Why Work at Pitt?

The University of Pittsburgh is home to a vibrant and diverse community, both between faculty, staff, students, and alumni, as well as between all campuses. Our ever-growing community is full of achievers in academics, athletics, and research, where we are consistently recognized for our excellence.

Pitt's history is full of successful researchers, scientists, athletes, doctors, and more who have all made the University of Pittsburgh the internationally-recognized institution it is today.

University of Pittsburgh at a Glance

Ranked among the top 5 percent of 1,000 universities in 65 countries, Pitt is home to more than 5,600 part- and full-time faculty, more than 8,200 part- and full-time staff, and nearly 800 research and post-doctoral associates. Over 24,000 undergraduate, 9,000 graduate, and 2,000 doctorate students study at our 5 campuses. Our numbers are constantly growing at Pitt! Explore more facts and figures in the University Fact Book, compiled by the Office of Institutional Research (<https://ir.pitt.edu/facts-publications/factbook/>).

Rich Traditions

Founded in 1787, Pitt is one of the country's oldest and most prestigious institutions of higher education. Pitt people have defeated polio, unlocked the secrets of DNA, lead the world in organ transplantation, and pioneered TV and heavier-than-air flight, among many other accomplishments.
