Howard,

Thanks for the call. I think it s was production. Here are the dates we agreed just now:

May 16: exchange revised initial exhibit lists (limited to 200 exhibit s per side); deposition designation objections; deposition counter-designations

May 20: exchange rebuttal exhibit lists

May 22: exchange objections to revised initial exhibit lists and rebuttal exhibit lists; deposition counter-designation objections; counter-counter-designations (if any)

May 24: meet and confer regarding objections to exhibit lists and deposition designations

May 25: submission of pretrial order

We also agreed to keep communications open regarding objections to exhibit lists and deposition designations and, should the parties narrow their lists/objections, we will submit revised lists to the court in advance of the pretrial conference, which takes place June 7.

Please confirm this is your understanding of our agreement.

Thanks,

Howard,

We agree. No exchange tonight; we'll make the exchange Wednesday. Please let us know when on Monday you're available to discuss limits.

Thanks,
Kfir

Hi Kfir,

We agree the parties need to narrow the lists. As we just discussed, ZTE proposes we move all the items due today until Weds. on Monday we can have a call to agree on the exact limits the parties will agree to. Please confirm. Thanks, Howard

Counsel,

In light of the court's comments following the hearing yesterday, we propose that the parties revise—and substantially reduce—their respective exhibit lists. The court made clear that submission of exhibit lists with over 500 exhibits will not be tolerated.

Therefore, we propose the parties exchange revised exhibit lists (to include rebuttal exhibits, too) on Wednesday, May 16. The parties should endeavor to limit their respective lists to no more than 200 exhibits, including rebuttal exhibits. We also propose the parties provide their objections to the exhibit lists on May 22. This would replace the current schedule, but for exhibits only. The schedule for the remaining pretrial disclosures would remain unchanged.

In light of today's deadline, please let us know as soon as possible if you agree. If you do not agree, we will ultimately raise the issue of ZTE's 500+ exhibit list with the court, but we believe this proposal is workable and we are hopeful that we need not reach out to the court to resolve this particular issue.

We are available to discuss by phone if that would be helpful.

Thanks,

Kfir B. Levy
