecting business including a national sales tax and extending 100 percent expensing. "A notable finding of the survey was the remarkable similarity between the views of advisers to small businesses and those to mid- and large-size businesses when it came to rating the potential tax reform proposals as 'extremely important," wrote Kautter. The Kogod Tax Center and Bloomberg BNA jointly sponsored the study. (2/8)

Additional Features

For Business Schools, Entrepreneurship is a Bridge to Other Parts of Campus

The Washington Post's Capital Business featured American University in a trend story on business school entrepreneurship programs extending their reach to other academic disciplines on campus. "We think they'll come out with a much richer understanding of the business skills and competencies they'll need to be successful if they start a new media venture," said Stevan

Holmberg, chair of the department of management, of the types of students the school wants to enroll in the proposed degree in media entrepreneurship in SOC and Kogod. (2/5)

After Words: Deborah Scroggins, "Wanted Women," hosted by Akbar Ahmed

Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, served as guest host on this week's C-SPAN Book TV's After Words. In the hour long program, Ahmed probed Deborah Scroggins about her new book Wanted Women. "I found that taking these two women [Somali Ayaan Hirsi Ali and Pakistani Aafia Siddiqui] who both in their own ways have made such a mark on our times that you are creating two poles in the Muslim tent as it were," observed Ahmed to Scroggins. (2/4)

American Basketball Finds a Gem in Transfer Charles Hinkle

The Washington Post

The Washington Post featured AU Men's Basketball player Charles Hinkle who has blossomed into one of the nation's finest scorers. Currently ranked 18th in the nation for scoring Hinkle's growth this season has been remarkable considering last year he only averaged 4.5 points per game. (2/8)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Solving Sudan's Nuba Crisis

In the second op-ed of a series for Al Jazeera.com, Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, and his research fellow, Frankie Martin, discuss Sudan's minority Nuba population and the ongoing crisis in Southern Kordofan region after the partition of Sudan. "Southern Kordofan, on the 2011 partition border with South Sudan, has become a potential battleground between the North and South that could become an African version of Kashmir," wrote Ahmed. (2/6)

AU Newsmakers

February 10 - February 17, 2012

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Local colleges Fare Well on 'LGBT-friendly' Index

The Washington Post

American University received a five star ranking from the Campus Climate Index's LGBT-friendly schools. In its review of how local colleges fared, Washington Post's College, Inc observed, "The five-star rating puts AU in the company of several lvies, top liberal arts schools and sprawling public flagships." (2/15)

Additional Features

After Words: Eric Klinenberg, "Going Solo," Hosted by Kim Blankenship

Kim Blankenship, director of AU's Center on Health, Risk & Society, served as guest host on this week's C-SPAN Book TV's After Words. In the hour long program, Blankenship talked to Eric Klineberg about his new book Going Solo which explores the growing trend in America of adults of all ages choosing to live alone. "The concept of living along varies by country and I was struck by the Northern European society example of the way they live," observed Blankenship. (2/12)

Investigating Germs on Touch Screens

How clean are touch screens? WTTG-FOX5 put touch screens to the test to determine which are the worst. A reporter brought iPhone, self-checkout and ATM machine swab samples to AU where Nancy Zeller, director of biology labs, tested the materials for bacterial growth. "There are a lot of people using the same surfaces, there's always a chance for bacteria to be left behind from somebody who is sick," observed Zeller. (2/15)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Buy North American and Save Ourselves

THE GLOBE AND MAIL

In his Toronto Globe and Mail op-ed, Robert Pastor, director of AU's Center for North American Studies, proposed that the United States, Canada, and Mexico harmonize their trade and economic cooperation rather than act at the expense of each other to escape the recession and compete globally. "If Canada would join with Mexico to promote 'Buy North American' instead of each country seeking an exemption, Canadians might do more than change the policy. We might awaken the U.S. to the continent's promise," wrote Pastor. (2/11)

AU Newsmakers February 17 – February 24, 2012

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Quran Burning in Afghanistan Ignites Fury

On CNN's Situation Room and ABC's World News Tonight with Diane Sawyer, Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, discussed the significance and proper handling of the Quran after the burning of the Quran at an American base in Afghanistan. "For Muslims, the Quran is the word of God. When Muslims see it desecrated, they see this as an attack on Islam and they get angry and upset," explained Ahmed. (2/21)

Additional Features

Graduate Degrees, Certificates and Enrichment Programs

The Washington Post

The Washington Post Sunday Magazine's quarterly Education Review highlighted American University three times. In an article about graduate education, Jonathan

Tubman, vice provost for graduate studies talked about how universities have a stake in marketplace outcomes. "There is incredible pressure to help students succeed," he says. An article about enrichment classes highlighted AU's Osher Lifelong Learning Institute, and an online supplemental article on certificate programs again quoted Tubman. (2/19)

Jewish LGBT students celebrate identity

JEWISH WEEK

A Washington Jewish Week article highlighted the National Union of Jewish LGBT Students conference hosted this year at American University. "After coming to AU and going to my first NUJLS conference last year, I really wanted to make it bigger. There's nothing else like this for students, and it really is a testament to the ongoing inclusivity within the Jewish community," said AU junior Jonathan Lipton, the conference's organizer. (2/22)

American University Musical Deals with Gay Bullying

Carl Menninger, director of theatre and musical theatre, and Matthew Ingraham, a sophomore musical theatre major, appeared on WTTG FOX5 to discuss the community outreach they are doing for the department's production, BARE...A Pop Opera, to bring awareness to the impact of gay bullying. "With this show, we have a platform. We have an avenue in which to bring awareness to this issue." said Menniger. (2/23)

AU Newsmakers July 20 – July 27 2012

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

The Best 4—Or 3 Years in Your Life?

In a trend story on three year degree programs, USA Today online featured the School of International Service's Global Scholars Program and its accelerated international service track. Leeanne Dunsmore, associate dean of Graduate Admissions & Program Development, distinguished AU's program suggesting that unlike other three year degree programs, "Our goal was to build a cohort of students who would engage in community-based learning, service and research through their living-learning community and co-curricular activities." (7/20)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Alawi Split from Syria Would Spell Disaster

FINANCIAL TIMES In an op-ed for Financial Times, Benjamin Jensen, assistant professor of international service, warns of the implications of establishing an Alawi break-away state in Syria. "The international community should be mindful of the risks inherent in the fragmentation of Syria. Any intervention, whether diplomatic or military, that further splits Syria is liable to end with the creation of a rogue Alawi state," said Jensen. (7/22)

A Five Star Global Investment in Women: The Power of Mentor Relationships

In a Huffington Post column, Constance Morella, ambassador–in-residence in the School of Public Affairs, discusses her advocacy for and personal involvement in mentoring women to run for political office domestically and internationally. "My experience with The Women & Politics Institute, The 2012 Project and the Global Ambassadors Program exemplifies the outstanding influence that mentoring can have on promoting the skills and resources necessary for developing women into progressive, effective leaders, regardless of where they call home or what their goals are for the future," wrote Ambassador Morella. (7/26)

Sharing is Caring: Containing Terrorism in South Asia

Stephen Tankel, assistant professor of justice, law and society, in his third in a series of four columns on Foreign Policy online, addressed terrorism in South Asia and the importance of countries sharing information in combatting terrorism. "In the absence of a policy that succeeds in convincing, cajoling or compelling Pakistan to change its behavior, it has become essential to devise mechanisms to mitigate the external threats from Pakistan-based and Pakistan-supported militants," observed Tankel with respect to Pakistan's unwillingness to share information.

