1[P]. A computer-implemented method comprising:	LG infringes directly and/or indirectly by performing, inducing others to perform, and/or causing the performance of: a computer-implemented method [of claim 1]. The Accused Products meet the claim limitations by providing device-location tracking features described below. For example, the Accused Products meet the claim limitations because they are pre-installed with Android mobile operating systems containing code for providing device location tracking features as provided in the claims limitations herein. For example, the Accused Products run applications and/or software that run within the Android mobile operating system and use various components of the Android mobile operating system to provide device-location tracking features. In addition to the components and features of the Android mobile operating system itself, the following applications and/or software run within the Android mobile operating system and use various components of the Android mobile operating system to provide device-location tracking features: Device Manager, Find My Phone, Find My Device, Google Latitude, Google Plus, Google Maps, Google Messages, Android Messenger, Google Allo, Google Duo, and Google Assistant. The Accused Products meet the claim limitations under at least two exemplary methods shown below, which may be useable together or separately. Find My Device: Android Device Manager is the predecessor to Find My Device and has been available as a standard, pre-installed feature since 2013 and downloadable as a software application. In a later iteration, Find My Device, often called the “new and improved Android Device Manager,” is now part of the standard Google Play Protect suite which is pre-installed and enabled on all devices,” i.e., the Accused Products running Android OS. Upon information, the Find My Device method also uses and/or works in conjunction with functionalities as provided in the claims limitations herein, such as Google Maps, Google Messages, Android Messenger, Location Access, Google Chrome, and Google Assistant, which come pre-installed on the Accused Products. For the purposes of avoiding needlessly cumulative and duplicative evidence, AGIS sets forth the Find My Device feature of the Accused Products as representative of this first exemplary method. AGIS reserves the right to supplement this evidence to the extent that defendant requires additional information in accordance with P.R. 37.1(c) for any reason for which it may deem necessary. See, e.g., https://www.androidcentral.com/find-my-device;
