Hi Eric,

In general, we do not think any extensions should be needed. Nevertheless, after substantial internal discussion this week of the two-week extension that you previously proposed, Realtek is willing to agree to a 10-day extension of time for both deadlines.

The extension of time for TCL may not be relevant if TCL requests the automatic stay. However, if TCL does not request the automatic stay under §1659, and if AMD believes a further extension is warranted in order to sync the deadlines, we can consider that further issue next week.

Best regards,
Robert

Robert,

Just an update on our end. AMD and TCL are close to coming to an agreement which will actually extend the contentions deadline (both sides') by 3 weeks. AMD's to July 26, and the same 3 week extension for TCL's invalidity contentions. Assuming you all are unopposed, just wanted to update you on the latest. We think it makes sense to keep those deadlines the same across the parties.

Thanks again. Look forward to hearing back from you.

Hi Eric,

Our apologies for the slow response.

Regarding the issue of a stay, we do not currently intend to request a mandatory stay under §1659, but we will continue to evaluate the option with our client prior to the deadline for filing.

Concerning the request to push back the infringement and invalidity contention deadlines by two weeks, we are consulting with Realtek and hope to get back to you in the next day or two. Thanks for your patience.

Best regards,
Robert

Robert,

Hi. Wanted to touch base and follow up on our call last week. Any update on 1) our request to push back the infringement and invalidity contention deadlines by two weeks, respectively?; and 2) if you know RealTek's intention w/r/t seeking a mandatory stay in light of the ITC action?

Thank you.

Eric