Expertise

We're All Climate-Change Idiots

The New York Times

The New York Times talked to Matthew Nisbet, associate professor of communication, about people's perception of climate change. "Research also suggests public health is an effective frame: few people care passionately about polar bears, but if you argue that closing coal-burning plants will reduce problems like asthma, you're more likely to find a receptive audience," he said. Nisbet also discussed the science of communication in his op-ed for The Scientist. (7/22, 7/23)

AU Newsmakers August 31– September 7, 2012

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

AU Wonks Analyze Democratic National Convention

National and regional media outlets turned to AU's political wonks for expert analysis of the Democratic National Convention. Jennifer Lawless, director of the Women and Politics Institute, talked to CBS News online about the Democrats' focus on LGBTA rights and to the Philadelphia Inquirer about why female voters should prefer President Obama. History professor Allan Lichtman spoke to the Charlotte Observer about which issues voters find most important. Communication professor Leonard Steinhorn talked to the Associated Press about the drawbacks of President Obama delivering his speech outside even if it rains and to WJLA-ABC7 about how the president can refute criticism about his economic policies. Journalism professor Jane Hall spoke to U.S. News & World Report about the key topics President Obama should address in his convention speech. (8/31-9/6)

Additional Features

Campaign U 2012

Each week from now until election day, WTTG-FOX5 will be live in AU's Campaign U classroom on campus and will provide live steaming coverage of the discussions, which are taught every four years in the fall before a presidential election. In this week's Campaign U discussions, Leonard Steinhorn, professor of public communication, involved his students in a discussion about the Republican and Democratic national conventions. Topics included the importance of female voters, the most impactful speeches, and first steps the candidates should take if they are elected. (9/6)

Thanks to Scholarship, Saudi Students Return to U.S. in Droves

For a trend story about the increase of Saudi students studying in the United States, Washington Diplomat talked to Fanta Aw, assistant vice president of Campus Life and director of International Student and Scholar Services, about the influence the country's King Abdullah Scholarship Program has had on students enrolling at American University. "With the exception of one or two students, all of the 62 Saudi students enrolled at the university this fall are recipients of the scholarship and a third of those students are female," said Aw. (8/31)

Celebrating an Avant-Garde Influencer

The Washington Post and Washington Post's Express highlighted American University's participation in the John Cage Centennial Festival. The university will host a series of Cage-focused events Friday and Saturday, September 7 and 8. (8/31, 9/6)

Expertise

Where'd the Time Go? Obama Girls Now Young Women

In an interview with the Associated Press, executive in residence Anita McBride discussed the lives of first children Sasha and Malia Obama and the first family's efforts to keep the girls happy and grounded. "Whether you support this president or not, you want to know that it's healthy and grounding and going well at home. They clearly are a family that's got it together," said McBride. More than 200 outlets republished McBride's comments, including the Wall Street Journal, Charlotte Observer, and Atlanta Journal-Constitution. McBride also talked to USA Today about the influential role of the first lady as the guardian of the first family's lives. (9/7)

AU Newsmakers September 14 – September 21, 2012

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

As Full-Time MBA Enrollments Decline, Specialized Master's Degrees on the Rise

The Washington Post

Lawrence Ward, associate dean for academic programs at the Kogod School of Business, talked to the Washington Post's Capital Business about the trend of more graduate students pursuing specialized master's degrees or enrolling in part-time MBA programs at business schools rather than signing up for full-time MBA programs. "Business schools have to be responsive to what the consumer is telling us. And increasingly they're saying, 'I don't see enough value in a traditional two-year program,'" said Ward. The article also cited Kogod's newest specialized master's degree program, the MS in sustainability management. (9/16)

Additional Features

Each week in School of Communication professor Leonard Steinhorn's Campaign 2012: Inside the War Room and the Newsroom class, WTTG-FOX5 brings a camera into the classroom as part of the station's election coverage. Each Thursday, the class is live-streamed on the station's website from 9:15–11:45 a.m. Additionally, the station's Morning News show airs a segment each week about the class. This week focused on Mitt Romney's latest gaffe and how it may affect his campaign. Tune in next week to see AU's most politically active students engage in discussions on the pressing issues of the day. (9/20)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Sequestering the Jury

Gordon Adams, professor of foreign policy, wrote an op-ed for Foreign Policy about the newest Office of Management and Budget's (OMB) report of upcoming cuts. "What OMB has done is to dodge the political bullet by producing a dry and minimal analysis of what across-the-board budget cuts would look like—without saying which specific programs would feel the most pain," Gordon wrote. (9/14)

Expertise

Prophet Mohammed Cartoons in France

Appearing on CNN's Situation Room with Wolf Blitzer to discuss the latest Muslim outrage to the depiction of the Prophet Mohammed in a French cartoon, Akbar Ahmed, chair of Islamic studies, explained why the depiction is so controversial. "In Islam, the worship of god is completely indivisible from anything. It is just god," explained Ahmed. He also appeared on CNN International and BBC News America. (9/18, 9/19, 9/20)

Why Are 5 Million Kids on Facebook if It Doesn't Want Them?

Reuters talked to Kathryn Montgomery, communication studies professor, about Facebook's claims of banning children 12 or younger from its site when recent studies show that about 3.5% of Facebook users fall in this age group. "What we hoped to do with these kinds of rules is to get companies to act responsibly toward kids. It's not easy to do," said Montgomery. (9/19)

AU Newsmakers September 21 – September 28, 2012

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Tax Wonks Analyze Mitt Romney's Tax Return

In two different Reuters articles, David Kautter, managing director of the Kogod Tax Center, discussed the portion of Mitt Romney's tax return that showed Romney's foreign investments generated considerable income. "What this tells you is that his foreign investments are doing better than his domestic ones," said Kautter in one of the articles. In a live in-studio interview on WUSA's 9 News Now, Donald Williamson, executive director of the Kogod Tax Center, discussed the relatively low overall tax rate of Romney's returns. "We have a very wealthy man who gives a lot to charity," said Williamson. Kautter also spoke about the tax returns with the Wall Street Journal and The Atlantic online. (9/21, 9/22, 9/26)

United Nations Meeting Convenes

As the United Nations General Assembly convened, David Bosco, assistant professor of international relations, provided analysis of the annual meetings. "We're in the height of an election season, and spending time at the United Nations simply doesn't do a candidate much good," he said to the Washington Examiner about President Obama's short visit with assembly members. With The Times of London, Bosco discussed the UN's focus on the Middle East, with UN Dispatch he discussed Palestine seeking official membership to the council, and with Australian Broadcasting, Bosco discussed Australia's seat on the UN Security Council. (9/24, 9/25, 9/24, 9/21)

Additional Features

A 3-year B.A. Program in High Demand

In a letter to the editor responding to a negative Chronicle of Higher Education article about 3-year degree programs, School of International Service professors Patrick Thaddeus Jackson and Sarah Cleeland Knight revealed that most of the students in

AU's 3-year programs enter for the program's academic rigor, as opposed to cost savings, and that AU's program "represents an innovative and effective path to completion." (9/23)

US-Pakistan Women's Council Launched

The Express Tribune highlighted the State Department's announcement that it is partnering with American University to create the U.S.-Pakistan Women's Council. The council, which will be housed in the School of International Service, will promote the economic advancement of women in Pakistan and be co-chaired by President Neil Kerwin.

CampaignU: Inside the War Room and the Newsroom

Each week in School of Communication professor Leonard Steinhorn's Campaign 2012: Inside the War Room and the Newsroom class, WTTG-FOX5 brings a camera into the classroom as part of the station's election coverage. Each Thursday, the class is live-streamed on the station's website from 9:15–11:45 a.m. Additionally, the station's Morning News show airs a segment each week about the class. This week focused on the accuracy of polling and its accuracy in predicting

November's outcome. Tune in next week to see AU's most politically active students engage in discussions on the pressing issues of the day. (9/27)

For internal, informational purposes only. Any editing, reproduction or publication is forbidden and prohibited by copyright law.

AU Newsmakers November 16 – November 30, 2012

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

New Crab Species Discovered by, Named for Biology Professor

ScienceDaily.com featured biology professor Christopher Tudge's discovery of a new species of hermit crab off the coast of Belize. Tudge's colleagues published an article about his discovery in the journal Zootaxa and named the new species Areopaguristes tudgei after Tudge. "Given

Your source for the latest research news this cryptic habitat and the relatively minute size of the specimens, it is not surprising that these populations have gone unnoticed during extensive sampling programs that have previously taken place," the authors wrote. More than 25 news outlets, including science-focused outlets PHYS.org and Bio-Medicine.org, republished the story.

Additional Features

Untold History

The New York Times Magazine

A New York Times Magazine feature described history professor Peter Kuznick's influence on The Untold History of the United States, a New York Times bestselling book and Showtime series, on which he collaborated with director Oliver Stone. "We [the United States] actually came very close to having a very different kind of history. We want to give people the ability to think in a utopian fashion again," Kuznick said about his and Stone's goal to highlight pivotal moments in history when better decisions could have been made. The Associated Press, Salon.com and Harper's also wrote about Kuznick's recent work. More than 250 outlets, including ABC News Online, Charlotte Observer, and The Fresno Bee republished the AP article. (11/21, 11/22, 11/26)

Late Fall Exhibitions at the AU Musuem

The Washington Post

Washington Post reviewed the late fall exhibitions at the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center.

"With a lively fleet and flexible exhibition program that focuses equal attention on local, national and international art--and a healthy respect for the past and the present--the museum delivers only one thing with great consistency: surprise," read the review. (11/23)

Op-Eds/AU Authors
Latinos Need Immigration Reform, Not Crumbs

Los Angeles Times

In an op-ed for the Los Angeles Times, Center for Latino and Latin American Studies fellow John Ackerman wrote about the shortcomings of immigration reform and the need for Latinos to drive the debate. "Instead of waiting for the politicians in Washington to hammer out a new bipartisan coalition behind closed doors, Latinos should reach out to each other, organize and construct a new society-based coalition that has the power to literally change the face of the United States," wrote Ackerman. (11/20)

For internal, informational purposes only. Any editing, reproduction or publication is forbidden and prohibited by copyright law.

AU Newsmakers February 15 – February 22, 2013

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

AU Profs on Book TV's College Series

For its college series, C-SPAN's Book TV interviewed ten AU professors about their books. The segments featuring Akbar Ahmed, Ibn Khaldun chair of Islamic Studies, and Women in Politics Institute director Jennifer Lawless aired first. Ahmed discussed his book The Thistle and the Drone, while Lawless discussed her book Becoming a Candidate. In the coming weeks Book TV will feature additional professors. (2/17)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Jensen: Seeds Sown in Middle East for the Next Revolution

The Washington Times

In an op-ed for the Washington Times, international service professor Benjamin Jensen analyzed the struggle to consolidate power post-Arab Spring in countries like Egypt. Jensen predicts violence and unrest will continue throughout 2013. (2/17)

Expertise

Juggling Priorities, Pentagon Tries to Protect War Funding, Troops

International service professor Gordon Adams spoke to Reuters about defense budget cuts and sequestration. More than 30 outlets, including the Chicago Tribune, Orlando Sun Sentinel and Morning Call republished this article. Adams also spoke to the Boston Globe about defense budget cuts and their potential impact on Massachusetts employment. (2/15, 2/20)

U.S.: Hacking Attacks are Constant Topic of Talks with China

Law professor Melanie Teplinsky spoke to McClatchy Newspapers about cyber-law issues and the government's stance on hacking. More than 25 outlets, including the Sacramento Bee and Charlotte Observer republished this article. (2/19)

Neil deGrasse Tyson Tweets for Science Literacy

Communication professor Declan Fahy talked to USA Today about high-profile scientist Neil deGrasse Tyson's advocacy for scientific thinking. (2/19)

AU Newsmakers

April 26 - May 3, 2013

Prepared by University Communications

For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Kogod Tops for Sustainability

Bloomberg Businessweek Bloomberg Businessweek named Kogod School of Business as the best undergraduate business school for sustainability. The ranking is based on student responses to questions asking them to rank their business school's sustainability offerings. (4/29)

JFK at AU

JFK Remembered by Veteran Broadcasters

During a live broadcast on C-SPAN, journalist Tom Brokaw and distinguished journalist-in-residence Nick Clooney, shared their memories of John F. Kennedy's presidency and A Strategy of Peace speech delivered 50 years ago at AU's commencement ceremony. AU's School of Communication and the Newseum sponsored the discussion. WTTG-FOX5 also highlighted the event. (5/1)

Additional Features

Student Entrepreneurs Transition Straight From School to Start-Ups

The Washington Post

In a trend story about new graduates kicking off their careers in start-ups, Washington Post's Capital Business profiled Kogod School of Business MBA student Tim Richards. Richards and several AU students founded Reefcam, a startup that broadcasts video from coral reefs. (4/26)

AU Appoints New Men's Basketball Coach

Director of athletics and recreation Billy Walker announced Mike Brennan as the new men's basketball coach. Associated Press, Washington Post, Washington Examiner, WRC-NBC4, WTTG-Fox5, WJLA-ABC7 and Comcast SportsNet covered the appointment. (4/30, 5/1)

Op-Ed/Faculty Author

Obama, Peña Nieto Must Save a Vital Part of Effort to Fight Drug Trafficking

In an op-ed for the Christian Science Monitor, timed for Presidents Obama and Pena-Nieto's meeting this week in Mexico, international service professors Carolyn Gallaher and Daniel Schneider question what the future holds for U.S.-Mexican cooperation in reducing drug trafficking under the Mérida Initiative. (5/2)

For internal, informational purposes only. Any editing, reproduction or publication is forbidden and prohibited by copyright law.

AU Newsmakers August 9 – August 16, 2013

Prepared by University Communications

For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

The New Age of Algorithms: How it Affects the Way We Live

Public communication professor Robert Lehrman wrote the Christian Science Monitor cover story that featured communication professor Laura DeNardis' expertise about the most pressing concerns regarding new "Big Data" technology and Internet surveillance including, privacy and inequality. (8/11)

Additional Features

Rebranding Climate Change as a Public Health Issue

Communication professor Matthew Nisbet spoke to Time Magazine online about his research that shows people respond more emotionally to the issue of global warming when it is framed as a public health issue rather than an environmental or national security issue. (8/9)

The Human Costs of a More Secure Border

Washington Post's Post TV spoke to communication professor Carolyn Brown about her documentary, "On the Line", which looks at the struggles of undocumented migrants crossing the U.S.-Mexico border. (8/13)

AU Joins Ranks of Tobacco-Free Universities

The Washington Post

By going tobacco- and smoke-free this week, American University is the third Washington-area campus to become a smoke-free campus for start of the new academic year, cited the Washington Post. WTOP.com also highlighted AU's new initiative. (8/16)

Expertise

Al Qaeda's Widening North African Jihad Confounds Foes

Justice, law and society professor Stephen Tankel spoke to Reuters about the Al Qaeda in the Islamic Maghreb expansion into North and West Africa. New York Times online republished this article. (8/9)

IRS Extends Deadline for 'Innocent Spouse' Tax Relief Application

Don Williamson, executive director of the Kogod Tax Center, talked to Reuters about a timeframe expansion proposal for taxpayers who qualify for the innocent spouse tax program, and which types of taxpayers typically qualify for the program. (8/12)

For internal, informational purposes only. Any editing, reproduction or publication is forbidden and prohibited by copyright law.

AU Newsmakers November 8 – November 15, 2013

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Conservatives Face Tougher Time in Elections as Urban Burbs Take on City Trends

In post-election analysis, Washington Post online's Govbeat blog and PBS Newshour featured American Communities Project director Dante Chinni's research which identifies 15 types of counties in America including the suburbs, exurbs, college towns, big cities and the aging farmlands and how the populations in these districts tend to vote. Chinni used these designations to explain how recent candidates used their knowledge of these counties to win their elections. (11/8, 11/12)

Additional Features

AU Museum's "Siberia Through the Eyes of Russian Photographers" Reviewed

The Washington City Paper reviewed the "Siberia through the Eyes of Russian Photographers" exhibit at the American University Museum at the Katzen Arts Center. The exhibit features Siberian life through photographs spanning more than 150 years—from the 1860s to 2011. (11/8)

Open Doors 2013 Report: Growth in Foreign Students in the U.S.

In a segment about how Saudi Arabia is among the top 5 countries sending its students to the United States to study, KSA2 Kingdom of Saudi Arabia English TV highlighted the services that American University provides to assure that the Saudi students adapted well at the university. (11/13)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

Argentina Threw Its Creditors Under the Bus

FINANCIAL TIMES

For Financial Times, international service professor Arturo

Porzecanski wrote an op-ed cyplaining. handed tactics in dealing with bondholders after its default. *Login Required

From War Protester to Teaching the Vietnamese How to Write Speeches

In an op-ed for the Christian Science Monitor, communication professor Robert Lehrman wrote about teaching speechwriting to a group of young Vietnam diplomats. (11/10)

How It Sounds: To Be A Sound Guy

For NPR online, communication professor Greg Smith recorded sounds for an experimental storytelling piece which reflected his new role as a professor, and what his life sounds like now that he is teaching in a college classroom. (11/8)

For internal, informational purposes only. Any reproduction is forbidden and prohibited by copyright law.

IN THE UNITED STATES PATENT AND TRADEMARK OFFICE BEFORE THE TRADEMARK TRIAL AND APPEAL BOARD

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Petitioner,

V.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT,

Registrant.

Cancellation No. 92049706

Reg. No. 3387226

Mark: AUK AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT

Reg. Date: February 26, 2008

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY OF KUWAIT,

Counter-Petitioner,

V.

AMERICAN UNIVERSITY,

Counter-Registrant.

Reg. No 2986715 Mark: AMERICAN INTERNATIONAL UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date Aug. 23, 2005

Reg. No. 3559022

Mark: A NEW AMERICAN

UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date: Jan. 06, 2009

Reg. No. 4127891

Mark: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

WASHINGTON COLLEGE OF

LAW and Design

Reg. Date: Apr. 17, 2012

Reg. No. 4774583.

Mark: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

Reg. Date: Jul. 21, 2015

EXHIBITS D79-D87 to DECLARATION "D" OF JANICE HOUSEY (RE: AMERICAN UNIVERSITY'S USE OF "WASHINGTON, D.C."

WITH ITS AMERICAN UNIVERSITY MARK)

AU Newsmakers

December 20, 2013 - January 10, 2014

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Stories

C-SPAN Kicks Off 2014 Featuring American University Experts, Winter Institutes

More than 37 hours of C-SPAN programming focused on AU's School of Public Affairs during the New Year.

Government professor Chris Edelson appeared on C-SPAN's Washington Journal to discuss his book, Emergency Presidential Power examining how U.S. presidents have tested and pushed the limits of their emergency powers. The show re-aired on C-SPAN Radio. (1/2, 1/3)

Women & Politics Institute director Jennifer Lawless appeared on C-SPAN'sWashington Journal to discuss the impact of women in politics, and her study revealing female candidates choosing not to run for public office. The show re-aired on C-SPAN2 and C-SPAN Radio. (1/3, 1/4)

C-SPAN covered Charlie Cook, editor and publisher of the Cook Political Report who offered a survey of the electoral landscape in 2014 for students writing campaign plans for the Campaign Management Institute. The class re-aired on C-SPAN and C-SPAN Radio. (1/2, 1/3, 1/5)

C-SPAN covered two of the Public Affairs and Advocacy Institute classes that focused on lobbying and immigration. Coverage of both classes re-aired on C-SPAN, C-SPAN3, and C-SPAN Radio. (1/3, 1/4, 1/6, 1/7, 1/8)

Additional Features

What Voter Turnout Means for Efforts to Remedy Income Inequality

The Washington Post

Washington Post.com's The Take column featured government professor Jan Leighley's book Who Votes Now? Demographics, Issues, Inequality, and Turnout in the United States, and her research on demographic changes in voting patterns and trends as they relate to the question of redistributive issues. Washington Post's Wonkblog also mentioned Leighley's research. (1/4, 1/6)

AU Newsmakers March 28 - April 4, 2014

Prepared by University Communications

For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Story

Vard on the Street: Hearing from D.C. Voters

Leading up to the D.C. mayoral primary, AU's SOC students took to the streets to interview residents from all of the District's Wards for Ward on the Streeta video series in partnership with WRC-TV NBC4. Communication professor Sarah Menke-Fish led the project aimed at identifying which issues matter most to residents in D.C.'s neighborhoods. (4/1)

Additional Features

Universities Find Pride in Alums Who Tie the Knot with Fellow Grads

In a trend piece about colleges and universities that track alumni couples who marry, Associated Press spoke to Raina Lenney, assistant vice president of Alumni Relations, about AU's Sweetheart events. Lenney said that the events are successful in building close-knit relationships. More than 35 outlets republished this story, including Washington Post, Houston Chronicle and New York Daily News. (4/1)

Op-Eds/AU Authors
Petro-Aggression: How Russia's Oil Makes War More Likely

In an op-ed for Washington Post's Monkey Cage, international service professor Jeff Colgan argued that Europeans should align their energy policy to be consistent with their political and environmental values. Colgan asserts Europe can help wean Russia off its energy income, and thereby reduce its leader's scope for autocracy at home and belligerence abroad. (4/1)

Expertise

Vladimir Putin Calls Obama about Ukraine Crisis

International service professor Gordon Adams spoke to Los Angeles Times about President Obama's meeting with Saudi Arabia's King Abdullah on whether the Obama administration will supply small anti-aircraft missiles to Syrian rebels. (3/28)

Marian Robinson, the White House's Not-So-Typical Live-in Grandma

Washington Post spoke to executive in residence Anita McBride about how First Lady Michelle Obama's mother Marian Robinson, who lives in the White House, manages to maintain privacy and only enters the public spotlight infrequently such as when she recently accompanied Michelle Obama and her granddaughters on a trip to China. (4/1)

For internal, informational purposes only. Any reproduction is forbidden and prohibited by copyright law.

AU Newsmakers May 16 – May 23, 2014

Prepared by University Communications
For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Stories

Dialogue and Diplomacy in the Reagan-Gorbachev Era

C-SPAN featured AU's Initiative for Russian Culture's Ending the Cold War: Culture, Dialogue and Diplomacy in the Reagan-Gorbachev Era in a three-hour long segment. Anton Fedyashin, director of the Initiative for Russian Culture, moderated as panelists regaled audience members with stories from their experiences working with American and Soviet leadership as the Cold War ended. (5/17)

Green Roofs Could be Answer to Clean DC's Rivers

Associated Press environmental science professor Stephen MacAvoy's research revealing that garden rooftops, or green roofs, in D.C., including those at AU, keep common pollutants out of the Anacostia and Potomac rivers. Washington Post, Washington Times and InTheCapital republished the story. (5/17)

Op-Eds/AU Authors

McConnell's Rand Paul-Style Win

THE WALL STREET JOURNAL. In his Wall Street Journal Washington Counts blog, Dante Chinni, director of the American Communities

Project, examined the results of Tuesday's Republican primaries in Kentucky and Georgia where GOP establishment candidates emerged victorious over their challengers. Chinni concludes these primary results bode well for Republican chances to take over the Senate in November. (5/22)

Six Ways to #BringBackOurGirls in Nigeria

In his co-authored Christian Science Monitor op-ed concerning the nearly 300 Nigerian girls kidnapped by Boko Haram, international service professor Carl LeVan proposed six immediate action items for the Nigerian government and international community to consider. LeVan also spoke to NBCNews.com about the prospects of getting the girls back. (5/17, 5/20)

The U.S. is Really Good at Celebrating War, Peace Not So Much

In an opinion piece for the Huffington Post, Vincent Intondi, director of research for AU's Nuclear Studies Institute, wrote about the collective culture and how compared with expressions of peace, the U.S. engages more in expressions about the virtues of warfare, specifically within the context of certain public architectural spaces and museums. (5/19)

Sex is a Team Sport, and There's No 'I' in Team

Psychology Today featured psychology professor Barry McCarthy's opinion piece on how couples can approach improving their intimate lives as a shared endeavor and learn to embrace the many dimensions and expressions of sexuality. (5/19)

Obama Did Not End Torture

In The Hill's Congress blog, Jeannie Khouri, assistant director of the International Development Program, and Jeff Bachman, professor of international service, explained how President Obama is continuing questionable practices in Guantanamo Bay and Afghanistan that could be in violation of the Torture Convention, despite earlier promises in 2009 to cease such tactics. (5/22)

For internal, informational purposes only. Any reproduction is prohibited and forbidden by copyright law.

AU Newsmakers

Sept. 12 - Sept. 19, 2014

Prepared by University Communications For prior weeks, go to http://www.american.edu/media/inthemedia.cfm

Top Stories

DC Mayoral Candidates Come to AU for First Debate

Associated Press, Washington Post, Washington Times, WRC-NBC4, WUSA-CBS9, WJLA-ABC7, WTTG-FOX5, WNEW, WTOP, WAMU, Washington City Paper and several other local news outlets gathered in AU's Katzen Art Center Abramson Family

Recital Hall for the much anticipated first DC Mayoral Debate between candidates Muriel Bowser, David Catania, and Carol Schwartz. American University, AU's Kennedy Political Union and two community organizations hosted the debate before a capacity crowd and live-stream audience. (9/18, 9/19)

Meet the New Faces of Washington Business Education

In a Q&A with Washington Post's Capital Business, Kogod School of Business dean Erran Carmel discussed the unique challenges facing business schools and how Kogod is adapting to the new MBA environment. (9/14)

Additional Features

Medic Returns from Afghanistan to Broken Family In 'Bliss'

NPR's Weekend Edition spoke with film and media arts professor Claudia Myers about her latest movie "Fort Bliss," a film about a decorated medic and single mother who returns home from an extended tour of duty in Afghanistan to a broken family. (9/13)

White House Game Jam Lures Top Video Game Developers

USA Today featured an AU Game Lab video game developed during the firstever game jam event held at the White House. The event hosted 100 top game designers, including those from AU, to show off their skills, part of an effort by the administration to get technology companies interested in investing, even experimentally, in education. (9/12)

President Obama's ISIS Strategy

School of International Service dean James Goldgeier appeared on C-SPAN's Washington Journal to discuss President Obama's strategy toward defeating Islamic State militants in Syria and Iraq. Goldgeier also explained how U.S. military commitments in Iraq could affect foreign policy in other regions, including

Eastern Europe and China. (9/14)

President Obama to Speak at American University | American University Washington DC

Page 1 of 1

ON CAMPUS

President Obama to Speak at American University

By University Communications Staff

June 30, 2010

President Barack Obama will deliver remarks on the need to fix the nation's broken immigration system through comprehensive immigration reform at American University,

The event, which is by invitation only, will take place in the atrium of the new School of International Service. The speech will be streamed live at: whitehouse.gov/live. For additional information and details visit our Web site.

Obama's immigration address at American University underscores the university's commitment to public service and international understanding, and its tradition of learning from leaders who are connected, influential and deeply engaged in the critical issues of our time.

Obama's remarks will take place at American University's new 70,000-square-foot, eco-friendly School of International Service, the nation's largest such school. Its faculty and students are focused on solutions to the most significant challenges facing our world—works in the truest sense of the word.

Obama returns to American University, the site of the Kennedy family's historic presidential campaign rally endorsement on January 28, 2008. Coming back to deliver a presidential speech, Obama extends AU's history of presidential visits:

In 1914, when American University opened, President Woodrow Wilson gave the dedication.

In 1934, at the launch of AU's program to help train federal employees in new methods of public administration, President Franklin Roosevelt promised it would have the "hearty cooperation" of his administration. The program is now in AU's School of Public Affairs.

In 1957, President Dwight Eisenhower broke ground for the School of International Service and urged all to remember that "the waging of peace demands the best we have."

In 1963, President John Kennedy gave a pivotal foreign policy speech at AU's commencement calling on the Soviet Union to work with the United States on a nuclear test ban treaty.

In 1993, President Bill Clinton addressed AU's Centennial Convocation and focused on the economic leadership America must exert at home and abroad in a new global economy. Clinton returned to AU in 1997 and emphasized the need for equity in accessing higher education.

In 2005, President Jimmy Carter launched the bipartisan Commission on Federal Election Reform from AU.

CONNECT WITH AU Facebook Twitter YouTube LinkedIn Instagram AU Blogs AU Social Media Directory

Home Emergency Preparedness | Work at AU | Media Relations | AU Mobile | Website Feedback

4400 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20016 (202) 885-1000 | Contact Us | Maps

Copyright © 2014 American University. Privacy | Disclosure | EEO

THE ANNUAL REPORT OF AMERICAN UNIVERSITY

1996-1997

TODAY'S GLOBAL UNIVERSITY

American University 4400 Massachusetts Avenue, NW Washington, DC 20016

2009 Commencement Speakers

More than 1,800 undergraduate and graduate students participated in American University commencement events on Saturday. May 9, and Sunday, May 10, in the university's Bender Arena. Individual commencement ceremonies were held for each school.

During its 123rd commencement, AU honored a dedicated public servant, a Walf Street executive, the founding director of a long-awaited national museum, an international human rights activist, and a prominent journalist with the conferral of honorary doctoral degrees to commencement speakers Rep. Barney Frank (D-Mass.); Susan Zirinsky, executive producer of the CBS news magazine 48 Hours, Lonnie Bunch, founding director of the National Museum of African American History and Culture, and John Prendergast, cofounder of the Enough Project. Gary Cohn, president and chief operating officer of Goldman Sachs, spoke but did not receive an honorary degree. Zirinsky, Bunch, Prendergast, and Cohn are AU elums.

SCHOOL OF PUBLIC AFFAIRS CEREMONY

American University's 123rd commencement began with the School of Public Affairs ceremony and speaker Rep. Barney Frank (D-Mass.), who received an honorary Doctor of Public Service degree.

Click here to read the full transcript of Rep. Frank's speech.

Also recognized at the ceremony were student award recipients David Teslicko (Caltryn Seckler-Hudson Award), Carrie Johnson (Fletcher Scholar Award), Justin Bibb (Bruce Hughes Award), Amanda Fulton (Kinsman-Hurst Award), Bill DeSaun (Charles W. Van Wey Award), Carrie Johnson was also recognized with the university's highest honor, the 2009 President's Award.

SCHOOL OF COMMUNICATION CEREMONY

Susan Zirinsky, executive producer of 48 Hours, delivered the second commencement address of the day at the School of Communication ceremony. Zirinsky talked about the seismic change occurring in journalism today, but opened by asking students to say, "I, will get a job."

Click here to read the full transcript of the speech.

COLLEGE OF ARTS AND SCIENCES CEREMONY

Lonnie Bunch, former American University professor and founding director of the Smithsonian's National Museum of African American History and Culture delivered the commencement address for more than 400 graduates of the College of Arts and Sciences.

Click here to read the full transcript of the speech.

Honored at the ceremony were student award recipients Josh Levitz (Outstanding Leadership at the Undergraduate Level), Casey Row (Outstanding Service to the University Community), Irene Schickhardt (Stafford H. Cassell Award), Kate Beran (Harold Johnson Award), and Joseph Berman (Evelyn Swartbout Hayes Award).

KOGOD SCHOOL OF BUSINESS CEREMONY

Gary Cohn, president and chief operating officer of Goldman Sachs, opened the second day of AU's 123rd commencement, addressing the graduates of the Kogod School of Business. A graduate of Kogod, Cohn drew parallels between the state of the economy today and when he graduated in 1982. He told students, despite the economy, with passion and hard work they will succeed.

Click here to read the full transcript of the speech.

Student awards were presented to Anthony Edwards (Charles C. Glover Award) and Mario Beltran (Carlton Savage Award).

SCHOOL OF INTERNATIONAL SERVICE CEREMONY

John Prendergast, an AU School of International Service alum and optounder of the Enough Project—an initiative to end genocide and crimes against humanity—spoke to more than 450 SIS graduates to close out American University's 123rd commencement coromonius.

Click here to read the full transcript of the speech.

CONNECT WITH AU	Facebook	Twitter	YouTube	Linkedin	Instagram	AU Blogs	AU Social Media Directory
Home				Emergency	Emergency Preparedness Work at AU Media Relations AU Mobile Website Feedback

Commencement 2010 Speakers Announced

By Marales Csellar

March 24, 2010

More than 2,500 graduates at American University will hear speeches from the first female president of Chile, three dedicated public servants, an entrepreneur and an Academy-Award winning fillmmaker at AU's 124th main commencement ceremonies on May 8 and 9, followed by the law school ceremony on May 23.

Michelle Bachelet, the first female president of Chile whose term as president ended on March 11, 2010, will speak at the School of International Service ceremony at 4:30 p.m. May 8. A tireless supporter of democracy and human rights in Chile, Bachelet will address graduates who will embark on careers in international relations, diplomacy, human rights, and peace and conflict resolution. Bachelet will receive an honorary doctor of international affairs.

The first fermule attorney general of Anzona, former governor of Anzona and current secretary of homeland security, Janet Napolitano, will address graduates of the College of Arts and Sciences at 1 p.m. May 9. As secretary, Napolitano is building the skills and resources within the Department of Homeland Security by deploying the best that science and technology have to offer. This approach will resonate with the graduates of the arts, sciences and humanilles. Napolitano will receive an honorary doctorate of public security.

Distinguished public servant and educator, Donna E. Shalala will speak to the graduates of the School of Public Affairs at 8 a.m. May 9. Shalala, president of the University of Miami, will return to American University where she was a student in the Washington Semester program. She was also President Clinton's secretary of health and human services. Her years of government service experience combined with her current role as a scholar-feacher will provide graduates of the School of Public Affairs an insider's view on education, policy, and government. Shalala will receive an honorary doctorate in public service.

Cofounder, President and TeaEQ of Honest Tea, Soth Goldman, will address graduates of the Kogod School of Business at 1 p.m. May 8. The entrepreneur's strong advocacy for sustainable farming practices. Fair Trade practices, and corporate social responsibility align with the business school's focus on today's global business environment. Goldman will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

A two-time Academy-Award winning filmmaker, Barbara Kopple will speak to students graduating from the School of Communication at 9 a.m. May 8, Kopple's Harlan County USA and American Dream won the Academy Award for Best Documentary Feature. She serves as an advisory board member for the School of Communication's Center for Social Media, Kopple will receive a doctor of humans letters.

Graduates of the Washington College of Law will hear from the Honorable Eric H. Holder, Jr., attorney general of the United States. Holder is the first African American to serve as the attorney general. He also served as the deputy attorney general and United States attorney during the Clinton administration. Holder began his federal career when he cannot the Department of Justice as part of the Attorney Generals honors program. He was nominated by President Reagan to become an associate judge of the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. The Attorney General will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree at the ceremony on May 23.

In addition to conferring honorary degrees, American University President Nell Kerwin will bestow the President's Award, the highest award for undergraduate atudents, to a graduating senior who has displayed a longistanding commitment to building community and promoting AU's ideals of academic achievement, integrity, selflessness, leadership, and service. At the May 23 ceremony the university will recognize Andrew Popper, professor of law, as the Scholar-Teacher of the Year.

More than 2,000 students will participate in commencement events on Saturday, May 8, and Sunday, May 9, in American University's Bender Arena. It is a longstanding tradition for American University to hold graduation ceremonies on Mother's Day weekend. Two weeks later, on Sunday, May 23, at 1 p.m., 500 students will participate in the Washington College of Law's graduation ceremony, also held in Bender Arena.

CONNECT WITH AU Facebook Twitter YouTube Linkedin Instagram AU Blogs AU Social Media Directory

Homes Emergency Preparedness | Work at AU | Media Relations | AU Mobile | Website Feedback

4400 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20016 (202) 885-1000 | Contact Us | Maps Copyright © 2014 American University, Privacy | Disclosure | EEO

http://www.american.edu/media/news/20100324_Commencement_2010_Speakers_Announced.cfm 9/25/2014 AU064292

Commencement 2011 Speakers Announced

By Marales Csellar

April 18, 2011

Four dedicated public servants—Gene Sperling, Richard Lugar, Aaron Williams and Stephen Zack—journalist Bob Schlieffer; and astronomer Vera Rubin, will address American University's graduates at the 125th commencement ceremonies on May 7 and 8, followed by the law school ceremony on May 22.

The U.S. Senate's most senior Republican, Richard G. Lugar, will address graduates of the School of Public Affairs at 9 a.m. May 7. The two committees he serves on—Foreign Relations and the Agriculture, Nutrition and Forestry—are much like AU's future public service graduates who are globally involved, riationally focused and locally engaged. Lugar will receive an honorary doctorate of public service.

Veteran journalist Bob Schieffer, moderator of CBS Face the Nation, will speak to the graduates of the School of Communication at 1 p.m. May 7. One of the few broadcast or print journalists to have covered all four major beats in the nation's capital—the White House, the Pentagon, the State Department and Capital Hill—Schieffer will share his knowledge and know-how with students who are redefining communication in this digital age. Schieffer will receive an honorary doctorate of humane letters.

National Medal of Science recipient Vera C. Rubin, an American astronomer who established the presence of dark matter in galaxies, will speak to students graduating from the College of Arts and Sciences at 4:30 p.m. May 7. A fascination for the stars as a youth motivated this science work to pursue answers to questions that most scientists believed were obvious and her research has disproved previously accepted theories on the universe. Rubin will receive an honorary doctor of science

Gene Sperling, director of the National Economic Council and assistant to the president for economic policy, will speak at the Kogod School of Büsiness ceremony at 9 a.m. May 8. He recently served as counselor to Treasury Secretary Tim Getthner—as a key advisor on fiscal, budget, tax, job creation and small business issues—and previously served as director of the National Economic Council under President Clinton. In addition to his economic work, Sperling has specialized on education in poor and conflict-affected nations. Sperling will provide insight about today's rapidly changing global business economic environment and will receive an honorary doctor of laws.

Celebrating its 50th anniversary, Peace Corps Director Aaron S. Williams will address graduates of the School of International Service at 1 p.m. May 8. A former Peace Corps volunteer himself, Williams' own career path in the development and implementation of worldwide assistance programs will inspire many graduating students who also have the same desire to create meaningful change. AU is fourth among medium-sized colleges with the most (55) alumni volunteers currently serving in the Peace Corps. Williams will receive an honorary doctor of international affairs.

Stephen N. Zack, the first Hispanic and Cuban-American president of the American Ber Association, will speak at the Washington College of Law ceremony on May 22. Zack's ABA Initiatives to focus on Hispanic legal rights and responsibilities, as well as the need for increased civic education in schools will resonate with the graduates at one of the top-tien most diverse schools of law in the nation. Zack will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree.

In addition to conferring honorary degrees, American University President Neil Kerwin will bestow the President's Award, the highest award for undergraduate students, to a graduating senior who has displayed a longistanding commitment to building community and promoting AU's ideals of scademic schievement, integrity, selflesseness, teadership, and service. At the May 7 School of Public Affairs ceremony, the university will recognize Robert Durant, professor of public administration, as the Scholar-Teacher of the Year

American University will confer degrees on more than 3,500 undergraduate, graduate and law school students, More than 2,400 will participate in the commencement events on Saturday, May 7, and Sunday, May 8, in American University's Bender Arens. It is a longstanding tradition for American University to hold graduation ceremony, also held in Bender Arens.

Only weekend. Two weeks later, on Sunday, May 22, at 1 p.m., students will participate in the Washington College of Law's graduation ceremony, also held in Bender Arens.

Families and friends who cannot make the ceremonies will be able to watch a live stream of each ceremony on the American University Website. Students, elumni, friends and family are also encouraged to follow AU's Commencement on the Facebook group, and tweet during commencement using the hashtag—#2011AUGrad.

CONNECT WITH AU Facebook Twitter YouTube LinkedIn Instagram AU Blogs AU Social Media Directory

Home Emergency Preparedness | Work at AU | Media Relations | AU Mobile | Website Feedback

http://www.american.edu/media/news/20110418-Commencement-2011-Speakers-Announced.cfm 9/25/2014 AU064293

Commencement 2012 Speakers Announced

By Marales Csellar

April 17, 2012

Dedicated public servants from the White House, Smithsonian, and USAID, and the CEOs from The Associated Press and Calvert Investments will address American University's graduates at the 126th commencement ceremonies on May 12 and 13, followed by the law school ceremony on May 20.

Associated Press president and CEO Tom Curley will address graduates of the School of Communication at 9 a.m. May 12: As leader of the Associated Press since 2003, Curley has moved to capture the growing audience for digital and video news in a rapidly changing media world. He will address students who are launching their careers in an expanding digital environment. Curley will receive an honorary doctorate of humane letters.

Celvert Investments Inc. CEO Barbara J: Krumsiek will speak to the graduates of the Kogod School of Business at 1 p.m. May 12. At Calvert, Krumsiek has been an advocate for issues relating to the advancement of women and corporate social responsibility. This year, she is leading the discourse within the global investment community on the links between sustainability and financial performance. As Kogod launches its master of science in sustainability management this fall. Krumsiek's advice will resonate with gradualing students seeking carears in today's global marketplace. Krumsiek will receive an honorary doctorate of laws.

Dr. Rajiv Shah, the administrator for the United States Agency for International Development (USAID), will speak at 4:30 p.m. May 12 to students from AU's School of International Service who are seeking to make meaningful change in the world after graduation. As administrator, he has led President Obamo's Feed the Future food security initiative, and has managed "USAID Forward"—reforms to USAID's business model, including procurement, science & technology, and monitoring & evaluation. Shah, a medical doctor, will receive an honorary doctor of international affairs.

Erskine B. Bowles' lifelong commitment to public service and to promoting economic growth in his home state of North Carolina will be of interest to the future politicians, campaign staffers and policy works graduating from the School of Public Affairs at 9 a.m. May 13. His career has spanned both education and politics as the former president of the University of North Carolina system, former White House chief of staff to President Bill Clinton, former director of the Small Business Administration and most recently co-chair of the bipartisan National Commission on Fiscal Responsibility and Reform. He will receive an honorary doctor of public service.

Wayne Clough, secretary of the Smithsonian Institution, will address graduates of the College of Arts and Sciences at 1 p.m. May 13. Guided by a new strategic plan and using new technology, the Smithsonian is expanding access to its collections and experts to sperk discovery and excite the learning in everyone, no matter where they live. Work continues on four grand challenges.—Unlocking the Mysteries of the Universe, Uniderstanding and Sustaining a Biodiverse Planet, Valuing World Cultures and Understanding the American Experience—much in the same way that American University's students have emphasized the arts and sciences in their studies in order to connect them to the larger issues of contemporary society. Clough will receive an honorary doctor of public service.

Valerie Jarrett, senior advisor to President Barack Obama and chair of the White House Council on Women and Girls will speak at the Washington College of Law ceremony on May 20. Jarrett has held positions in both the public and private sector, including the chairman of the Chicago Transit Board; commissioner of planning and development for the City of Chicago, and deputy chief of staff for Mayor Richard M. Daley. Jarrett will receive an honorary doctor of time degree.

In addition to conferring honorary degrees, American University President Neil Kerwin will bestow the President's Award, the highest award for undergraduate students, to a graduating senior who has displayed a longstanding commitment to building community and promoting AU's ideals of academic achievement, integrity, selflessness, leadership, and service.

American University will confer degrees on more than 3,500 undergraduate, graduate and law school students. More than 2,400 will participate in the commencement events on Saturday. May 12, and Sunday, May 13, in American University's Bender Arena. It is a longstanding tradition for American University to hold graduation ceremonies on Mother's Day weekend. One week later, on Sunday, May 20, at 1 p.m., students will participate in the Washington College of Law's graduation ceremony, also held in Bender Arena.

Families and friends who cannot make the ceremonies will be able to watch a live stream of each ceremony on the American University website. Students, alumni, friends and family are also encouraged to follow AU's Commencement on the Facebook group, and tweet during commencement using the hashtag—#2012AUGrad.

CONNECT WITH AU Facebook Twitter YouTube LinkedIn Instagram AU Blogs AU Social Media Directory

Homes

Emergency Preparedness | Work at AU | Media Relations | AU Mobile | Website Feedback

http://www.american.edu/media/news/20120417-Commencement-2012-Speakers-Announced.cfm 9/25/2014 AU064295

Commencement 2013 Speakers Announced

By Maralee Csellar

April 11, 2013

Leaders in humanitarian medical assistance, the music and entertainment industries, an internationally renowned author and journalist, and former officials at the Environmental Protection Agency and Department of State, will address American University's graduates at the 127th commencement ceremonies on May 11 and 12, followed by the law school ceremony on May 19

Lisa P. Jackson, former administrator of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency, will address graduates of the School of Public Affairs at 9 a.m., Saturday, May 11. During her four years with the EPA, she authorized stricter fuel standards, addressed health threats from toxins, and renewed public trust in EPA's work. The lifetong public servant's advice will resentate with the nation's most politically active students. Jackson will receive an honorary doctor of public service.

DreamWorks Television co-president Darryl Frank (SOC/BA '91) will speak to the graduates of the School of Communication at 1 p.m., Saturday, May 11. He oversees all television development, production, and programming for the studio, and is executive producing five shows on five different networks, including NBC's Smash, Showtime's The Borgian, TNT's Falling Skies. FX's The Americans, and CBS's Under The Dome. The 1991 aluminus of AU's School of Communication will address graduates as they embark on careers in broadcast, public relations, and journalism. Frank will receive an honorary doctor of humane letters.

Anthropologist and physician Dr. Paul Farmer will provide advice to the College of Arts and Sciences works who have emphasized the sciences, social sciences, humanities, education, and arts in their studies in order to connect them to society's larger issues at 4:30 p.m., Saturday, May 1.1. Known for his work on health, human rights, and the consequences of social inequality, Farmer is chair of the Department of Global Health and Social Medicine at Harvard Medical School, and also serves as U.N. Special Adviser to the Secretary-General on Community-based Medicine and Lessons from Haiti. Farmer will receive an honorary doctor of science.

Business magui Gary Veloric (Kogod/BSBA '82) lounder of Red Stripe Plane Group, a family of companies focused on entertainment and music, will speak at the Kogod School of Business ceremony at 9 a.m.; Sunday, May 12. After a career in healthcare, and investment banking as chairman of J.G. Wentworth, Veloric followed his passion for music, which dates back to his concert planning days at AU. Considering today's ever-changing business landscape, Veloric's story will inspire future entrepreneurs. He will receive an honorary Dostor of Laws.

Moisés Naim, senior associate in the International Economics Program at the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, will address School of International Service graduates hoping to create meaningful change in today's global society at 1 p.m., Sunday, May 12. The international economics and politics work's career has spanned the worlds of journalism, as former editor-in-chief of Foreign Policy, to public service, as Venazuela's minister of trade and industry, and executive director of the World Bank. Naim will necesse an honorary doctor of international affairs.

Harold Hongju Koh, former legal advisor to the U.S. Department of State, will speak at the Washington College of Law ceremony at 1 p.m. on Sunday, May 19. Koh, a Starting Professor of International Law at Yale Law School, is one of the country's leading experts in public and private international law, national security law, and human rights. He will receive an honorary doctor of laws.

In addition to conferring honorary degrees, American University President Neil Kerwin will present the President's Award, the highest award for undergraduate students, to a graduating senior who has displayed a longstanding commitment to building community and promoting AU's ideats of academic achievement, integrity, selflesaness, leadership, and service.

American University will confer degrees on more than 3,500 undergraduate, graduate and law school students. More than 2,500 will participate in the commencement events on Saturday, May 11, and Sunday, May 12, in American University's Bender Arena. It is a longistanding tradition for American University to hold graduation ceremonies on Mother's Day weekend. One week later, on Sunday, May 19, at 1 p.m., students will participate in the Washington College of Law's graduation ceremony, also held in Bender Arena.

Families and friends who cannot make the ceremonies will be able to watch a live stream of each ceremony on the American University website. Students, alumnii, friends, and family are also encouraged to follow AU's Commencement on the Facebook group, and tweet during commencement using the hashtag—#2013AUGrad.

CONNECT WITH AU Facebook Twitter YouTube LinkedIn Instagram AU Blogs AU Social Media Directory

Home Emergency Proparedness | Work at AU | Media Relations | AU Mobile | Wobsite Feedback

4400 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20016 (202) 885-1000 | Contact Us | Maps Copyright © 2014 American University, Privacy | Disclosure | EEO

http://www.american.edu/media/news/20130408 graduation speakers 2013.cfm

9/25/2014 AU064297

CONNECT WITH AU Facebook Twitter YouTube LinkedIn Instagram AU Blogs AU Social Media Directory

4400 Massachusetts Avenue, NW, Washington, DC 20016 (202) 885-1000 | Contact Us | Maps

Home

Copyright © 2014 American University, Privacy | Disclosure | EEO

Emergency Preparedness | Work at AU | Media Relations | AU Mobile | Website Feedback

http://www.american.edu/commencement/2014.cfm

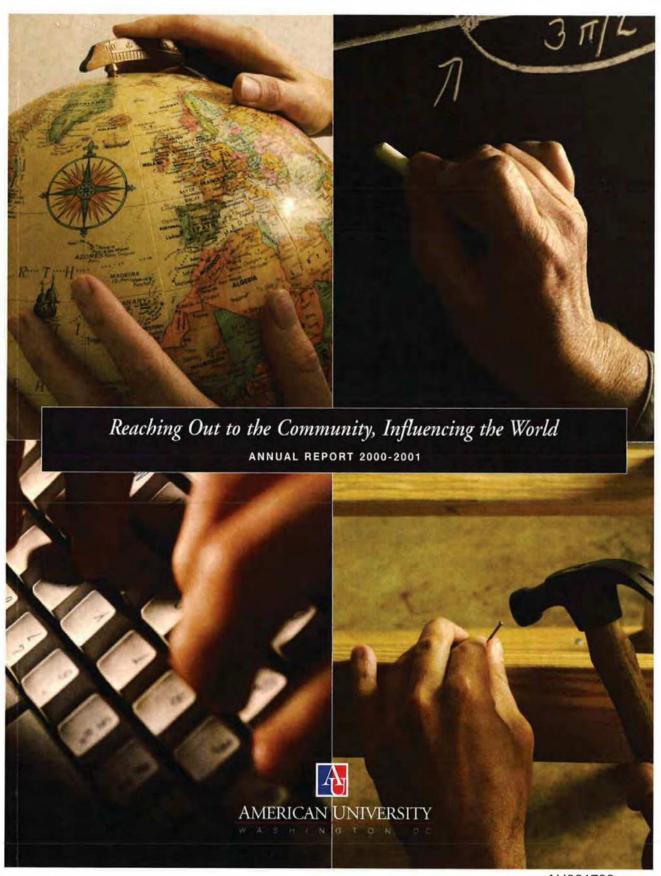

9/25/2014 AU064298

Living american
THE FACE OF THE UNIVERSITY

Annual Report 1999-2000

AU061733

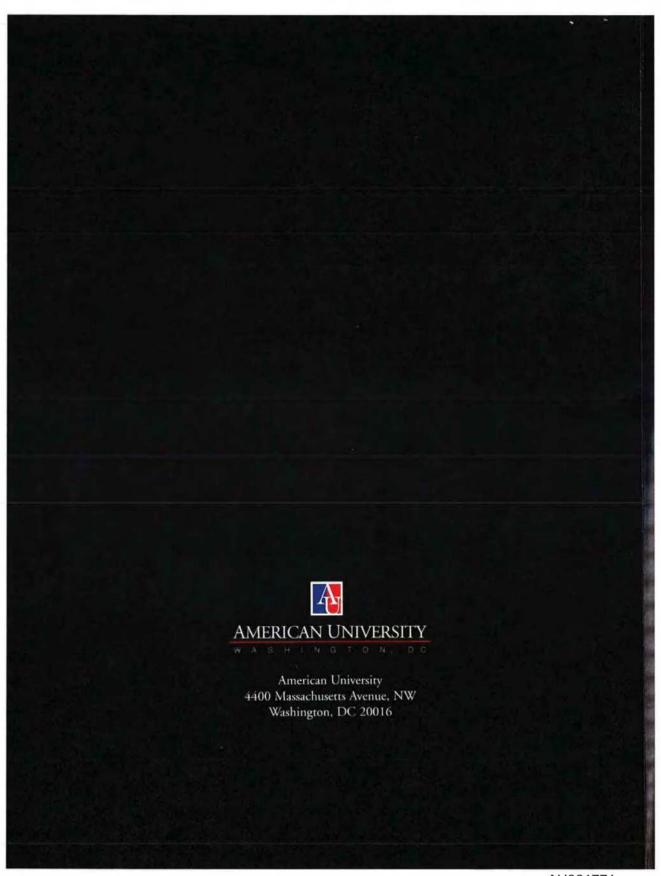

Exhibit D85

ON CAMPUS

AU Announces 2016 Commencement Speakers

By Kelly Alexander | April 19, 2016

AU's six spring commencement ceremonies will be held in early May.

Note: Students, alumni friends, and family who cannot attend the ceremonies will be able to watch a live stream of each ceremony on AU's commencement website. (/commencement/index-OLD-DESIGN.cfm) The live stream will be active about an hour prior to each ceremony. Share your commencement experiences on social media with the hashtag #2016AUGrad.

American University will hold to tradition and host its 131st commencement ceremonies on Mother's Day weekend on campus in Bender Arena with an impressive group of commencement speakers to offer advice and congratulations to roughly 3,500 graduates. AU's 2016 commencement speakers demonstrate compassion, integrity and unwavering commitment in their work and to enhancing lives across the nation. Individual school ceremonies will be held on May 7 and 8, followed by the law school ceremony on May 22.

María Elena Salinas, one of the most recognized and influential journalists in the country will address the graduates of the School of Communication (http://www.american.edu/soc/), 9 a.m., Saturday, May 7. Salinas has been described as the "Voice of Hispanic America" by the New York Times. She is the co-anchor of Noticiero Univision, the most watched newscast by U.S. Hispanics and co-hosts Univision's primetime newsmagazine Aquí y Ahora

Exhibit D86

INTERNATIONAL

AU Catches Justin Fever

By Gregg Sangillo | March 13, 2016

Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau and American University President Neil Kerwin greeting AU students.

If Canada really is the United States' oft-forgotten neighbor to the north, nobody told Justin Trudeau. The charismatic Canadian Prime Minister has been all over the U.S. news media, and he's certainly grabbed the attention of official Washington.

Last week kicked off with Trudeau's prime time interview on 60 Minutes. He later met with President Barack Obama at the White House, the first official visit by a Canadian leader since 1997. Trudeau also made a special appearance at American University's School of International Service (/sis/index.cfm), where he gave an inspiring speech and fielded questions from AU students.

In His Own Words

Trudeau's message was largely student-oriented and forward-looking. "The work that President Obama and I did yesterday wasn't so much focused on the coming months, as much as the coming decades. We're focused on your future," he said.

INTERNATIONAL

Mark Rutte, Prime Minister of the Netherlands, to visit SIS March 31

By Anne Deekens | March 22, 2016

Mark Rutte, Prime Minister of the Netherlands—the nation that currently holds the European Union presidency—will speak (/sis/events/index.cfm) at the School of International Service (SIS) Atrium at 2:15 p.m., Thursday, March 31. The discussion will be livestreamed here (/sis/events/index.cfm).

"I'm delighted that Prime Minister Rutte has elected to visit SIS and speak with our students," said Dean James Goldgeier (/sis/faculty/jgoldgei.cfm). "Mr. Rutte has a leading role in the most pressing challenges facing the EU, including the refugee crisis, relations with Russia, and the upcoming UK referendum. The reason for his DC visit - the Nuclear Security Summit - provides additional material for what I know will be a fascinating and informative discussion. Mr. Rutte's visit takes on added significance in the wake of the horrific attacks in Brussels."

Professor Michelle Egan (/sis/faculty/megan.cfm), an expert on the EU, will introduce Mr. Rutte and moderate the subsequent question and answer session with SIS students, faculty, and alumni.

In his opening remarks, Mr. Rutte will discuss the Dutch priorities during its presidency of the EU, which continues through the end of June. He will also highlight the strong bilateral ties between the Netherlands and the United States—a relationship critical to the Netherlands' international values, according to Jan Post, SIS Director of Financial Operations and fellow Dutch national.